Reports Have Cohorts Dickering to Join La Follette, Cause Tie-up and Then Put 'Charley' Over

BY DONALD EWING
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LINCOLN (Neb.) Sept. 7.—As John W. Davis swings through the West pleading for agricultural votes, the ugly story is being told that cohorts of his own running-mate, Charles W. Bryan, are negotiating with La Follette leaders to double-cross Davis.

The Bryan strength in the western and northwest State, with the exception of Nebraska, will be thrown to La Follette, it is declared. In return, it is asserted, if the election should be deadlocked into Congress, La Follette would turn his Senate strength to making Bryan Vice-President; and, perhaps, by creating a deadlock in the House on the Presidential election would automatically make Bryan President.

STORY GETS BACKING

In other words, those responsible for the story say the Bryan outfit is willing to knife its own Presidential nominee, Davis, to take the 100-to-1 shot of getting Bryan to Washington. The story is of more than cock-and-bull type. It was confirmed to this correspondent by a Democratic United States Congressman who frankly admitted—confidentially—that he might become a party to the plan. It was confirmed again in Omaha, by a La Follette leader. Bryan, himself, however, declined to discuss the matter as unworthy of reply.

The matter undoubtedly has been brought to the attention of Mr. Davis and his closest aides, but he, of course, would say nothing. He speaks today in Lincoln with Bryan and tonight was en route through Nebraska and Kansas, expecting to arrive in Denver tomorrow morning.

If this double-crossing is carried out, Nebraska will be excepted because the Bryan followers want Charley to maintain his political strength in his own State. It is in the neighboring States that it would be put into effect.

The La Follette men believe that by adding Bryan's agricultural strength to their own in the West, they would be sure of getting enough electoral votes for La Follette to deadlock the election — which seems to be one of his objectives.

La Follette's strength is reported somewhat on the decline in this section with Coolidge steadily gaining because of good crop conditions. This is especially true in Minnesota, North Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas, if the reports coming into the leaders are correct.

TRADES IN 1920

Whether the idea of such a trade originated on the La Follette or the Bryan side is unknown, but it is well known that the Bryan brothers, W. J. and Charles—are old-time political "hoss" traders and that when it comes to making a deal to help a Bryan, it matters little who suffers.

Back in 1920 there were some trades here in Nebraska; in fact some of those who are close enough to the inside to be worth listening to, insist that it was through trading that Charley became Governor.

In that year, despite the great Republican landslide, Charley was elected Governor by a Democratic majority of 5000. Senator Gilbert Hitchcock, Democratic power in Washington as well as Nebraska, was defeated by about the same majority. Political lieutenants working for Bryan are said to have swung many Democratic votes to Howell, the Republican candidate who won. In strong Howell sections, it is declared, many Republican votes went to Bryan.

Mr. Davis will hold an informal hand-shaking affair in Denver tomorrow morning and will proceed to Rocky Mountain National Park for two days' rest before resuming his speech-making in Denver Wednesday night. Then will come the trip to Cheyenne and the return to the East with numerous stops en route.

WIFE KILLS GIRL WITH REVOLVER

Officer's Mate Enraged When She Sees Husband Near Young Woman

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHILDRESS (Tex.) Sept. 7.—Mrs. Clara Maddux, 21 years of age, of Decatur, Tex., wife of H. B. Maddux, a deputy State game warden, stationed in this district, shot and instantly killed Miss Annabel Barker, 23, at noon today in front of a local hotel. Miss Barker was sitting in a car when fired upon.

Mrs. Maddux had never seen Miss Barker but had a photograph of her when she saw the girl and opened fire with a small revolver at close range.

Maddux, her husband, was standing near the car reading some mail and did not notice his wife until she approached and began firing.

Mrs. Maddux, who was arrested immediately after the shooting, told officials that she had purchased the pistol at Elk City, but did not intend to use it, but she claimed that she lost her mind in a fit of rage when she saw Miss Barker in the automobile with her husband standing near it.

At a coroner's inquest today, the verdict was that Miss Barker came to death by gunshot wounds inflicted by Mrs. Maddux. She is being held for hearing.

Mrs. Maddux expressed no regret over the shooting. She is the mother of a boy of 5.

Bandit Holds Up Officials, Robs Baseball Office

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

PORTLAND (Or.) Sept. 7.—William H. Klepper, president of the Portland Baseball Club; Fred B. Rivers, secretary, and George Vranizan, his assistant, reported to the police tonight they were held up in the baseball headquarters of the Portland club in a downtown office building shortly after 6 p.m., by a masked man, who robbed them of about $5000 belonging to the club. The robber escaped after tying the three men. The robbery was reported to the police shortly after when the victims freed themselves.

Trace of Rain at Bay City Makes Roads Slippery

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7.—San Francisco today received its first rain of the waning summer. Only a trace less than one one-hundredth of an inch fell, according to the Wealther Bureau, but it was enough to make the streets slippery for autoists. Tomorrow will be clear again, according to the forecast.

VETERAN IN DETROIT BUSINESS LIFE DIES

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

DETROIT, Sept. 7.—William A. Black, 50 years of age, Detroit business man for nearly a score of years, died at his home, 625 West Canfield avenue. Last May, while testing out some machinery at Brooklyn, Mich., Mr. Black was overcome by monoxide gas. After a partial recovery his health continued to decline. He was the organizer of the National Grain Products Company and served as its president and general manager for the last three years.

BLAMES COOLIDGE FOR DELAY IN SUGAR DROP

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Chairman Shaver of the Democratic National Committee declared in a statement today that "President Coolidge's delay in adopting the majority recommendation of the Tariff Commission that the duty on sugar be reduced ½ cent a pound is costing American consumers an average of $145,000 a day." The proposed decrease, Mr. Shaver said, would be of special advantage to housewives, "just now in the midst of the preserving season."

WAR DENIAL INFLAMES

French Protest to Germany

England Prepares to Act as Disclaimer of Guilt by Berlin Brings Crisis

Herriot Denounces Move as "Fatal Step;" Geneva is Fearful of Future

BY GEORGE SELDES
[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BERLIN, Sept. 7.—An international sensation, which is expected to have far-reaching consequences, including perhaps an internal crisis in Germany, arose today when the French Ambassador, De Margerie, acting on orders of Premier Herriot, delivered a sharp protest to the German government against the German note disclaiming guilt for starting the war.

This German note is ready for dispatch to the Allies, prepared at the request of the German Nationalists after a country-wide campaign, and has for its purpose the undermining of the Versailles Treaty and the entire question of reparations. Chancellor Marx was forced to prepare such a note, it is said in diplomatic circles, as payment for the Nationalists' support of the Dawes plan. Without the Nationalists' forty-eight votes, it would have been impossible for the German Reichstag to pass the laws making the Dawes plan practical, and in payment of this action the Nationalists, who have been yelling that every one except Germany is guilty of the war, demanded that their view be given official sanction by a note to the Allies.

CALLED FATAL STEP

The French Ambassador informed State Secretary Baron Maltzan this morning that Germany's action in such a note "would be a fatal mistake," coming as it does at a time when Prime Minister MacDonald, Premier Herriot and Premier Theunis at the Geneva conference had showed the world that these three nations had radically changed their attitude toward Germany since the London conference and for the first time in years a real spirit of conciliation was animating the Allies. The French government, through its envoy, pointed out to Germany the seriousness of its action.

The Ambassador informed Germany how seriously the Geneva conference viewed the first rumors of the contemplated note and how strongly Premier Herriot had protested against it before leaving Geneva.

It is expected that the British Ambassador will second his French colleague with a similar protest upon orders from Prime Minister MacDonald.

The seriousness with which Premier Herriot views the sensational attempt to unearth the war guilt question was shown at a conference with newspapermen at Geneva immediately after Prime Minister MacDonald's statement that

EDISON PRAISES COOLIDGE

Electrical Wizard Tells Why He Will Cast Ballot for President and Dawes

BY ROBERT B. ARMSTRONG
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—In the first comprehensive interview given on the present political campaign, Thomas A. Edison in his laboratory in West Orange, N. J., made public the reasons why he is going to vote for Coolidge and Dawes.

In this interview Mr. Edison put into practice for the benefit of the interviewer the famous Edison questionnaire method of exchanging information. The interviewer met Mr. Edison by appointment in the library of the Edison plant at Llewellyn Park, and by request of an assistant a series of questions was prepared in the anteroom of the library for submission to Mr. Edison, all the questions being grouped on one sheet of paper. The interviewer was ushered to a seat on the right-hand side of Mr. Edison, who was busy checking over an account that lay on his desk. Suddenly he looked up—the interview had begun.

"I'm no politician. Coolidge? Oh, yes."

So the first question was popped.

REASONS FOR STAND

"Will you state why you are going to vote for Coolidge and Dawes?"

"I shall vote for Coolidge and Dawes because I believe both men are practical, will get results and throw a bomb into that enormous expense account we have down in Washington known as the bureaucracy. Both men are economically sound and are a wonderful balance wheel for this country. There'll be good teamwork in that team."

"Did you find the people satisfied with Coolidge on your recent trip to Vermont with Henry Ford and Harvey Firestone?"

"I don't remember having come in contact with a single person who was not in favor of Coolidge. The people have confidence in him, for he thinks logically and squarely and really is an iron man."

"Do you think the President's early environment has much to do with his grasp on the economic situation of the country?"

"Yes, decidedly. He was born in an economical environment and economy and hard sense were born in him."

PLAN SIMPLE

"What do you think of the Dawes plan?"

"Dawes works from complex to simplex," he answered. "Most people work the other way. His plan is simplicity itself. It should put Europe back on its feet."

"Do you look for a large vote being cast this coming election?"

"Yes, I do. I think the people are waking up to the fact that getting out and voting is one of the most important things they could do. I personally will take the greatest of pleasure in voting."

Stockton Man Slain in Fight With Fine Bull

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

STOCKTON, Sept. 7.—In a terrific battle with an enraged bull lasting over fifteen minutes and before the eyes of his terrified wife, Durward Frank Graves, Lathrop dairyman, today received injuries from which he died a half-hour later. The man twice sought refuge beneath small buildings, but each time the bull, a valuable pure-bred animal, razed the frail structures to continue his attacks.

NEBRASKA DOCTOR DIES

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

OMAHA, Sept. 7.—Dr. S. F. Ashby of Fairmont, Neb., is dead. He was a pioneer citizen of Fairmont and was well known throughout the State and to the medical profession. He was a member of various Masonic bodies and maintained a great interest in development of his community, particularly parks. Dr. Ashby was 59 years of age.

THREATENED BY MOORS

Tangier May Stir World Row

Fear Felt Natives Will Try to Capture City After Spanish Reverses

American Charge as Head of Internationalized Area Has Responsibility

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS, Sept. 7.—Tangier, that name which has a peculiar sobering effect upon the statesmen of Europe, is on the lips of the diplomats again.

Word comes from there that the diplomatic representatives of the powers are seriously alarmed at the news of skirmishing between Spanish troops and natives within twenty miles of the city on the road to Tetuan. Several tribes nominally subject to the native Chief Raisuli, have thrown in their lot with Abd-El-Krim. If they so desire they can march to Tangier and cause an international row of the very first importance.

AMERICAN IS CHIEF

Tangier is an internationalized city, governed by a diplomatic council of which the charge d'affaires of the United States is now president. On him would fall the task of defending the city if the Moors came. The international gendarmerie there number 1000, half French and half Spanish.

The military events of the last few weeks have dealt terrible reverses to Spain's prestige in Morocco. At El Araish on the Atlantic Coast, Ceuta, across from Gibraltar, Tetuan, Tangier and other points behind the Spanish lines there have been small native uprisings among tribes hitherto accounted faithful.

Already certain elements in the vicinity of Ceuta are becoming exceedingly restless. The fighters travel by night and sleep in gullies by day. Tangier is virtually cut off from the rest of Morocco.

The American Charge d'Affaires, who wanted to go quail hunting recently was informed that firing at birds would be likely to draw shots from the natives. From Casbay, the old Sultan's palace on a height back of the town, the sound of artillery firing can occasionally be heard. At night Spanish signal lights can be seen on the surrounding mountains.

MOORS CARRY FIGHT

Matters are going from bad to worse in Spain's Moroccan war. This year's campaign began in July. It has resulted, in nothing but checks to Spanish plans for evacuation.

Since the beginning of July Spain has lost several thousand men in killed and wounded. Nine hundred were lost in the single action of Cobba Darsa, while every official communique contains a casualty list. Post after post has been evacuated and lines of communication between vital places like Ceuta, Tetuan and Tangier have been cut or are threatened.

Reinforcements of between 6000 and 7000 men have been sent to Tetuan without success. The initiative remains almost constantly in the hands of the Moors.

AMERICAN POLICY PERILED BY CHINESE CIVIL STRIFE

Danger to Foreigners May Force United States to Lay Aside Attitude of Hands Off

BY EUGENE J. YOUNG
[Copyright, 1924, by Eugene J. Young.]

American statesmanship, which long went on the principle that aloofness from European affairs was a cardinal American doctrine, has but lately found it necessary to involve this country deeply in the details of these affairs as the only way of restoring stability to a distressed continent.

Shall we have to take the same course in the Far East? Will fresh troubles in China compel us to join with other powers in forcing some sort of settlement of clashing ambitions?

These questions face us as the strongest military elements in China battle around Shanghai. We have been insisting for years that the imperial powers keep their hands off while the people of this great land "reorientated" themselves into a place in the modern world. We have seen our policy result in the growth of powerful military forces and the uprising of great military lords and overlords who have thrown the country into a civil war to establish which set of them shall be supreme.

Shall we insist on letting them fight it out, as before, or shall we join other powers in intervention? If so, how far shall we go?

CONFLICT ISSUES

It is the fashion to represent China as governed by the "tuchuns"—the military leaders—who follow only their selfish ambitions and have no really constructive policies to serve. That is only partly true. In many cases the "tuchuns" justify the assertion by their actions; but at the same time they are creatures of conditions which cause them to be tolerated and supported so long as they carry out the will either of the ruling classes of their provinces or of foreign interests which give them money and arms. They represent a phase in the revolutionary evolution of a great people.

Big issues lie behind the present conflict. Here are things to be remembered as it progresses:

(1.) Gen. Wu Pei-Fu, the present overlord of the Peking government and of the central provinces, gained and holds his power because he represents the determination of the purely Chinese people to be ruled neither by the Manchus nor by foreigners. Marshal Chang Tso-lin, his chief rival, the overlord of Manchuria and Inner Mongolia, is undertaking to force Manchu rule again on Peking. He is supported by the Japanese. It is believed to be the purpose of this coalition to restore the Manchu dynasty to the Chinese Imperial throne.

(2.) Shanghai, around which the preliminary military movements have centered, is the key to the commercial, financial and military control of the great Yang-tse Valley. Through the intervention of the Japanese and other foreign interests this city has been ruled in recent years by Gen. Lu Yung Hsiang. He was appointed when the notorious Anfu Club—dominated by Japanese—was in control at Peking during and after the World War. He has been training an army which could fall on Wu's rear if Chang attacks from the north. So Wu, as a measure of safety, has undertaken to drive out Lu and put a loyal Chinese in command of the key to the Yang-tse Valley.

(3.) Wu and his Peking party have dared to take this radical step—flying in the face of the

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—"Jack Dempsey is a great fighter and perhaps a rather smart citizen outside the ring, but when he wakes up after the legal knockout I expect to hand him, he'll find that the wise guy is the lobster, after all."

Kenneth Malcolm Peacock, neglected husband of Estelle Taylor, the film actress, broke his silence today in an interview.

Peacock, a clerk in a Philadelphia rug house, held a conference today in Philadelphia with his lawyer on the question of suing Dempsey for $1,000,000.

"I always have been loyal to Estelle," Peacock said, seeming very close to tears, "but the publicity attendant on her association with this pugilist made me bitter. I loved her. Her success in the films is directly traceable to my advice—my money."

When asked whether he intended to sue for $1,000,000, Peacock, on advice of his attorney, answered that a decision would be made tomorrow after another conference has been held.

"But if I do sue it will be merely to vindicate myself. A million will not give me back my home nor lost love," Peacock declared.

El Paso Merger Up for Hearings in East Monday

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7. — The Interstate Commerce Commission will open hearings here tomorrow on a joint application of the Southern Pacific Company and the El Paso and Southwestern Railroad Company, under which the two companies would be merged through acquisition by the Southern Pacific of stock control by lease of the El Paso road. Under the proposed merger the Southern Pacific would acquire all outstanding capital stock of the El Paso System, including the various railroad subsidiaries, together with all of its assets. In return, the El Paso would receive 280,000 shares of common Southern Pacific stock with a par value of $28,000,000 and 5 per cent collateral trust bonds having a par value of $20,450,000.

Rental advertisements in the Los Angeles Times represent more than advertising space. Back of them is a service, painstaking and thorough. Each day the varied announcements are grouped first into appropriate classifications, such as "rooms," "flats," "apartments," "houses," etc., and then re-subdivided according to the geographical sections of the city. It is the most efficient, satisfactory, and successful method ever devised.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 7.—Gen. Chang Tso-Lin, the Manchurian war lord, has declared war against the Peking government and Gen. Wu Pei-Fu, the military dictator of the province of Chi-Li.

BY JOHN POWELL
[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
[Copyright, 1924, by the Chicago Tribune]

SHANGHAI, Sept. 7.—Chekiang troops today assert further victories and advancement of their lines more than two miles on Shanghai along the Nanking Railway and the capture of the town of Anting. In the vicinity of Liuho, fighting continued all day today with little change in positions. There are rumors in the Chekiang headquarters tonight of an important encircling movement in the direction of Kuinsan in the hope of capturing the place and opening the way for an advancement on the important town of Soochow which is the objective of the Chekiang troops.

Reports here today say the United States is sending an additional detachment of 500 marines. They are en route here, it is said, aboard the United States transport Chaumont.

GERMAN SHELLS USED

The shells, chiefly of the three-inch variety, which the warring Chinese factions are hurling at each other in the present Kiangsu-Chekiang war, are of exactly the same variety which the Germans hurled at the American troops in the World War. This fact was definitely proved today when I collected from the battlefield in the vicinity of Liuho a number of brass containers, all of which bear the brand of the Krupp munition works at Essen and also of Dusseldorf, Germany, and the piles of munitions on the dumps practically all have lettered on the ends of the boxes, "Made in Germany." Most of the shells picked up bear the date of 1913, which indicates that they were used early in the World War by the Germans and refilled, or are from unused stocks which Germany accumulated.

The vast quantities of German munitions being used by both sides in the present struggle provide a sad commentary on the strenuous activities of the American government to enforce the arms embargo in respect to China and especially to the long discussion on this subject at the Washington Conference. The general effect of the efforts of America to restrain her own citizens from selling munitions in China has been apparently

WINTHROP GIRLS DASH ON

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LENOX (Mass.) Sept. 7.—The two daughters of Granville Lindall Winthrop, millionaire retired banker of New York and Lenox, who shocked fashionable Berkshire summer colonists by eloping and marrying yesterday, one their father's chauffeur and the other his former chicken expert, were believed to be touring Northern Vermont today, preparatory to visiting, in Milton, Vt., relatives of the chauffeur-bridegroom.

The aged banker, irate and fuming over the escapade that has brought notoriety to the ultra-exclusive Winthrop family, shut himself up today on his 200-acre palatial estate, Groton Place, and refused to discuss his daughters' sudden marriages.

SOCIETY SHOCKED

Exclusive New England and New York society was slowly recovering today from the shock of the announcement of the double elopement and wedding.

Miss Emily Lindall, 31 years of age, married the chauffeur, Corey Lucien Miles, a widower, three years her senior. Miss Kate, 31 years of age, became the bride of Darwin Spur Morse, 23, local electrician, who formerly was employed by the elder Winthrop as a chicken expert and was discharged when Winthrop discovered him making love in a chicken-house to the younger daughter, according to friends.

After the ceremony, performed by Rev. John P. Trowbridge at the Congregational Church in Interlaiken, five miles from here, the eloping couples hurriedly left in two automobiles owned by the brides. It is reported they have wired their father asking forgiveness.

STRANGE TACTICS

Out of the secrecy that shrouded the elopement came today revelations of the circumstances that resulted in the double wedding. The aged banker was revealed as so devoted to his clever, beautiful daughters, that he forbade the company of any men friends of their own set. To keep his daughters exclusively to himself and to have them as his sole companions, he turned Groton Place into a girls' camp.

Seeking to keep romance entirely out of their lives, he engineered countless activities for the daughters, thinking by banishing idleness from their lives he could make them happy.

For Emily, the banker built extensive kennels and stocked them with dogs of highest pedigree. Miss Emily, a lover of dogs, welcomed the kennels, specialized in Pekinese and became known in the summer colony and at society dog shows as an expert.

ROMANCE STARTS

For Miss Kate, the young daughter, he had constructed one of the finest chicken farms in the country. To help both daughters conduct their establishments the father gave employment to Lenox high school boys after school hours.

Among the school boys who worked about the chicken farms years ago was Morse, son of a former garage man of Lenox. Young Morse did his work so well that on his graduation the aged banker engaged him permanently but he was discharged later when caught making love to Kate in one of the chicken coops. Morse recently worked for a local contracting electrician and for him did several wiring jobs on the Winthrop estate. These visits enabled him to renew his romance with the younger daughter.

Miles, formerly a gardener on the Winthrop place, some years ago witnessed a musical comedy in Pittsfield, fell in love with an actress of the company and married after a whirlwind courtship. Soon she tired of the simple life, however, and left him to return to New York. A year ago Miles instituted divorce proceedings but soon thereafter she died suddenly.

WILBUR FACES BUSY PROGRAM

Secretary's Time on Coast Absorbed by Schedule

Many Engagements Planned in Los Angeles

Inspections, Addresses and Conferences Arranged

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN JOSE, Sept. 7.—Plans for the remainder of his western tour announced today indicate that Secretary of the Navy Curtis D. Wilbur is facing a strenuous round of visits, inspections, addresses and conferences during the nineteen days between now and his return to Washington, the 27th inst.

Tomorrow morning he will inspect the Mare Island Navy Yard, naval prison and ammunition depot. A conference with the Mayor of Vallejo regarding the navy yard's water situation will be followed by a meeting with a delegation interested in the location of a proposed ammunition depot. An address before the navy yard employees and another at a dinner given by the Vallejo Chamber of Commerce will close the day.

Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock the Secretary will inspect the mammoth relief map of the State of California in the Ferry Building, San Francisco, after which he will attend a luncheon, at which his address will be broadcast. At 6 p.m. he leaves for Bakersfield, where he will inspect the government oil reserves on Wednesday.

PROGRAM HERE

Thursday and Friday will be spent in Los Angeles, where he is scheduled to speak at a Chamber of Commerce luncheon in addition to numerous other engagements. Saturday night Secretary Wilbur will speak to the State Bar Association at Catalina.

Sunday night he leaves for San Diego, where he will spend Monday inspecting the North Island Air Station, the destroyer base and the submarine station. He will find time to speak at a Chamber of Commerce meeting, as well as before a general assemblage of citizens.

Tuesday he will return to Los Angeles and on Wednesday he will visit Long Beach. The same day he is to leave on his return trip east making several stops before reaching the capital.

LONG BEACH PLANS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONG BEACH, Sept. 7.—Plans for an official reception to be tendered Secretary of the Navy Wilbur in Long Beach were being formulated here today, following receipt of advices last night from Attorney Clyde Doyle, now in Oakland, that the Secretary will visit this city on the 17th inst.

According to Secretary Wilbur's plans, he will spend two and one-half hours in Long Beach on that date and will make an address on the United States Navy and its plans as they affect the Pacific Coast. The hospitality of the city will be accorded the visiting Cabinet officer by Mayor Ray Clark, City Manager Windham and other city officials. Plans for entertaining the Secretary will be discussed tomorrow night at a meeting of the City Council.

PRISON PAROLES FIX NEW RECORD

Probation Given 30 Per Cent of State Term Servers

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7.—Thirty per cent of the prisoners sentenced to San Quentin and Folsom prisons are out on parole, the largest percentage in the history of the State, Parole Officer Ed H. Whyte declared today. The prisons have become so crowded that it has become necessary to parole the best behaved, so as to make room for newcomers. Although the percentage of paroled men is increasing, the number who break their paroles is not growing, says Whyte. The percentage of violations average 16½. Last month only seven men out of a total of 1754 violated their parole.

Most of the violations are technical, Whyte explains. The men fail to report regularly or quit the jobs to which they have been assigned. Only .43 per cent of paroled men are arrested for committing new crimes. Whyte's monthly report shows:

On parole beginning of month, 1443 from San Quentin, 311 from Folsom, total, 1754. Paroled during month, 111 from San Quentin, eighteen from Folsom; total, 129. Total prison population end of month, including parolee, 5993; total on parole 1681; percentage on parole 21.43. Violated parole during month by committing crime: Five from San Quentin, none from Folsom. Returned for violating parole: Six from San Quentin and one from Folsom. Missing violators, three. Total paroled since passage of law in 1893, 10,797. Total violations by committing new crimes, 444. Savings of paroled men during month, $18,320. Total savings since 1893, $3,462,206.16.

"CRIMES" RECITED BY MANCHURIAN CHIEF

SHANGHAI, Sept. 7.—Dungwha headquarters of the Chekiang army, defending Shanghai and Chekiang Province against forces allied with the Peking government, made public early today a characteristic circular telegram of 1000 words from Mukden signed by Chang Tso-Lin, the Manchurian chieftain. The message recites the "crimes" charged against Tsao Kun, President of the Chinese republic, and Gen. Wu Pei-Fu, his commander in chief and promises military action against them.

The telegram states Chang's determination "for the sake of our nation," to "lead my army." He swears to "rid the country of the people's traitors, thereby removing the obstacle to national peace and reviving the vitality of the people."

The asserted offenses which the circular sets forth against the Peking leaders include bribing Parliament, stealing the highest positions, settling the Austrian loan, recognizing the German bonds and seizing the Boxer indemnity for military purposes.

A Japanese news agency reported that Dr. Sun Yat Sen, head of the Canton government and reputed ally of Chang Tso-Lin because of their common desire to overthrow the Peking regime, was interviewed and declared his intention of starting a northern expedition leaving Canton for the Kiangsi border tomorrow, to aid the Chekiang army.

PRESIDENT TAKES ACTION AGAINST FAIR

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

PEKING, Sept. 7.—After a special meeting of the Cabinet, President Tsao Kun issued today a punitive mandate depriving of official ranks and orders Lu Tung-Haien, Governor of Chekiang Province, and Lu's appointee, Ho Feng-Ling, defense commissioner of Shanghai.

The mandate directs Chi Shieh-Yuan, Governor of Kiangsu Province, to send an expedition to enforce submission to the central government, take the necessary measures to protect foreign lives and property and to end civil strife.

The President mentions the receipt of telegrams from Chi and others listing ten asserted treasonable acts on the part of Gov. Lu, Gen. Ho's offense, in the eyes of the government, lies in the fact that he accepted an appointment by Lu in defiance of Peking.

PRINCE TO BED ON DOT, AT SIX A.M.

Dawn Again Finds British Heir Returning to Burden Estate After Party

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The Prince of Wales is becoming quite regular about at least one thing during his visit to Long Island—he is getting to bed regularly most every morning at 6 o'clock.

Saturday night was another all-night affair for the Prince. When he got back to the Burden estate at Syosset, L. I., after being the honor guest at a big party at Clarence H. Mackay's Harbor Hill, it was 6 a.m. He slept until 12:15 and after a hurried meal, he set out for the Meadowbrook Kennels of Robert E. Todd, former immigration commissioner. He was accompanied only by Maj. E. D. Metcalf. They were shown around by Frank Appleton, vice-president of the Kennel Club, and the Prince showed keen interest in the dogs.

The Prince also inspected a dozen horses on the estate. Afterward he returned to the Burden mansion and was host at luncheon for Sir Esme Howard, British Ambassador.

One amusing incident occurred during the day to give the Prince a laugh. A Detroit tie manufacturer, who has trailed the Prince constantly, caught up with him at the Tod Kennels and handed him a letter. While the Prince was reading, the tie maker became so embarrassed that he forgot the whole purpose of his stunt—that of presenting Wales with a new tie. When he recovered himself the Prince had been whisked away.

FLOCK OF SHEEP IS KILLED BY LIGHTNING

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 7.—During a heavy electrical storm that passed over the farm of Frank Hughes, five miles northeast of Pomona, Kan., every one of a flock of twenty-nine sheep was killed as they stood under a tree, which was struck by lightning.

POLITICIANS ARE OUSTED BY CITY

Knoxville Drafts Business Men to Run Affairs

Tax Refund is Ordered When Surplus Piles Up

Ben A. Morton is Mayor. He is a big, stalwart, broad-shouldered, American-type of business man, one who has made good in the world. The Southern Appalachian Coal Operators' Association has had him as its president. He also headed the Knox County Boy Scout Council and is teacher of a large Baptist Bible class of men. Besides this he has an interest in various concerns and is a banker.

INVENTOR HAS PART

Waxton M. Fulton, Vice-Mayor, is a successful manufacturer and inventor. He is regarded as ranking in the heating world like Edison in the electrical. His inventions are used round the globe, the thermostat device being on automobiles, airplanes, radiators, warships, and on depth bombs during the World War. The government adopted his river gauge device for use by all stations. Mr. Fulton is a direct descendant of the inventor of the steamboat.

Other members of the City Council are successful business men also.

When they went to look for a capable city manager they did not consult ward-healers or politicians. Instead they sought a high-caliber municipal executive and picked him his politics. A committee, after visiting various cities found the man they wanted at Petersburg, Va. He was then the City Manager of that city. Louis Brownlow also was president of the National City Managers' Association at that time and his impressive record included serving as commissioner of the District of Columbia, including a term as president of the board.

Mr. Brownlow, after considering the situation, accepted the offer to be Knoxville's City Manager.

His salary was fixed by the City Council at $15,000 a year. It is the largest amount paid a public official in the South and equalled by few municipal executives in the nation.

POLITICIANS HOWL

The business men on the Council believed though that an experienced, honest, industrious executive at the helm of the city's affairs is more to be desired than a lazy, trifling politician who would "occupy" a swivel chair for less.

Politicians howled and assailed the salary allowed.

But the wisdom of the business men was quickly vindicated when, by a single act, the new City Manager more than saved the amount of his own salary and had shortly afterward saved the salaries of his entire cabinet.

One of the first savings effected by Mr. Brownlow was when he obtained a revenue anticipation loan at a rate of 4 3-4 per cent, making a trip to New York himself to get it, whereas last year under the old City Commission the city had to pay for the same loan 6 per cent and also a commission of $23,000.

Mr. Brownlow appointed his department heads without regard to their politics. They were asked no questions about their politics. He did not care, being interested only in their ability. Neither was he so narrow-minded as to require that they be local persons.

John C. Borden, national bank examiner, was made director of finance. A new accounting system was immediately installed, old methods being discarded. City revenue was collected through a central agency instead of various sources.

The sinking fund board was reorganized and the funds invested. Hu M. Johnston, bank president, was made chairman of the board.

BUDGET INTRODUCED

No longer do merchants have to wait for payment of bills. Bills are paid promptly on the tenth of the month and the usual discount credited an additional saving. The budget system was introduced. Each department is alleted a certain amount of money. Each expenditure must be accounted for in writing. Should a department exceed its budget no more funds are available. But they are all keeping within their means and helping build a surplus.

Frank Bane, who had been head of Virginia's Public Welfare Department, was brought to Knoxville for similar work here, at an increased salary. The Governor of Virginia wrote a letter in which he expressed deep regret at losing Mr. Bane.

From Petersburg, Va., also came Maj. Otey Walker, A.E.F. veteran, former business man, and experienced in public safety work. He heads the department of public safety.

Alexander Harris was made head of the department of public service and W. M. Egerton law director. Both, also, are experienced in such work and selected because of their qualifications instead of for their politics.

Time clocks have been installed on twenty-five trucks and carts, which have tended to increase work production on city vehicles 30 per cent. These clocks are so constructed as to record the movement of the vehicles to which they are attached and have broken up the asserted practice of driving vehicles into convenient alleys to enable the driver to take a nap.

More than 7480 feet of sanitary sewer and 1900 feet of storm sewer have been laid at an approximate saving of 20 cents per lineal foot over the lowest contract bid.

RECORDS ARE KEPT

Maj. Walker has installed a system of records that will disclose at a glance the cost of maintenance, the condition of equipment and the work of the men in the police and fire departments. A record of fire hazards is also being compiled, which will be of inestimable value for their bearing on fire-insurance rates.

A system of records is being installed in the police department for receiving and following up complaints of citizens. Records have been provided for every class of crime and methods devised for completely checking the criminal records of all offenders.

A thorough survey is being made of the criminal elements in the community.

The City Hospital once figured in serious charges of graft and mismanagement, as well as neglect of patients. The hospital superintendent at that time had resigned. Since the new administration came into office there have been many beneficial changes.

Col. Albert, expert engineer from New York, also was brought here to reorganize the water department. Not only is he saving the city money, stopping leaks and in operation of equipment, but points in the city which formerly could not get pressure in the daytime no longer complain.

An entire city block, one of the largest in the heart of the city, has been purchased from the State of Tennessee on which municipal buildings will be constructed.

Taxpayers who had been unaccustomed to getting back taxes in the form of a rebate, but heretofore felt the city was living beyond its means, received another surprise when Director of Law Egerton requested a reduction in salary for the second time. Politicians had always wanted to get all they could and do as little work as possible. But Mr. Egerton was willing to do a maximum of work for a minimum pay.

DOES WORK WELL

When Mr. Egerton was appointed Director of Law, the City Council fixed his salary at $6000 a year. He had a big job when he started out, but tackled it with all his might. Before long he had written 106 legal opinions dealing with different sections of the new City Manager charter. Approximately 3000 ordinances passed by former administrations were examined for the purpose of revising and codifying them. All the franchises of the public-service corporations were re-examined and indexed. Then, too, Mr. Egerton had given a large part of his time to settling claims and trying various city lawsuits.

After his work became less arduous, he asked for a $1000 cut in salary. That made him receive $5000 per year. He has just asked for a second cut in pay of $1400, which will make his salary $3600.

However, he recommended that the salaries of two assistants be increased $600 per year, or made $3400 each, and this will be done.

City Manager Brownlow in his report in which he announces the tax refund, sets forth his view on municipal management when he states:

"I believe that the prudent and economical administration of municipal affairs requires that the city should take from the citizens in the form of taxes no more than is necessary to conduct the business of the city for the tax period. Not to overtax the people is as much a moral obligation as it is to levy a tax sufficient to meet the proper expenditures and obligations without piling up debts such as have so seriously impaired the credit of the city in the past."

A new day is dawning for American towns and cities, observers believe, despite the bitter opposition of political cliques, and throughout the United States interest is focused on the achievement of Knoxville through business instead of political methods in municipal management.

AGENTS OF BRITAIN ON EVANS CASE

Secret Service Men Are Reported at Death Scene; Denial in Mexico City

BY JACK STARR-HUNT

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 7.—British secret service agents have arrived at the village of San Martin, Texmelucan, near the city of Puebla, where Mrs. Rosalie Evans, a British subject, was murdered August 3, last, according to the Excelsior's Puebla correspondent. Rumors have been current here lately that British agents had arrived in Mexico to carry out an independent investigaton into the Evans murder and the trial of the men accused as assassins now being conducted at Puebla. British circles here, however, disclaim any knowledge of the presence of the agents, and Charge d'Affaires Schoenfeld of the American Embassy, who is in charge of British affairs, also denies any knowledge of their arrval.

The Excelsior's correspondent gives no names but wires that the agents passed through Puebla incognito. Their presence was discovered, he says, when several unknown Britishers were observed about the isolated spot where Mrs. Evans was killed, and were questioning Indians of the neighborhood regarding the slaying. They were evidently desirous of talking with eyewitnesses to the attack.

The Foreign Office denies that the Evans case has been reopened by Attache Schoenfeld, and denies also that he has presented any note from the British government in which it was stated that England charged dilatory methods were being used in conducting the trial. Attache Schoenfeld also denies he presented any such note.

AIR FIELD DEDICATED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SANTA CRUZ, Sept. 7.—The Swanton aviation field was dedicated here today in memory of the men who gave their lives in the World War by the officers of the Grand Parlor of the Native Sons of the Golden West. The exercises were opened with a prayer by Dr. B. M. Palmer of the local Congregational Church which was followed by an address by F. B. Howe, chairman of the day. Talks were also given by James D. Phelan and Edward Lynch, grand president of the order.

Presentation of a bronze plaque was made by Fletcher Cutler, first grand vice-president, who was in charge of the dedication ceremony. Closing prayer was by Rev. Father Hartnett.

SHRINERS GOING EAST

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7.—Members of Islam Temple, Ancient Arabic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, and their families, will leave October 11 on the liner Manchuria for an excursion to New York, going through the Panama Canal. The boat will stop at Los Angeles to take on members of Al Malaikah Temple. It is estimated that more than 500 will take the trip.

BERLIN DENIAL STIRS EUROPE

HERRIOT WAXES HOT

When Mr. MacDonald heard the sensation this statement caused, he called the correspondents into a private conference where he explained it was not a question of who started the World War, because the world knew pretty well who was responsible for it, but it was purely hypothetical of future wars.

Just before leaving Geneva, however, Premier Herriot made the following statement to George Gernhardt, editor of the Vossische Zeitung:

"News that Germany will send a note on the war guilt shatters the possibility of my making a statement on the future relations between France and Germany. I cannot understand how at a time when we are seeking to safeguard the future through the League of Nations the German government can think of sending such a note. I can only await it and return an energetic protest."

In some German diplomatic circles the utter stupidity of the note is realized and the blame is put upon the Nationalist leaders, such as Herr Hergt, Count Westarp and Admiral Von Tirpitz, who are accused of forcing Chancellor Marx to give his agreement to the action. The Nationalists want the note as a sop to their constituency, which is clamoring for something in exchange for the party's cowardly about-face in accepting the Dawes plan after an election campaign in which nonacceptance was their chief plank. Such a note is wanted by the Nationalists as the climax of years of propaganda to wash the former Kaiser clean as a lamb and absolve the junkers of all responsibility for the war.

GENEVA WORRIED BY PLAN OF GERMANY

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

GENEVA, Sept. 7.—Brazil has joined with the other nations in dedicating herself to the determination expressed before the League of Nations Assembly henceforth to make compulsory arbitration the foundation of international law and the very basis of human society. At a dinner given in honor of all the delegations by Afranio Mello Franco, former Brazilian Minister to the Interior, this international commitment was hailed as marking a new era of international relations.

There is, however, in Geneva tonight no illusion. Everybody realizes clearly that the hardest road is yet to be traveled, for the Assembly must solve the intricate problem of harmonizing the conflicting views as to how obligatory arbitration can be made acceptable.

England stands virtually alone in wishing to divorce it from military sanctions and penalities. By the side of France almost all the other nations have ranged themselves, adopting the cryptic French slogan that arbitration, security and disarmament are one and indissoluble.

Germany's reopening of the question of war responsibility was a topic of discussion in Geneva today. Frenchmen said that despite the Allied Premier's counsel they feared the Berlin government would insist upon proclaiming Germany guiltless. The opinion was expressed that this might seriously jeopardize any favorable action in Germany's admission to the League, though it is universally recognized that German adherence to it is necessary to the successful reformation of international law.

HERRIOT IN MARNE ADDRESS HITS GERMANY

BY VINCENT SHEEHAN

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS, Sept. 7.—Premier Herriot carefully avoided political discussion in his speech at Meaux today when the tenth anniversary of the Battle of the Marne was celebrated by the dedication of a monument to Marshall Gallieni, the hero of the battle which saved Paris.

The Premier made a moving appeal for unity of Frenchmen of all parties before the glorious memories of these common battles, and said partisan discussion of the government's action would be offensive to Frenchmen of all classes and opinions who died at the Marne.

"I asserted at Geneva the innocence of our country and our will to preserve security," he said. "Peace must arise from just ideas. There is no disarmament possible without security.

"I said this in the face of the world, but I should be surprised if these words did not cause some intimidation of those who now are attempting to prove that Belgium attacked Germany."

This statement drew prolonged applause as marking a response to Germany's proposed disclaimer of the responsibility for the war.

The Premier also made a strong appeal for inter-Allied unity, declaring he wished to see England and France united for peace as they were on the battlefield of the Marne ten years ago.

ANTIOCH TOLL BRIDGE CONTRACT AWARDED

COMPLETION AT $1,200,000 COST TO OPEN VICTORY HIGHWAY LINK

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

ANTIOCH, Sept. 7.—Contracts totaling $1,200,000, calling for completion of the Antioch-Sherman Island bridge within twelve months were let yesterday by the American Toll Bridge Company. The largest contract, that for the concrete work and foundations, went to Duncanson-Harrelson Company of San Francisco. It totaled approximately $850,000. The same firm is now building the substructure of the Carquinez bridge for the toll bridge company.

The contract for the steel was let to the Golden West Iron Works of San Francisco and calls for delivery of the steel on the bridge site within five months from the date of the contract. The steel company will receive approximately $350,000.

The contracts for supply rock for both the Antioch-Sherman Island bridge and the Carquinez bridge were let to Blake Brothers of Richmond and the Daniel Contracting Company. Cement will be bought in Antioch.

Completion of the Antioch bridge next year will open the Victory Highway from Oakland to Sacramento and Antioch is already planning a celebration.

AMERICA CHINA POLICY PERILED

strong foreign interests grouped at Shanghai because of the support of the Russian soviet government, recently recognized by China and bound to the present government while it can be used to forward Russian schemes to force Japanese and American recognition and concessions.

(4.) This Russian attitude has caused Japan to become greatly alarmed over her own position in Manchuria and Korea. Heretofore she has opposed the British plan to force some sort of order in China and to hear the tuchuns" of power. Now, however, if the pro-Japanese Lu should be ousted in Shanghai then Gen. Wu and the Russians would be free to concentrate against the pro-Japanese Chang Tso-lin. So it is now entirely possible that Tokio will want to support the British formula.

(5.) The Russian missions in China are turning their propaganda agencies against America, accusing us of endeavoring to succeed the British as the commercial and financial masters of the Far East. They defeated our diplomacy when they got the pro-American Wellington Koo to grant them recognition against our will. They are egging on Gen. Wu and the Chinese he represents to strike at "western imperialism"—and if Wu disposes of Chang he may do something radical along that line. So shall we let the friends of the soviets become all-powerful in China?

AMERICA CONCERNED

It will thus be seen that the present unfortunate trouble is not merely the brawling of military masters. There are wide international ramifications, in which America must have as deep concern as she showed at the time of the Boxer rebellion late in the last century. Then we enunciated the "open door," and "political integrity" doctrines for China and began the series of protests against foreign aggression which came to a head at the Washington Arms Conference two years ago.

In the time of the Boxers France claimed a "sphere of influence" throughout the whole of Southern China, Britain had a sphere, which took in the Yangtse Valley, Russia was trying to grab all the northern part. We refused to recognize such spheres. Through all the years since we have fought the "grabs" of various powers. But we have never been able to shake their position that they had a right to oversee China's affairs. The most we were able to gain at the Washington Conference was an equal partnership with the others in any project of exploitation or intervention.

We have since used that partnership, however, to block efforts to interfere with the Chinese government. After the series of raids on trains last year London strongly urged that force be used to teach the Chinese a lesson and that some sort of outside control be put in effect on the railroads and over some of the governmental affairs. We dissented and the Japanese supported us. Will we stick to this position if things get serious in China and if the other powers insist on acting?

EAGER TO INVOLVE US

The British are as anxious to get us involved in the government of China as they were to involve us in the control of Germany. They have vast interests in China, particularly in the Shanghai region. These interests have suffered greatly since the World War, partly because of Japanese and other competion, but more largely because of disturbed conditions in the country. In the old days the British would have seen to it that order was kept, but now they are in no position to do so. If they can get us to join in they have a chance to hold the advantage they gained in the days when they were masters of the Far East. Unless we help they are very likely to have some stiff losses.

There will be some strong pressure from business and commercial circles in this country to have us exert force if necessary. We have large interests in the Shanghai district and rich concessions. We have already joined with other powers in serving notice that we will take measures to protect them. But more protection will not be enough to see them through. Chaotic conditions would cause huge losses. Therefore the American colony in Shanghai is joining with the British in urging stronger measures and is stiring up pressure at home.

WU SHOWS STRATEGY

To one who has observed the development of the Chinese from their old isolation to at least a share in the modern world it is highly interesting to see how Gen. Wu has worked out his political and military strategy since he became dictator at Peking. He was hailed as a superman two years ago because of his achievement in smashing Gen. Chang's Japanese-trained army and routing the notorious Anfu Club out of control of the government. But, after that, he apparently sat back and did nothing constructive. He is now again showing his high qualities of leadership.

As I had told my readers before a double attack against Wu was planned for the summer just ended. Chang, his army reorganized by Japanese trainers and refitted by Japanese and French assistance, was planning a descent from Manchuria on Peking with 150,000 men. Gen. Wu's defenders were to be distracted by a movement from the south directed by Sun Yat Sen, who was to be supported by Gen Lu of Shanghai and other allies of Chang in the central and southern provinces.

At the moment when Chang seemed ready to move the brilliant Wellington Koo, who had been summoned from Washington to be Foreign Minister in the government supported by Wu, made the treaty with Russia, despite protests and even threats from Japan and other powers. This act had the quality of military genius. It put a Siberian army on the rear of Chang—and he postponed his campaign.

In Canton, where Sun was preparing his campaign, another backfire was set. With the aid of friends of Wu the South China Volunteers were formed. They now number 100,000, well armed and drilled, ostensibly acting as guards for the merchants of Canton; but Sun has found it will not be safe to move northward while they are in existence and he does not know how to put them out of business safely.

COLORADO AT LOWEST

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, Sept. 7.—Though local rains have fallen at many points in Arizona, telegraphic reports received today by the Los Angeles Times office here show no likelihood of early additions to the flow of the Colorado River. At Yuma, the river is down to 2300 second feet, declared the lowest stage ever known. All is being taken by the All-American Canal at Hanlon's Heading. Yuma farmers are using as much water as possible, to help the situation in Imperial Valley. President [illegible] manager of the Yuma Valley Water Users' Association has issued a statement urging local farmers to be careful not to waste water and to see that the use of water on salt or waste land be stopped.

Upstream the main hope must be in the Little Colorado, a stream notable for flash floods. But Holbrook reports today that late rains have not raised the low level of the stream, while conditions on its watershed are almost at the drought stage. Indications are declared unfavorable for an early rise of the river.

SALT RIVER FALLS

The heaviest rainfall has been below Prescott, drained by the Verde River, but the hillsides appear to have soaked up the water, for the Verde still is low where it enters the Salt River above Phoenix. The Agua Fria and Hassayampa and Main Gila all are dry near their junction and no water flows in the Gila west of the Gillaspie Dam as far as Yuma. Relatively heavy rains near Benson and Tombstone in the San Pedro watershed, and on the upper Gila, near Safford, have been absorbed.

Even Salt River, above the Roosevelt Dam, draining a normally wet region, is falling in the volume delivered to the reservoir, in which about 500,000 acre feet of water remains. The Colorado at Yuma in August delivered only 385,100 acre feet, compared with a twenty-two year average of 1,176,000 and a maximum of 2,508,000. Last year's August flow was 1,613,000 acre feet. At Phoenix, where the normal precipitation for the year to September 1 is nearly five inches, a deficiency of 3.54 inches is reported.

DRAINAGE AREA IN UTAH UNUSUALLY DRY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SALT LAKE, Sept. 7.—Precipitation over the Colorado River drainage area in Utah during August was abnormally light, being near the lowest on record at several stations, according to data especially compiled for The Los Angeles Times by the local United States Weather Bureau officials.

The average precipitation for thirty-seven stations available at this date was only 0.44 of an inch as compared with an August normal of 1.24 inches for the same stations, showing a deficiency for the month of 0.80 of an inch.

August thunder showers, which often visit most of this part of the State, failed to materialize this year except in two widely separated but extremely local instances. These, amounting to something more than an inch in an hour at Watson and Duchesne, were so sudden the water was dashed immediately into the channels and disappeared on August 14, the date of occurrence. This tends to increase the average precipitation values, but the water obviously will not now be available for the lower Colorado River irrigators, since it has already reached them by this time.

As for ground waters or the slow moving waters that fall as precipitation one month, and maintain the stream flow one or two months afterward, it is pointed out that the month of July in Utah for thirty-two co-operative weather stations of the Weather Bureau averaged 1.07 inches of precipitation as compared with a normal for identical stations of 1.30 inches. This would indicate that water from such subterranean sources would not be as great as the average when traced to July precipitation. Going back still farther into June, the official weather records show that to be one of the driest months on record with less than 0.02 inches as an average for thirty-three stations. The normal for these stations in June is 0.49 inches, indicating on the whole a very dry condition of the soil, being unable to contribute greatly if at all to the subsequent flow of the major streams and being also unable to absorb very much of any rains that may come in the next two months prior to the usual falls of snow.

Unfortunately the normal average precipitation for these same stations during the month of September, mostly in some quite as great as for August, being only 1.16 inches, though even if a normal fall occurs it will not be enough to carry off from the surface to the dwindling streams, but would require twice or three the September normal to raise the streams out of the sands where they are at present in sections of the Colorado and in Utah. Such a prediction considered by officials of the Weather Bureau as most [illegible]

RAINFALL LIGHTEST IN COLORADO FOR THIS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LEADVILLE (Colo.) Sept. 7.—Precipitation records for the month of August from ten meteorological observation stations in the Colorado River Basin in Colorado show that the rainfall during the summer months was the smallest in many years. For the State as a whole the summer is the dryest season, but in the watersheds of the Colorado Basin during July and August less than an inch during the five days in September.

A small fraction of an inch of rain has fallen in the Gunnison watershed, a tributary to the Grand River. The water is now in the Colorado River at Grand Junction where the hydroelectric plant of the Colorado Power Company is situated, that the entire volume of the river passes through the turbines to take of the tunnel.

LITTLE FLOW IN WEST COLORADO RIVER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

GRAND JUNCTION (Colo.) Sept. 7.—Due to exceedingly light rainfall in the mountains last winter and lack of rainfall during the summer months, Western Colorado is now experiencing the driest year in its history. "At Grand Junction, for instance, the fall for the year to date is but sixty-four hundredths inch, as compared to a normal of more than forty-six hundredths, but no addition does not present a true picture over the Colorado River basin. Portions of the San Juan mountains never before visited by lack of snow, now lie bare. Even during the winter were very light, with high waters. Light rains have fallen during the months, but have been dry ground, failing to reach streams. Gunnison River at confluence with the Colorado is entirely dry, all water being taken out for irrigation. The Colorado remains at the lowest stage in many years, many tributary streams being entirely dry, and others mere trickles where usually large streams flow.

RELIGIOUS FIGHT ISSUE IN MAINE

School Fund Tangle Leads to Klan Injection

Problem Almost Settled in State's Primaries

Democratic Nominee Keeping Question to Fore

By Arthur Sears Henning
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Traditionally one learns at this juncture which way the political wind is blowing by observing the result of the State election in Maine. "As Maine goes so goes the nation," runs the political adage. Maine votes tomorrow and, of course, whichever party elects the Governor will pronounce the result a harbinger of the outcome of the national voting in November and the losing party will deny that any significance attaches to the local plebiscite.

This year the State campaign in Maine has been a hectic one, the paramount issue being the Ku Klux Klan. William R. Pattangall, Democratic candidate for Governor, has been assailing the Klan and accusing the Republicans of being hooded knights or in sympathy with them.

Ralph O. Brewster, the Republican candidate, has denied any connection with the Klan, but the Republicans generally have been careful not to denounce the invisible empire. Gen. Dawes came into the State and cut loose in one speech with a broadside against the Klan, but he soon departed and the Democrats promptly accused the Republican managers of having shooed him away.

RELIGIOUS SCRAP

The fight over the Klan issue in Maine is really the continuation of a religious scrap. About nine years ago Bishop Louis S. Walsh of Portland, who died just before the present fight flared up in the Republican primary, this year, went before the Legislature with a proposition that towns in the State should be permitted to divert part of their school funds to parochial schools. At once a storm was aroused, and the proposal did not gain any support. This started the fire, however, which flared up vigorously again when a move to deprive all sectarian educational institutions of State aid was backed enthusiastically by Senator Brewster.

It so happens that the total appropriation of the State each year for these institutions, most of which rank as high schools, and exist in communities where public high schools have so far been regarded by the taxpayers as too great a burden to impose on themselves, is $75,000. Of this $63,000 goes to institutions under Protestant control, so that only $7000 goes to Catholic institutions, divided between a high school in St. John's Valley and St. Joseph Academy at Portland. This is the Genesis of the present fight—an appropriation of $7000.

ISSUE IS REVIVED

But Brewster saw the chance to push his own fortunes by picking out this issue, remembering the storm which had been aroused by Bishop Walsh's proposition a few years back. If there should be such indignation at using State appropriations for parochial schools, Brewster reasoned, why not to secondary schools as well.

Then began a speaking and letter-writing campaign between Brewster and Bishop Walsh. Both printed their letters in the newspapers and feeling ran higher and higher.

So far, as a matter of fact, the Klan had not figured in the row, but Pattangall saw the opportunity and went to New York to the Democratic convention convinced he had found an issue which would sweep the Democrats into power, not only in Maine, but in the nation.

NOW BOOMERANG

So he came back and started the fight. He nearly overdid it at first, for so many thousand anti-Klan Democrats voted in the Republican primary that Frank G. Farrington, anti-Klan Republican candidate, was almost nominated over Brewster and had this happened Pattangall would have had no issue at all.

Brewster is not only suffering from this anti-Klan attack which, beyond any question, will lose him a great many more votes than he may possibly gain from asserted Klan support—even if he does not drive that away by his protestations—but he is being attacked on several other grounds which have nothing to do with national issues.

A committee of doctors has circularized the medical profession, and the dentists as well, against him. Their charge is that he is opposed to vaccination. Maine, until a few years ago, was subject to occasional scourges of smallpox, especially in winter, the plague usually coming over the border from the maritime provinces of Canada.

Juarez Gaming Place Quits as Soldiers Come

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

EL PASO (Tex.) Sept. 7.—Gen. Roman Lopez, commander of the Juarez military district, last night ordered out a detachment of troops to close up the Tivoli gambling house which reopened at Juarez yesterday. The games closed while the troops were on their way into the city from the fort.

President Obregon has several times endeavored to put an end to open gambling in the border city by closing the international bridges at an early hour while gambling continued, but this is the first time troops were ever used.

PRESIDENT HAS CHANCE IN ARIZONA

Despite Larger Listing of Rivals, Republicans Hope to Carry State

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, Sept. 7.—That Arizona has gained population in the last two years appears to be shown by the registration for the approaching primary election. It will approximate $1,000, compared with about 77,000 known in each of the preceding two elections. A large part of the increase is in Maricopa county, with inclusion of Phoenix, with about 30,000 individuals on the roll of voters. In 1922 the State vote for Governor aggregated 67,809. In no county thus far has the registration of women approximated the number of men, the ratio usually being about 2 to 3.

As was the case two years ago, the Democratic registration approximates nearly 10,000 more than that of the Republicans, the majority being somewhat more than the gross Republican strength mustered for the primary. Usually a small Republican registration gain is noted after the lists again are open, following the primary. As far as registration goes, Arizona would appear about as safely Democratic as is Alabama. Yet the State, under similar conditions, went for Harding and for three elections chose a Republican Governor, as well as one Republican Senator.

Last election the Republicans were badly snowed under, winning not a single State office and sending only seven members to the Legislature. This year, helped by national and State political conditions that are distasteful to thousands of Democrats, strong hopes are entertained of carrying the State for Coolidge and for election of a Republican Governor. The registration is declared based mainly upon local and county conditions, with especial reference to Gila county, where only 1000 registered as Republican in a total of about 7500.

Slender Clew to Identity of Body Found in Brush

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WATSONVILLE, Sept. 7.—A man's body with the lower jaw shot away, and apparently dead more than a year, was found hidden in brush a short distance from this city last night. The only clew to identification was contained in some compensation insurance papers in his pocket on which the incomplete name "Thomas J. Jeff—" and the address, Kenosha, Wis., were barely legible.

A small automatic pistol was found under the body. The man was evidently a cripple. Coroner James Cornett expressed the belief that it was a case of suicide.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 7.—Worried over this year's crop failure and unable to recoup by a gamble in wheat futures, which he tried, Gus Starkey, 32 years of age, one of the best-known and highly respected farmers in Coronation, Alberta, set fire to a straw stack, crawled on top and died on the funeral pyre.

CANDIDATES ASKED POINTED QUESTIONS

WOMEN'S LAW ENFORCEMENT LEAGUE QUIZZES ON LIQUOR STAND

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, Sept. 7.—All candidates for office have been given a close quizzing by the Women's Law Enforcement League of Arizona. Each has been asked whether he favored the Eighteenth Amendment, the Volstead Act, the Arizona constitutional amendment establishing prohibition, and whether he continues to oppose the sale of alcohol, or would seek in any manner to amend the present laws to make them easier on the drinker.

Some of the questions are rather intimate in their nature, for the candidate is asked whether he has liquor in his home, drinks it, gives it to others, uses it at clubs, has ever bought it and whether he would be willing to inform prohibition officers in the event he finds liquor has been sold or given away.

It is said that the answers received clearly prove that every candidate is a model of deportment and is standing like a rock back of the Volstead and other restrictive laws.

MEXICAN TRADE PACT UNCERTAIN

United States and Neighbor Still Far Apart

Doubt Exists of Agreement on Many Points

Fruit Import Duty One of Puzzling Items

BY JACK STARR-HUNT
[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 7.—Doubt is being openly expressed in semi-official circles that the United States and Mexico will eventually sign a treaty of amity and commerce.

This viewpoint prevails despite the fact that President Coolidge and former Ambassador Warren have said both countries have agreed to take up the question when the United States Senate decides the treaty pending with Germany which would determine America's policy in such matters.

President Obregon, in an address at the opening of Congress, declared that Mexico has accepted the idea "in principle, but only upon a basis of absolute liberty in commerce between the two countries and derogation of numerous restrictions which prevent exportation of Mexican products to the United States."

FRUIT GROWERS PROTEST

Mexican fruit growers are especially bitter against the high import duty on Mexican-grown fruits which are also grown in the United States, and liberal admission of such fruits which are not grown in the United States. The Mexican fruit growers are convinced that the restrictions are unfair. If Mexican fruit is really infected, they assert, such fruit as is allowed to enter would carry infection the same as that not permitted entrance.

Other products of Mexico which are virtually barred on account of high duty are cloth, cigarets, cigars, cotton, while exportation of such products as vanilla, not grown in the United States, is encouraged.

Ex-Ambassador Warren, during his tenure of office here, often stated that favorable progress was being made toward completing the treaty negotiations but the Mexican Foreign Minister at one time flatly denied, in writing, that any such subject was being discussed.

OBREGON'S STATEMENT

President Obregon, asked by The Times regarding the treaty, said: "This country will not put any obstacles in the way which would prevent the free interchanging of products between Mexico and the United States. A commercial treaty, in which all obstacles that oppose free interchange of products are not removed will not be acceptable to Mexico."

It is not thought likely here that the United States will remove import duties. Eventual failure of the treaty negotiations will mean that Mexico will retaliate with similar import restrictions.

WORK SCHEDULE RESUMED

NEW 'CATHOLIC' CHURCH OPENS

American Branch, Unlinked to Rome, Launched

Former Episcopalian Head of Western Diocese

Impressive Service Unites Rites; Sixty Attend

BY ALMA WHITAKER

Bishop Gregory Lines has established the first American Catholic Church on this Coast and the first service was conducted in the Philanthropy and Civics Club Auditorium at Fifteenth and Wilton Place yesterday morning.

The diocese is to be known as the Province of the Pacific and includes California, Oregon, Washington, Arizona, Nevada, Utah, Colorado, Wyoming, Idaho and Montana. Headquarters are in Chicago, under Archbishop F. E. J. Lloyd.

The American Catholic Church is a self-governing independent body, yielding no allegiance to any foreign ruler, ecclesiastic or church—Catholic, but not Roman—and asserts it interprets those truths in the light of modern scholarship, scientific discovery, and the "ever-enlarging intelligence and spiritual consciousness of mankind."

SHOWS DIFFERENCE

About fifty or sixty people assembled for this auspicious service. Bishop Lines formerly was an Episcopalian minister, peculiarly successful as pastor of the Church of the Beloved Disciple in New York, and later of St. Luke's, San Francisco. He has never been a Roman Catholic priest

Yesterday's service, therefore, held much of the ritual of the Episcopalian High Church service, more so than that of the Roman Catholics. It resembles quite closely the service of the Liberal Catholics at St. Albans, Hollywood, which also denies allegiance to the Pope.

The rich and impressive vestments which the Bishop dons and changes for various portions of the service are, however, almost identical with the Roman Catholics, and fine music plays as important a part as with the Roman church.

A particularly beautiful altar was arranged on the club platform, gay with varicolored asters and many candles. The Bishop enters through the aisle, preceded by the little incense bearer in red cassock and white surplice, and two adult acolytes in black cassocks and white lace adorned surplices. Bobbie Dolbear was the incense bearer, not yet fully familiar with the ritual, and Messrs. Burksly and Saunders were the acolytes. Light fixtures throughout the auditorium were hung with rosaries. Until an organ is obtained a grand piano suffices, Mrs. Donia Ghrey officiating here, and also singing a soprano solo during the mass. Edward Ruents also sang a solo.

Hymns, prayers and the reading of an epistle from St. Paul to the Ephesians, and from the Gospel of St. Matthew, preceded the sermon by Bishop Lines, which was largely an explanatory discourse, in which he told the purposes of this church and the methods adopted in the compilation of the Liturgy. He also said that every morning at 9 a.m. the Holy Eucharistic service would be conducted—and he urged all those who were unable to attend to at least pause at that hour and ask God's blessing on this world.

FLAG ON ALTAR

He told of all those who had by their gifts made this beautiful service possible. A very rich and exquisite American flag is an important adornment of the altar. But, he said, things are not the basis of their religion, but rather the love of Jesus Christ. He had, he said, named this parish St. Mary and St. John, not to introduce the worship of Mary and the Saints, but because the Blessed Mother and the Beloved Disciple, nearest to Jesus in His life, must, he felt, still be near and dear to Christ Jesus. All baptized persons, believing in the love and salvation of Jesus Christ are eligible to become members and receive the Holy Eucharist at their altar. He told the history of the Christian church—how for the first hundred years it was all one, how later it divided into the eastern and western branches—Rome being the western and the several branches of the orthodox being the eastern. Five hundred years later came the Protestant reformation—when so many, because of differences in the matter of ritual and overlordship, left the church and in so doing, denied themselves so many of the sacraments, blessings, consolations—the peace and the rest which went with it. This American Church restores those sacraments and consolations, omitting only the more extreme considerations disapproved by the Protestants.

CONDUCTS MASS

There followed the Nicene-Constantinople Creed, restored in its original form—and spoken by the whole congregation. The bishop then conducted the mass with many sacred formalities, in which is included the Lord's Prayer, and almost the entire congregation there present went to the altar rail to receive the Eucharist. Men predominated very noticeably in this assembly. After the benediction, the congregation filed out to the singing of "The Lord Is My Shepherd." Bishop Lines changed to other vestments—a handsome robe of purple silk—and stood at the door to greet his new parishioners. I discovered that several of them had been his parishioners in both New York and San Francisco.

The bishop said he wished this to be a friendly church and hoped particularly that the kind word, the helping hand, the spiritual encouragement would ever predominate there. The services in the club house are temporary, a church is to be built soon.

I asked the bishop whether purgatory and the Catholic doctrines that go with it remain in this American Catholic Church. He said it certainly did—he believed that "a little spanking was good for us after we depart this life and before we enter in the full enjoyment of our spiritual heritage."

FLYERS PLAN FOR NEXT HOP

Pontoons Replaced With Landing Wheels and Planes Made Ready for Flight to New York Today

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BOSTON (Mass.) Sept. 7.—The Army aviators, who yesterday set foot officially on American soil after their flight around the world, spent all today getting ready for their hop to New York tomorrow. The pontoons of their planes were replaced with landing wheels, for it will be their first flight over land since they left England. They supervised the work themselves, toiling from dawn to dusk, and declining numerous offers of entertainment.

The program for tomorrow calls for a start at noon but it is possible the flyers may be delayed. They should reach New York some time between 3 and 4 o'clock. They will be escorted by twelve planes, led by Maj.-Gen. Mason H. Patrick, chief of the Army Air Service. Upon reaching New York they will fly over the city before turning to land at Mitchel Field at Mineola, L. I.

PONTOONS REMOVED

For the airmen, today was far removed from yesterday. Yesterday they wore the heroes' crown, today the soiled garments of mechanics. From dreams they wakened to realities and at 6 o'clock this morning they were on the grounds of the Boston airport. It was a chilly morning and the sun was not up. Out in the harbor their air cruisers tugged at their moorings. The staff of the airport was on hand. Three hangars had been cleared. A great crane had been made ready. Work awaited the arrival of the airmen.

And when the airmen came they put on their overalls and work began at once. A launch slipped out into the harbor and slid alongside the plane of Lieut. Lowell Smith, commanding the flight. The moorings were released, the plane was taken in tow and skimmed over the still waters of the harbor to where the crane awaited it. Then a block and tackle was lowered and a great hook seized the plane. There was a moment's pause, a word of command, a strain on the chain and the air cruiser Chicago was lifted off the water.

Lifted high and clear the plane was swung over the deck of the crane. On that deck stood Lieut. Smith and officers and mechanics of the airport and beside them the wheels that were to be fitted to the airplane.

WHEELS CLAMPED ON

It was while the plane was suspended thus that the pontoons were removed and wheels clamped on. This was no easy job. It required one hour and a quarter to do it. But before it was done Boston II, the plane flown by Lieut. Leigh Wade and the New Orleans of which Lieut. Erik Nelson is pilot, had been cast free of their moorings and brought alongside the crane. Fitted with wheels, Lieut. Smith's plane was now taken in tow by a tractor and towed to a hangar a quarter of a mile away. Lieut. Wade's plane was then swung out of the water, wheels were placed on it in thirty-five minutes and then it, too, was towed away. After that Lieut. Nelson's plane was fitted with landing gear and the time was twenty-five minutes for the work which was well organized now.

The aviators now set themselves to going over the planes. Wade decided to put a new radiator on Boston II and Nelson decided to change his propeller. Some pumps, recently installed, had not been working well and they were taken down and new parts put on.

By 9 o'clock a crowd began to collect at the airport and fearing that the world flyers would be hampered in their work armed soldiers were placed on guard and the hangars were roped off. All morning the crowd increased and by afternoon there were 10,000 persons on the grounds.

MINNESOTA SCHOOL HALTED BY EPIDEMIC

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ST. PAUL, Sept. 7.—Opening of the schools at Vergas, a village in the extreme northern part of Fergus Falls county, was postponed on account of an epidemic of infantile paralysis. It is reported that there are thirty cases and that thirteen homes are quarantined. Only four of the cases are serious.

BOY KILLERS TO GET LIFE IS FORECAST

Jurist's Plan to Write Lengthy Explanation of Verdict is Basis

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—Judge John R. Caverly will go into seclusion tomorrow and write out his verdict in the Franks case. The fact that he is to write a 600-word explanation of the verdict is taken by some observers as an indication he will give Leopold and Loeb life sentences. A hanging verdict would require no explanation.

Belief that the murderers would not hang has grown ever since the judge sharply rebuked State's Attorney Crowe, who, in his closing argument, alluded to the insolent attitude of the murderers in court as an indication they felt sure they were "before a friendly judge." Counsel for the defense and relatives of the slayers frequently have said the best they ask for is a life sentence.

Judge Caverly had intended to leave the city for a few days to daw up his message to the world explaining his reasons for whatever action he takes. He had picked out a quiet nook where he could work without interference. Owing to the nervous condition of Mrs. Caverly since she received a telephone call several days ago from some crank telling her that her husband had been shot to death, the judge has decided to remain in the city. He is guarded by a police sergeant assigned by Chief of Police Morgan Collins. The sergeant accompanies the judge whenever he leaves his hotel.

NAVY DAY FIXED AS OCTOBER 27

Secretary Wilbur Promises Full Co-operation

Vessels Will be in Harbors for Citizens' Visits

Purpose of Observance Set Forth by League

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Navy Day will be observed this year on Monday, October 27, in pursuance of a custom established several years ago.

"The objects of Navy Day," said Commander Marion Eppley, who has just arrived in Washington to conduct the nation-wide observance, "are to pay a tribute to the past and present services of the Navy to the nation, and better to acquaint the American people with what the Navy means to them."

"To know the Navy," Secretary of the Navy Wilbur said, in promising the co-operation of the Navy Department in the Navy Day observance, "is to believe in it. The Navy welcomes the most minute and searching scrutiny."

WELCOME VISITORS

Persons who live in or are visiting seaboard towns will be given an opportunity to inspect the nation's warships when visitors' day will be declared on all vessels which will be sent to the larger cities along the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf coasts. The Navy League plans to conduct a campaign of education on the Navy throughout the interior through the press, radio broadcasting stations and other agencies.

Some of the reasons for the continuation of the custom of observing Navy Day are set forth in the following letter from Robert W. Kelley, president of the Navy League, to the Secretary of the Navy, requesting the co-operation of the Navy in the celebration this year:

"The observance of Navy Day has become an established custom. The value of an occasion to call the attention of the people at least once a year to the past and present services of the Navy to the nation and to its present state and needs has been demonstrated. The executive committee of the Navy League of the United States feels that no more effective means can be found to turn the thought of Americans to their Navy. It is therefore suggested that Monday, October 27, be designated Navy Day this year.

"In a democracy such as ours, government is by public opinion. This opinion is sound when well informed. The unqualified support of an adequate Navy elicited on former Navy Days from President Harding, who called the Arms Limitation Conference, from delegates who represented the United States at that conference, from President Coolidge and hundreds of other prominent men and women, is important and has resulted, I believe, in a greater understanding and wider support of our first line of defense.

DISCOURAGES WAR

"Many of our people still fail to realize the tremendous peacetime value of the Navy—as discouraging war, as an industrial asset and as a training school for thousands of young men every year. President Cleveland pointed out in his first message to Congress that: 'The nation that can not resist aggression is constantly exposed to it. Its foreign policy is of necessity weak, and its negotiations are conducted with disadvantage because it is not in condition to enforce the terms dictated by its sense of right and justice.'

"It was the existence of a strong Army and Navy at the conclusion of the Civil War that permitted the United States to break Maximilian's control of Mexico, in spite of the backing of monarchical Europe, and to uphold the Monroe Doctrine without going to war.

"It was the lack of a strong Army and Navy prior to our entry into the World War that led Germany to disregard our rights, thinking that this country could exert no effective strength in the theater of the war, and thus the war was inevitable.

LED TO ARMS SLASH

"It was the strength of the Navy, particularly in ships then building, that made it possible for this country to lead in establishing the practice of limiting armaments by international agreement.

"Because the uniform experience of our history is that American principles have triumphed, usually without armed conflict when we have had a strong Navy; that these principles have been disregarded when we were weak, sometimes leading to war; and because a strong Navy has enabled the United States to lead in setting up the machinery to minimize the possibility of wars generally, I believe that nothing should be left undone to foster a realization of these facts by the American people. I am sure they will demand a Navy that will insure the Monroe Doctrine, the right of equal opportunity to trade throughout the world and the other traditional policies of this government. I am sure they will demand a Navy that will be a credit to this country—one which can take its equal rank with that of Great Britain and be two-thirds stronger than Japan's as provided for in the Washington Treaty.

"I have the honor, therefore, to request that the Navy Department extend the same helpful co-operation in the observance as it has given on like occasions in the past."

NAVY SUPPORT GIVEN

The support of the Navy Department is promised in the following letter from Secretary Wilbur to the Navy League:

"I am genuinely glad to know that the Navy League is planning to perpetuate the observance of Navy Day on October 27. Please rest assured that in this patriotic service you have the whole-hearted and enthusiastic support of the Navy which I have the honor to represent.

"It is the inalienable right of the people of our country to know about their Navy and I firmly believe that the degree of support which the Navy receives from the people is in a direct ratio to their understanding of its problems. The Navy stands for peace and the enforcement of peace. When unhappily it is forced into action in the defense of our ideals it takes its place as the first line of our national defense system, but the real measure of its efficiency is not the number of wars it wins, but rather the number of wars which it averts or makes impossible by its existence.

"We welcome the most minute and searching scrutiny by the people firm in the belief that to know the Navy is to believe in it. We believe that the Navy should be maintained at its full treaty strength in order that it may guarantee to us peace and prosperity."

Kansas City Doctor Invents New Truss

New Discovery Heals Rupture Without an Operation.

A new discovery which, experts agree, has no equal for curative effects in all rupture cases, is the latest accomplishment of the well-known Hernia Specialist, Dr. Andrews, 1818 Koch Bldg., Kansas City, Mo. The extraordinary success of this new method proves that it holds and heals a rupture. It weighs only a few ounces. Has no hard gouging pads, no elastic belt, no leg straps, no steel bands, and is as comfortable as a light garment. It has enabled hundreds of persons to throw away trusses and declare their rupture absolutely healed. Many of these had serious double ruptures, from which they had suffered for years. It is Dr. Andrews' ambition to have every ruptured person enjoy the quick relief, comfort and healing power of his discovery, and he will send it on free trial to any reader of the Times who writes him. He wants one person in each neighborhood to whom he can refer. If you wish to be rid of rupture for good, without an operation, take advantage of the doctor's free offer. Write him today. Tokio Undecided on Ambassador for Washington

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TOKIO, Sept. 7.—An Ambassador to Washington will be chosen by a Cabinet counsel on the 9th inst. The selection is producing a strain between the Premier and the Foreign Office. The former desires to name Fried Hooki, former Ambassador to Germany, whom the latter opposes on account of his age and lack of initiative. The latter desires either former Minister Matsui or former Vice-Minister Tanaka, who has served in Honolulu, San Francisco and Washington.

News of Ships and Sailings at Pacific Ports

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7.—Thomas Crowley, president of the Crowley Launch and Tug Boat Company here, left New York for San Francisco after announcing he had enlarged his interests in lumber ships. One new ship has been chartered and other options are under consideration, Crowley has been in Europe several months studying shipping conditions.

The British freighter Navigator arrived in charge of Salvage Captain Gerbrig and came to load California products for the United Kingdom.

SEATTLE, Sept. 7.—Carrying a record list of passengers and the most valuable cargo of silk and miscellaneous merchandise ever brought to Puget Sound by a Trans-Pacific liner, the steamship President Jefferson of the Admiral Oriental Line docked here this afternoon from the Orient. She had 230 first class passengers and 1725 steerage. In her hold's were a $10,000,000 cargo, $14,000,000 of which was represented in 9200 bales of silk and 2001 cases of hatched silk. The silk shipment was loaded into three special express trains and started for New York.

The steamship Northwest of the Alaska Steamship Company's fleet will leave tomorrow for Southwestern Alaska points. She will carry the last party of Alaska excursionists to be handled by this company this season, as hot arrowing rules cease with this sailing. The steamer Cordova of the Alaska Steamship Company sailed this afternoon for Southwestern Alaska cannery ports with supplies and coal.

The steamship Hartwood, operating in the transatlantic service of the McCormick Line, is due here tonight from Europe. The Santa Ines is expected Wednesday, to be followed by the Eldorado and Silverado, sailing from San Francisco later in the week.

The steamship William A. McKinley, which formerly operated in the intercoastal service of the Crowley Steamship Lines, has been acquired by the Munson-McCormick Line and is now making her first voyage to the West Coast in this service. She is due here the 15th inst.

PORTLAND, Sept. 7.—Arrival here today of the British motorship Loch Monar from Europe, the first vessel to arrive here for one of the carriers bring the Royal Mail line to the Pacific Coast-European trade, and cable advices to the Oregon-Pacific Company that the British steamer Nineveh, first of the full-refrigerator vessels acquired this season to the Northwest apple trade, had departed from London Thursday, were features to that service.

The Loch Monar brought seven upward freight from Europe, and of the total of 2,000 shipments were five cars from London reported by a Portland fog dealer. Outward assignments for the Loch Monar include 2000 tons of grain in bulk and 1500 tons of canned goods, dried fruits, hides and miscellaneous items.

Lumber shipments from S. Balboa for the week ending yesterday totalled about 2,500,000 feet, three shipments being for the New York ports and one of 1,500,000 feet for New York.

Trans-Pacific arrivals tomorrow will include the steamer Brazil Maru to load a cargo of wheat for export to Europe.

EVERETT, Sept. 7.—The United American Line steamer Mount Clinton arrived last night from Tacoma, Seattle and Victoria, and will sail from here after loading 600,000 feet of lumber for the East Coast and called at ports for Bellingham.

The steamer Everett of the McCormick Line is loading 800,000 feet of lumber for Los Angeles.

ASTORIA, Sept. 7.—The steamer Steel Traveler, after loading 2000 cases of canned salmon and 150,000 feet of lumber here, went to Prescott today.

TACOMA (Wash.) Sept. 7.—The Talthybius arrived today to load flour for the export trade.

The Diana Dollar sailed for the East Coast this afternoon with lumber. The Saltaire sailed this morning with about 2,000,000 feet of lumber for Yokohama.

Wife Says Man Shot Her When Drink Refused

Accused by his wife of shooting her in the arm because she refused to take a drink of whisky with him, W. L. McElroy was held in the City Jail last night on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

McElroy, who lives at 2127 Magnolia street, was arrested by Detective Lieutenants Finn and Oker after his wife, Mrs. Pearl McElroy, 37 years of age, was treated at the Receiving Hospital for a bullet wound in her arm and told the detectives that her husband inflicted it.

Mrs. McElroy declared her husband returned home last night under the influence of liquor and invited her to drink with him. She refused, she said, whereupon he obtained a pistol and discharged it, the bullet striking her left arm, shattering the bone just below the elbow.

HEIRESS TO CROSS OCEAN TO MARRY

Miss Annabelle Ralphs, daughter of Mrs. George A. Ralphs of 10 Vincente Terrace, Santa Monica, leaves Los Angeles this morning for Paris, where she plans to be married in November to Percy A. Brooksband, of Middleton Hall, York, England. Miss Ralphs will be accompanied by her mother, the widow of the late grocery magnate. She will make her home in Cannes, France.

"Chasing clews" by automobile, much along the paper-chase idea, but where the racers follow cryptic clews from place to place, is causing speeding in London that is menacing pedestrians, and arrests already have been made.

U.S.S. TENNESSEE WINS PENNANT

Battleship is Best in Two Branches of Service

Ranks First in Gunnery and Battle Efficiency

Pennsylvania is Second on Fleet Honor Roll

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—The United States battleship Tennessee, under command of Capt. Luke McNamee, has won the battle efficiency pennant awarded annually to the battleship having the highest combined scores in gunnery and in the engineering competition, it was announced at the Navy Department today. The Tennessee made the highest score in gunnery for the year 1923-24.

The United States battleship Pennsylvania, commanded by Capt. John F. Hines of Kentucky, was second in gunnery and battle efficiency.

OFFICERS OF CRAFT

In addition to Capt. McNamee, senior officers of the Tennessee during the year were: Commander Harry A. Baldridge, U.S.N., executive officer; Commander V. V. Woodward, U.S.N., engineering officer; Lieutenant-Commander F. W. Rockwell, U.S.N., gunnery officer; Lieutenant-Commander H. H. J. Benson, navigator. Capt. McNamee is widely known in the United States and abroad and his personal and professional attainments have caused him to be ranked as one of the ablest officers in the Navy. The showing of the Tennessee under his command adds another page to his brilliant record.

Capt. McNamee was born in Wisconsin in 1871 and appointed to the Naval Academy from Kansas in 1888, graduating in 1892. His record covers a wide range of naval duty. After commanding the Sacramento, he went to the Naval War College in 1915, where he took the course of instruction and later served on the college staff.

IN WORLD WAR

During the World War he served as chief of staff to Admiral Caperton in the South Atlantic and later as a member of the planning section on the staff of Admiral Sims in London. Later he served with the chief of naval operations as a member of his advisory staff in Paris, France, preliminary to the armistice and during the peace negotiations.

After the war Capt. McNamee had another tour of duty as chief of staff of the Naval War College, and then commanded the U.S.S. Nevada. In 1921, while commanding the Nevada, President Harding reviewed the fleet in Hampton Roads. Admiral H. B. Wilson, the commander in chief, introduced Capt. McNamee to the President as "smartest captain of the smartest ship in the fleet."

MANAGER'S SALARY CUT TWO-THIRDS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

OKLAHOMA CITY (Okla.) Sept. 7.—Dorset Carter, who until recently was general manager in Oklahoma of all the Santa Fe System's branch lines and coal mining and oil enterprises, has been told by the Oklahoma Corporation Commission that he has been drawing more than three times the salary that he should have drawn from the Purcell-Lexington Toll Bridge Company of Purcell, of which he is vice-president and general manager. The commission found that Carter has been drawing for four years an annual salary of $9752 and it concluded that $3000 would have been sufficient, and ordered that hereafter that figure be the salary.

The commission's order resulted from a hearing of an application of residents of McClain and Cleveland counties, which the bridge connects in spanning the South Canadian River, for a readjustment of toll rates. An engineer of the commission found the bridge to have a present-day value of approximately $190,000 net. The income during the last four years, has averaged $23,526 annually, and the salary of the general manager during that period was $9752 annually.

That the bridge company is entitled to earn 17 per cent on the valuation was the commission's order. This could not be done, it said, so long as the general manager gets so large a salary.

Carter resigned a few months ago from his Santa Fe connections and became general manager of the Pantex Pipe Line Company, which has laid on oil line from the Panhandle pool to Amarillo, Tex. Some years ago he promoted and built the Oklahoma Central Railroad, now operated by the Santa Fe, and later the suspension bridge between Purcell and Lexington.

TOWN IS SPLIT OVER TEACHING OF GERMAN

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

DES MOINES, Sept. 7.—The German language is responsible for another rift in the home life at Lowden, the village in Cedar county which caused the Federal government so much trouble during the war. This time the trouble is in the German Lutheran Church, where one faction demanded that the language be taught in the parochial school and the other opposed. The matter was put to a vote of the congregation and those in favor won by a majority of three. J. F. Brial, principal, and Miss Hilda Steffan, his assistant, were ordered to teach the language. They protested that it was against the spirit of the age and rather than carry out the instructions resigned. There are eighty children in the school. The older Germans insisted that the language be taught, asserting they could not understand English well enough to converse with their children. The younger generation opposed, but was voted down.

The Wrath to Come

By E. Phillips Oppenheim

Synopsis: Grasi Slattery, wealthy American, meets his former fiancee Gertrude in Monte Carlo as Princess Von Diza. The International Congress is holding session in Nice, Yzevil, British Premier, desires the Congress to invite the United States into the Pact. Germany and Japan conspire to defeat his purpose by temporarily adjourning the session to gain time in their plot to control the seas. Bozzo, Yzevil's daughter, becomes a close companion of Grant. Clon, a dancer, discarded by Hiashi, Japanese legation member, discloses to Grant in a jealous mood a part of Japan's machinations; Hiashi later recovers her confidence and she refuses to disclose further information. Gertrude introduces Grant to Blunn, ostensible German industrialist, but in reality arch plotter against the United States. Gertrude, renewing her love for Grant, begs him to take her away with him, disclosing to him her part in the plot against his country. Grant refuses. A yacht party is given by Grant the day before the resumption of meetings at Nice; Blunn, Von Diza and the Scandinavian, Funderstrom, are guests. While at sea Grant plants mechanical trouble. Blunn, scenting a plot to prevent the Scandinavian member from making his "fought" veto-imprimus Grant and obliqueness to force the ship's crew to start the engines.

Captain Martin and Chief Engineer Nicholson were smoking a pipe together in the latter's very comfortable but somewhat out-of-the-way quarters when, to their surprise, the door of the cabin was abruptly opened to admit two of the ship's guests, Cornelius Blunn and Baron Funderstrom.

"Good evening, gentlemen," the captain said, in some surprise.

Cornelius Blunn was not wasting words.

"We want to know, Mr. Engineer, what is wrong with your engines. Why can't you start up and get us back to Monte Carlo according to promise?"

"My engines! Who said there was anything wrong with my engines?" Nicholson demanded.

"Mr. Slattery has told us so," was the curt reply. "He told us not a quarter of an hour ago that you were afraid to start them for fear of an accident to one of the pistons."

"Well, if Mr. Slattery said so," the chief engineer observed, "he's doubtless right."

"I do not believe it," Blunn declared. "We have reason to suspect that Mr. Slattery is trying to keep us out here all night for a purpose of his own."

"If you think that, it's Mr. Slattery you'd better talk to, sir," Nicholson suggested. "My job on board this boat is to take orders from the owner. You'd better go and complain to Mr. Slattery, if there's anything not to your liking."

"We have complained to Mr. Slattery," Blunn rejoined. "He has refused to order you to start the engines."

"Then that's all there is to be said about it," the captain intervened. "They'll start all right as soon as Mr. Slattery says the word, and not before."

Cornelius Blunn's hand left his hip pocket. He was a good judge of men, and he realised that threats were not likely to help him.

"Look here," he said, "You two are sensible men. I'm sure of that. I want to tell you that Mr. Slattery is playing a very dangerous game. He is pretending to be broken down to keep this gentleman, Baron Funderstrom, from attending the Nice Conference tomorrow."

"Aye, aye" the engineer observed. "He has some good reason, no doubt."

"I am not going to threaten you with what may happen if this conspiracy is persisted in," Blunn went on. "I want to put the matter to you another way. Start your engines up and get us into Monte Carlo before morning and you shall have a draft for five thousand pounds, during the day."

"Five thousand pounds!" Chief Engineer Nicholson exclaimed.

"Five thousand pounds!" the captain echoed.

"It's an enormous sum," the former declared.

"It is yours if you'll do as I have asked," Blunn assured them.

"What's the matter with Mr. Slattery giving me my orders?" Nicholson demanded.

"Mr. Slattery has already given you his orders, and we don't approve of them," Blunn replied.

"It's a pity that," the chief engineer regretted, "for Mr. Slattery's are the only orders that are likely to receive any attention on board this ship."

"If to that five, I were to add another two?" Blunn suggested.

"Seven thousand pounds! Why, man alive, it's a tremendous sum," the other gasped. "I'd not know what to do with such a fortune."

"That is for you to decide," Blunn said impatiently. "You can make your own arrangements with the captain. All we ask of you is to start your engines, and of the captain, to take us into Monte Carlo. Come! This shall mean your fortunes, both of you. It shall be ten thousand pounds between you, paid in cash tomorrow morning."

"Ten thousand pounds!" the engineer repeated. "Did you hear that, Captain Martin? Five thousand apiece! Why, man, the money would be a temptation to us. Like as not we would stay on land and get drunk, instead of coming to sea, like decent seafaring men should."

"Will you do it, or won't you?" Blunn demanded, suddenly suspicious of the other's attitude.

"I'm thinking," he said, "that neither of you gentlemen are much used to the sea and the ways of seafaring folk, or you'd know that there isn't a self-respecting officer born who'd take his orders from any except his skipper. You're simply wasting your time here, gentlemen. If you'll excuse me, I'll be getting along. I've a fancy for a word with Mr. Slattery."

"You'll stay here for the present," Blunn declared coolly. "Don't make a fuss about it, please. No one wants to hurt you, but there's a great deal at stake, and a few men's lives won't make much difference."

The engineer looked in blank and genuine amazement down the black muzzle of Blunn's automatic.

"Take your finger off that trigger, you blithering idiot," he shouted. "Don't you know it might go off at any minute?"

"It's very likely indeed to go off if you move," Blunn assured him. "Just as you are, please, both of you."

Baron Funderstrom stepped backward, and Blunn followed his example. Outside, they shut the door and locked it. The two officers stared at one another open-mouthed.

"So that's the game," the engineer exclaimed. "We're keeping that warmed-up corpse of a lop-eared German from going to the Conference. Abductors! That's what we are."

The captain helped himself to whisky and passed the decanter.

"Fill up, Jim," he invited, "and then you'd better press the bell."

Nicholson did as he was bid. Then he shook his head.

"The fat chump wasn't quite such a flat as all that," he remarked. "Wire's cut outside."

"If this doesn't beat the band!" he exclaimed. "To think that I've been going to sea for thirty years, and have never been in a hold-up before! Drink up, Jim, and we'll get busy. There must be something we can do."

The chief mate, Henry Fosbrooke, was standing, his back to the rail, watching the somewhat erratic antics of an uncertain wind in his main-sail. The yacht being for a watch under his control, he was indulging in some mild speculation as to the reason for the curious instructions he had received. To him, out of the gloom, came Blunn, bulky, ponderous, slow-footed, followed by Funderstrom, gray and cold, silent as a dead man.

"Are you the officer in charge?" the former asked.

"I am, sir, for my sins," was the civil reply. "We're giving you a queer sort of entertainment tonight."

"My friend here, Baron Funderstrom, and I are the victims of a practical joke," Blunn continued. "We have a proposition to make to you."

"A proposition," the officer repeated, watching the slow bellying of his sail. "If it is anything to do with getting busy down in the engine room, I shall be glad to hear it, anyhow. I don't fancy this flopping about like a lame duck, with squalls in the offing."

"To tell you the truth, neither do we," Blunn declared. "We want to turn the tables upon Mr. Slattery. Is there a second engineer on board?"

"There he is, sir," the mate answered, pointing to a gloomy figure standing with his hands in his pockets a few yards away.

"I should like to speak to him for a moment. Please call him."

The appearance of the second engineer, who at once obeyed the summons, was distinctly encouraging. He was a youngish man, with shifty eyes and a furtive manner.

"Are five thousand pounds apiece any use to you young fellows?" Blunn asked, addressing them both.

Neither of them answered. They could only stare.

"What about my chief?" the engineer demanded.

"He is in the same position. You have got the run of the ship for a time. Do as I say and I swear before God you shall have the money."

"The devil!" the mate exclaimed. "I thought there was some queer work afoot. What's wrong with Mr. Slattery?"

"Nothing serious," Blunn assured them. "I have locked him up. He is trying to play a trick on us. It is perfectly fair and just to defend ourselves. He is endeavoring to keep us from making land before dawn. We are determined to get there, somehow or other. It is five thousand apiece. There's some fun to be got in the world for five thousand, you know."

"I'm on, anyway," the second engineer decided. "We can't be getting any one into bad trouble."

"You will not be getting any one into trouble at all," Blunn declared. "My friend here is Baron Funderstrom, Scandinavian delegate at the Nice Conference. All Mr. Slattery is trying to do is to prevent his attending the meeting tomorrow morning, for political reasons. We intend that he shall be there."

"But what's become of my chief?" his subordinate asked anxiously.

"Locked up in his own room," was the blunt reply, "and the captain with him. That can't last long, I know, but it won't take us very long either to get back to Monaco, with a full head of steam on."

"All right," the officer of the watch announced. "I'll take her in charge. We've scarcely any sail on her now. We'll get rid of that directly. Five thousand pounds each, mind!"

"It is a bargain," Blunn assured them.

KANSAS HORSES KILL SELVES IN LOCO FITS

MANY ANIMALS LOST FROM "JAG" EFFECTS OF POISON WEED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 7.—Word from Manhattan, Kan., says that five work horses owned by a Hodgeman county farmer have died with broken necks during the past week as a direct result of leaping across the manger to which they were tied. Fifty head of horses were lost by another farmer in the same community recently, due to freakish capers attempted by the animals while "lit up" from eating loco weeds.

The weed is uncommonly prevalent through large sections of Western Kansas this year due to climatic conditions which have favored its growth for two seasons. Several farmers have lost most of their work horses. A farmer near Utica, named Beerschauer, has lost half of his cattle herd, consisting of twenty head of animals. There are few reports of locoed cattle in Kansas to be found on record, according to J. W. Lumb, extension veterinarian, Kansas State Agricultural College, who made post mortem examinations of these cattle and found the pouch filled with stems, leaves and seed pods of the loco plant and other indications of poisoning.

Dr. Lumb compares the loco weed with opium as to the effect it has on the mind and body. Cerebral disturbances occur and the animals are commonly said to be crazy or "locoed." Live stock acquire the habit from accidentally eating small bits of the plants while grazing. They soon cultivate an intense craving and will search the pastures for the weed. The poisoning gradually causes a form of insanity or chronic nervous affliction.

PLATICAS DE LOS LUNES

Por el Profesor R. Guerrero
DEL DEPARTAMENTO ESPANOL DE "THE TIMES"

NUMERO 278

Errores de imprenta: En la segunda linea del último párrafo de la Plática 276, dice: "y puede reemplazarse por 'volver'", debiendo decir, "y puede reemplazarse por 'devolver'". Como al medio del tercer párrafo de la Plática 277, dice: "la vez era para cobrar", y debe decir, "la vos era para cobrar". Al final del párrafo siguiente dice, "Sobrarle a fulano" por "Cobrarle a fulano".

Le ha llegado su turno en estas Pláticas al chocante anglicismo que cometen—y forman legión—los que traducen a un español bárbaro las voces inglesas, "to report" y "report", diciendo "reportar" y "reporte". Para que se hagan cargo de su error los culpables de este delito de leso lenguaje, transcribo a continuación las acepciones de las voces "reportar" y "reporte" que nos da el Diccionario de la Academia:

REPORTAR—1. Refrenar, reprimir o moderar una pasión de ánimo o al que la tiene. (Usase también como reflexivo). 2. Alcanzar, conseguir, lograr, obtener. 3. Traer o llevar. 4. Pasar una prueba litográfica de una piedra a otra para multiplicar las tiradas de un mismo dibujo.

REPORTE — 1. Noticia. 2. Chisme. 3. Prueba de litografía que sirve para estampar de nuevo un dibujo en otras piedras y multiplicar las tiradas.

Como puede verse, sólo en la acepción de "noticia" coincide el sustantivo español "reporte" con el inglés "report", y cumple decir que "reporte" se usa bien poco en ese sentido, pues con preferencia empleamos las palabras "noticia", "nueva", "informe", "información". "Reportero", vos derivada de "reporte" en su acepción de "noticia", es voz ya autorizada por la Academia y enteramente equivalente a la inglesa "reporter".

El verbo castellano "reportar" estará, pues, usado correctamente en estas frases: "Señora, reporte usted a su marido, pues ya no me es posible tolerar sus demasías"; "Repórtese usted, don Pedro; no hay razón para que se exalte usted de ese modo"; "Para reportar esa ventaja necesitas esforzarte mucho"; "Este negocio me ha reportado grandes utilidades". El sustantivo "reporte" estará bien usado —aunque poco se le emplea en tal sentido—si decimos: "¿Quién daría ese reporte a los diarios de Los Angeles?"

En cambio, en las siguientes sentencias las voces en cuestión son incalificables barbarismos que producen calosfrío al español educado que los escucha: "Reportó la policía que había sido asesinado el señor Robertson"; "Me reportó el inspector porque me vió jugar en vez de trabajar"; "Reporte usted con la empresa a ese grosero empleado"; "Ordenóme el general que reportara a las o en el cuartel general"; "El viajante (commercial traveller) tiene que reportar a la compañía por carta cada semana"; "Sometió el ingeniero un reporte muy favorable de la mina". Estas frases incorrectas deben reemplazarse por las siguientes: "Dió parte la policía de que había sido asesinado el señor Robertson"; "Me acusó (dió malos informes de mi) el inspector porque me vió jugar en vez de trabajar"; "Quéjese usted con la empresa de ese grosero empleado" o "Acúsele usted con la empresa"; "Ordenóme el general que me presentara a las 10 en el cuartel general: "El viajante tiene que informar por escrito a la compañía cada semana"; "Rindió el ingeniero un informe muy favorable de la mina".

Así pues, la frase inglesa, "He reported the servant to his employer", se traduce, "Acusó al criado con su amo" o "Se quejó del criado al amo". "The officer reported for duty" se traduce, "El oficial se presentó al servicio".

NUMERO 279

Uno de los errores de conjugación más frecuentes en español es el que se comete, unas veces diptongando, y otras no diptongando, en ciertas inflexiones verbales, la "e" o la "o" de la penúltima sílaba de un verbo que sea afín de un nombre en el que exista o no exista el diptongo. Hay una regla que, por no tener casi excepciones, nos sirve de muy segura guía para evitar el error de que hablamos.

"Todo verbo que tenga en la penúltima sílaba una de las vocales "e", "o", y sea afín de un nombre que lleve ahí mismo uno de los diptongos "ie", "ue", recobra éstos cuando quiera que el acento cae en la sílaba donde iban aquellas vocales."

En sus "Apuntaciones Críticas", el señor Cuervo individua aquellos de los verbos que deben diptongar la vocal de la penúltima sílaba, en que ha notado que comunmente se yerra. Transcribo en seguida sus importantes observaciones:

"Me 'aprietan' los botines", dice alguno, y al dolor de que le 'opriten" allega el desdoro de no saberlo expresar. El nombre correspondiente es "aprieto", y por tanto el verbo será irregular. Ejemplos: "Echándole la garra así le 'aprieta', —Que le oprime, le rinde y le sujeta." (Ercilla, "Araucana", canto X.); "Dirás que tanto la pasión te 'aprieta',—Que mueres infelix y desdeñado." (Moratín, "Lección poética").

En una poesía bien conocida se lee: "La Italia invade el sanguinario Atila.—Y en su marcha triunfal todo lo 'asola'"; y un gramático español opina que el verbo que se ha subrayado es regular. Debe tenerse presente que "asolar" se deriva de "suelo", y propiamente significa "igualar al suelo", echar por tierra, y es de formación semejante a "arrasar", "aterrar"; además, aunque la etimología no arguyese en contra, todavía es tan constante la práctica de los clásicos en decir "asuelo", "asuelas", etc., que apenas se comprende cómo puede sostenerse lo contrario. Basten estas muestras: "Estas son unas bestias regaladas —Que prestamente por el aire vuelan,—Y encarecen a ratos las cebadas.—Y aun en los mismos campos las 'asuelan'" (Villaviciosa, "Mosquea", canto II); "El taladrado bronce flechar suele—Globos de ardiente hierro, que alevoso—Destroce al hombre y su morada 'asuele'" (Reinoso, "La inocencia perdida", canto I).

Saliendo el verbo "cimentar" del sustantivo "cimiento", es claro que no se dirá: "Todos desean que se 'cimente' algún orden de cosas", sino "cimiente". Ejemplos: "Sobre aquello armar la casa y 'cimientan' las paredes" (López de Gómara, "Historia de Indias", folio 21, en el "Diccionario de Autoridades"); "Ya la obedece unánime el sosiego,—Y éste y aquél 'cimienta' su navío" (Jáuregui, "Farsalia", lib. VI).

"Descollar", observa la Academia, es como quien dice levantar el "cuello" sobre otros, y así de quien lleva ventaja a los demás en cualquier ramo, se dirá que "descuella". Ejemplos: "Descúbrese desde el sitio donde estaba entonces la ciudad de Tlascala, el volcán de Popocatepec en la cumbre de una sierra que, a distancia de ocho leguas, se 'descuella' considerablemente sobre los otros montes" (Solís, "Hist. de la conquista de México", lib. III, cap. IV); "El en este magnífico teatro ve al mayor número de los hombres arrastrados por la ambición y la codicia, también le consuelan aquellos pocos modelos de virtud que 'descuellan' acá y allá en el campo de la historia, como en un bosque devorado por las llamas tal cual roble salvado del incendio por su misma proceridad" (Jovellanos, "Oración sobre la necesidad de unir el estudio de la literatura al de las ciencias").

INVESTORS FILE CLAIMS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 7.—Claims totaling $1,000,000, have been filed by investors in the Union Home Builders, a 3 per cent housing trust, now in the hands of State Commissioner of Finance Millspaugh as receiver. The claims do not represent the full amount of cash paid in by investors but merely the surrender value of their certificates. The loss in liquidation may reach a total of $200,000.

WALLACE IS KILLED IN AUTO RACE

San Luis Obispo Driver Loses Life in Crash on Home Track

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Sept. 7. Horace Wallace, local racing driver, was instantly killed here today when his machine turned turtle in the third lap of the fifteen-mile event of the first races held under the auspices of the newly organized Western Racing Association. His machine skidded and turned around on the track three times, finally turning over and hurling Wallace to the track. Leigh Green, following closely upon Wallace's trail, was forced to the inside bank in order to avoid a crash. His machine was damaged but he escaped uninjured.

Ralph De Palma, international racing star, established a new track record for the mile when he drove the distance in 40 3-5 seconds. The old record stood at 41 1-5 seconds. The race was hand timed. De Palma won the Western Racing Association cup for the second consecutive week when he broke the track record for the mile. He also won the five-mile and twenty-mile races, doing the first in 3:38 4-5, and the second in 14:3.

Winfield won the fifteen-mile race in 12:4 3-5.

Stapp, Frame, Winfield and Wallace finished in order in the thirty-five-mile classic, Stapp negotiating the distance in 27:14 3-5.

LOTT ADDS ANOTHER STONE TO HIS CROWN

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CINCINNATI, Sept. 7.—George Lott, national junior tennis champion, added another title to his list today when he defeated Paul Kunkle of Cincinnati for the tri-State championship, 2-6, 13-11, 6-4, 6-3.

In the finals of the doubles, Lott and Jack Harris defeated Paul Kunkle, Cincinnati, and Charles Garland, former Davis Cup player, in a hard-fought four-set battle. The scores: 6-3, 9-11, 6-3, 6-2.

William Dein of New York is riding a bicycle from Venice, Cal., to the Atlantic Coast in an attempt to shatter the coast-to-coast record of twenty-four and one-half days, now held by Clarence Wagner.

MURCHISON IN RECORD SPRINT

Clips 7-10 of Second From Charlie's Time

Meyers in Record-Breaking Hurdle Event

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WEST ORANGE (N. J.) Sept. 7.—Loren Murchison of the New York A. C. today established a new world's record of 24 7-10s. for the 250-yard dash at the final day of competition in the National A.A.C. championship under direction of the New York Athletic Club. The time cut seven-tenths of a second from the mark made a week ago by Charles Paddock.

Herb Meyers, national champion 220-yard hurdler, ran the eighty-yard low hurdles in 9 9-10s. The time for the unstandardized distance was announced as a world's record, subject to approval by the National A.A.U.

H. J. Plansky, Georgetown University, representing Pere Marquette Council, K. of C., won the decathlon with 5901.45 points. Charles Hagers of the Germantown Boys' Club, Philadelphia, was second with 5666.48; Donald C. Foote of the Baltimore Police A. A., third, with 5653.07, and A. Woostroff of the Newark A. C., fourth, with 5649.56.

The Newark A. C. won four relay events, the 440-yard, 880-yard, two-mile and four-mile. Boston A. A. took the one-mile relay.

The summaries:

Four-mile relay won by Newark A.C., Kirby, Stewart, Douglas, Irwin; second, Jersey Harriers. Time, 20:37.

One-mile relay won by Boston A.A., Bates, Sullivan, Dudley, McKillop; second, Newark A.C.; third, Jersey Harriers. Time, 3:24 2-10.

880-yard relay won by Newark A.C., Murchison, Bowman, Stevens, Andros; second, Boston A.A.; third, Salem Crescent A.C.; fourth, Jersey Harriers. Time, 1:30 6-10.

Two-mile relay won by Newark A.C. Kirby, Reid, Douglas, Stewart; second, Boston A.A.; third, Newark A.C., second team; fourth, Jersey Harriers. Time, 8:38 4-5.

Special 250-yard dash won by Loren Murchison. Time, :27 7-10, new world's record.

Special 80-yard low hurdles won by Herbert Meyer; second, Stoffsweck-y-third, Lloyd (all of Newark A.C.) Time, :09 9-10. (World record to be claimed.)

VANDALS TO MAKE BIG BID

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO (Moscow) Sept. 7.—There is in operation in the Pacific Coast Conference a ruling preventing football teams from pitching training camp tents before September 15; but there is no rule conference or otherwise, that attempts to stipulate just when preseason analyses of prospects shall start. The University of Idaho football followers are quite aware of that fact and when R. L. Mathews, who will groom the Vandals for their third conference year, suggested in an interview at Twin Falls recently that it would be wise to "keep an eye on Idaho this fall" it was taken as a signal to start stirring the dope bucket.

The football season is yet quite a way off but since the conference does not seem to care how early the "critics" begin limbering up there might be justification for a glimpse ahead to the months of October and November, the two months that will tell the tale in Idaho's greatest attempt for the supreme football honors of the West.

One thing is certain, Idaho will have to fight for everything that comes to her on the gridiron this fall. It will be a harder battle than last year, for there is a peculiar situation existing in the conference this year. Three of the conference members are starting out with new coaches, each determined to make the best showing the first year. Two others are in the same fix as Idaho; they have spent practically two seasons in building. Then there is California and her Golden Bears, supreme for years and determined to retain that supremacy. On top of it all Idaho will have a schedule almost as impossible as the one last year.

Idaho's newness in the coast conference is largely responsible for these undesirable schedules, for the members drawing the crowds of thousands always are able to "pull" the games.

PRO GOLFERS TO BATTLE TODAY

Southern California's professional golfing talent will compete today in the regular semimonthly sweepstakes of the S.C.P.G.A., on the links of the Brentwood Country Club. A special prize, the Wannamaker trophy, insures especially hot competition, and most of the pros will be in the event. Art Merritt, Brentwood professional, requests that all entrants bring along their own clubs.

AMONG THE FAVORED FEW

Capt. Bullock-Webster (above) and Dr. Paul Hunter, Southern California champion, are considered among the strongest competitors for the State amateur golf title in the tournament which opens today on the Pebble Beach and Del Monte courses in the north.

NORTHERN GOLFERS WIN

Defeat Stars from South in Team Match at Del Monte; Johnny McHugh Trims Paul Hunter

BY CHARLES WEST

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

DEL MONTE, Sept. 7.—Northern California golfers scored a convincing victory over their southern neighbors in the annual team match for the Roger D. Lapham trophy today, coming from behind to win the team championship of the State, 10 points to 6, by brilliant playing in the foursomes. Although the players from south of the Tehachapi won three of the five twosomes in the morning at Pebble Beach, and led 6 points to 4 at noon, the north presented a revamped team in the afternoon chunk of the festivities and won four out of five matches, the fifth being tied.

Johnny McHugh, State champion, trounced Dr. Paul Hunter, considered the strongest contender for his title, 2 and 1, in the morning in spite of four balls out of bounds, and paired with Jack Neville won from Hunter and Jack Tarrant in the afternoon at Del-Monte by the decisive count of 6 and 4.

FAIR ONES STAR

It remained for Southern California feminine players to save the day for the South, and they did so by winning an impromptu team match with the northern women, 11 points to 3, at Pebble Beach.

One of the biggest upsets of the day was the defeat of the veteran combination of Norman MacBeth and E. S. Armstrong by George Ritchie and Lauren Upson in behalf of the north, 1 up in twenty holes. MacBeth and Armstrong were playing beautiful golf, scoring birdies with such reckless abandon that the best ball was thirty-two for the first nine, when they had their opponents 2 down. Upson and Ritchie trailed until the eighteenth hole, when Upson squared the match with a par, and then sank a long putt on the second extra green for the match.

Jack Neville was clicking off his shots in excellent style, his eagle two on the eighth after driving the green being one of the features of the day. The playing of Hunter, the South's best bet in the State championship tournament, was unimpressive to such an extent that McHugh deposed the Southern Californian tonight as favorite in the titular event which opens tomorrow. Hunter was in trouble almost all day, the wind bothering him in the morning, while he never hit his stride in the afternoon. Fear was expressed by many experts that Hunter has gone stale, as he has been playing golf daily at Del Monte and Pebble Beach for the past three weeks. However, he is still considered the strongest of the southern entrants.

MANY BACKERS

Johnny McHugh, Rudy Wilhelm of Portland, Dr. Hunter and Capt. A. Bullock Webster seem to have more backers than any other of the 360 golfers competing for the title. Players of handicap from scratch to nine, will play their first eighteen holes at Pebble Beach tomorrow, while those of ten handicap and over are performing on the Del Monte links. Tuesday the or-

ANGELS SPLIT; ANNEX SERIES

Bees Take First Game, 2 to 1, Lose Second, 21 to 2

Krugmen on Batting Rampage in Final Contest

BY ROBERT E. RAY

Our Angels lost one good game, won a bad one, and walked off with the odd game of the series with the Salt Lake Bees. All of which is a way of saying that the Bees and Angels divided yesterday's Sabbath bill.

In the first game Rudy Kallio outpitched Tom Hughes and Nick Dumovich, turning in a 2-to-1 victory for the visitors. Rudy held the Seraphs to two hits, one of the infield variety and the other a long drive which O'Doul got his hands on and dropped. Kallio knocked at the door of the Hall of Fame, but Babe Twombly and "Jeems" McAuley, the Seraphs who made the two hits, slammed the door shut on Rudolph's fingers.

The second game was an Angel debacle, if Angels have debacles, of runs and base hits. Los Angeles romped off with the pastime by the convincing score of 21 to 2. The Seraphs gathered twenty-four hits, batted around in three different innings, and scored a total of 17 runs in those three frames in which they batted around.

PAYNE ON MOUND

George Payne was on the mound for the locals. George let the Bees touch him for twelve safeties, but blanked them after the first inning. "Sheriff John" Singleton attempted to preserve law and order as pitcher for the Mormons, but as a preserver of law and order John was not so good. Four base hits, two walks, two errors and some decisions by Umpires Reardon and Finney which "Sheriff John" and several other Bees thought were not so good, gave the Angels 5 runs in the first inning and ended Mr. Singleton's career as a pitcher for the day.

Elmer Ponder succeeded Singleton and hurled for four innings, during which time the locals collected seven more markers. Fritz Coumbe, who used to be a better pitcher than an outfielder, but is now a better outfielder than a pitcher, rushed in to stop the Angel's furious attack at the start of the sixth. Krug's hired help jumped on Fritz like a lot of hungry fleas on a plump dog, scoring 7 runs in the sixth and 2 more in the seventh. Coumbe retired the side scoreless in the eighth, which may or may not be a record.

After the second game was over there seemed to be a huge chunk of doubt in the minds of the cash customers whether it was a ball game or a track meet. As the athletes wore baseball uniforms and not track suits, the consensus of opinion was that it was an athletic hybrid, that is, a ball game with the features of a track meet.

The opener was really a ball game in every sense of the word. Tom Hughes pitched good enough ball to win, but Rudy pitched a little bit better and walked off with the glory.

Salt Lake scored its first run in the second inning, Hughes's wildness aiding the Bees. Leslie walked to start the inning. Hughes then struck out Pittenger and Pearce. Tom had two strikes on Peters but finally uncorked a wild one that landed on Pete's anatomy, allowing the Bee backstop a free ticket to first. Kallio then helped win his own game by squirting a single to right, Leslie scoring.

O'DOUL HOMES

O'Doul's home run into the right field bleachers gave the Mormons their second run in the third frame. Kallio breezed along without allowing a hit for five innings, but Twombly spoiled Rudy's chances for a no-hit affair in the sixth. Babe bounced one that was a little too high for Pearce to get, just hitting the top of the Bee third-sacker's glove and deflecting over to Pittenger. Pittenger got off a perfect peg to Leslie, but Twombly, who shakes a rapid pair of hoofs, had legged it to first just ahead of the throw for a single.

McAuley spoiled Kallio's chances for a shut-out in the eighth when he tripled to right and legged it home on Cruise's infield out. McAuley's triple was a long drive to right that O'Doul got one hand on after a long run, but could not hold.

Frederick and Durst made star catches in center, robbing each other of hits, while Marty Krug, Pittenger and Leslie also pulled off some nifty plays. Butch Byler, who has been out for two months because of a sprained ankle, returned to the Angel line-up in the second game and caught a nice game, making a great catch of a foul fly by Leslie, and also lining out a brace of bingles.

HELEN WILLS IN WIN OVER MRS. BUNDY

Berkeley Girl Retains State Net Title by Trimming Santa Monica Star

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7. Seven new California tennis champions were made and two successfully defended their titles in the tournament completed today on the Berkeley courts.

Helen Wills, national and Olympic champion, retained the women's singles title, whi h she has held since 1921, and Cranston Holman repeated in the junior singles.

Miss Wills defeated Mrs. May Sutton Bundy of Santa Monica, former national champion, in the final of the women's singles, before one of the largest crowds ever gathered at the Berkeley Tennis Club. The score was 6-3, 6-4. Mrs. Bundy showed remarkable ability to cover court and return the champion's well-placed shots but was outgeneraled.

Cranston Holman won the junior singles from Alan Herrington of Hollywood, 6-3, 6-2, 6-4, Ray Casey won the men's singles by defeating Roland Roberts, 6-3, 6-4, 3-6, 6-4. Edith Cross became the new girls' national hard-court champion when she defeated Rose Marie Bruna, 6-4, 7-5.

Holman and Herrington received the junior doubles crown by putting out Jack Petty and Kenneth Wise, 6-4, 7-5, 6-0. Ila Wilcox of Santa Clara won the finals of the girls under 16 event from Rose Marie Bruna, 5-7, 7-5, 6-2. Bobby Sellers defeated Martin McKee in the boys under 15, 5-7, 6-3, 6-2. The mixed doubles title was won by Helen Wills and Ray Casey from Charlotte Hosmer and Herb Suhr, 6-1, 6-4.

Percy D. Haughton declares modern collegiate football is a game that cannot be learned in a few weeks or even a whole season. Columbia University is expected to make some of its opponents hustle as a result of the instruction at the hands of the former Harvard player and coach.

Ebbets Field Jammed With Frenzied Fans

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BROOKLYN, Sept. 7.—The New Yorkers took a firmer hold on the National League pennant by defeating Brooklyn, 8 to 7 today, while Cincinnati was taking a double-header from Pittsburg. It was a slugging match due to the crowd of 35,000 which surrounded the field and made ground rules necessary. A riot call was sent to disperse the thousands who failed to get into the inclosure, although hundreds climbed over the fence wall.

The score was tied in the eighth when, with the bases full and one out, Mitchell fumbled an easy chance and before the side was retired, five Giants had scampered across the plate. Several men and boys who fell trying to climb the walls were taken to hospitals in ambulances. Score:

GREAT PREP GRID RACE EXPECTED THIS SEASON

Manual, L. A. High, Poly, Lincoln and Hollywood to Send Strong Elevens on the Gridiron

BY HELMAN MORIN

Football, war lord of sports, whose weekly festivals draw thousands of shrieking fans, will be ready to make its official opening when more than a thousand high school athletes return to school today. City high schools open this morning, and this afternoon will see the first meeting of the year between coaches and candidates.

Tomorrow, or Wednesday, at the latest, every high school field will be the scene of unlimbering exercises. The extra day will be taken by many coaches for the purpose of doling out uniforms and getting things in shape for the five weeks of practice. The first league games will be played October 17.

A new league, composed of the newly opened Fairfax, Belmont, Roosevelt, Fremont and Harding Heights High schools will play a schedule, the winner of which will meet L. A. High, November 27.

LARGE TURNOUT

Local prep coaches report the biggest turnout of candidates in years. L.A. High, Manual Arts, Polytechnic and Hollywood, each have nearly 200 men out for the twenty or more places. Lincoln, Jefferson and Franklin also have many grid aspirants.

Little or nothing can be told of the strength of the teams that will take the field on the opening date, October 17. Los Angeles, Hollywood, all with plenty of veterans, must be counted as contenders. From the first meeting until the L.A.-Manual game, the coaches of the two schools will be pointing their teams toward each other. With the City League title at stake last year, the two teams played a 13-13 tie and that's the way the league ended.

Herbert White and Bruce Kirkpatrick turned out a championship team from three veterans last year and are faced with the same situation this year. Three letter men are back and the rest depends on the ex-lightweights and substitutes. Capt. Phil Kerr, husky fullback; Tommy Middleton, the darting little half, and Meyers Butts, guard, are three men with letters. Theophilus Smith, colored half, Louie Alamada, former lightweight ball packer; Francis Tappan, Vic Gottschalk, Jimmy Rason and Bill DeFord all have had experience on the line. As a whole, little can be expected of L.A. this year unless a miracle, of the brand that happened last year, is performed.

TOILERS BEEFY

Sid Foster's Manual Arts eleven will be a steam-roller again. Under the leadership of Stever, center, the Artisan team will be beefy and tough. Junior Hanford, fleet half, will be Foster's mainstay in the backfield. A number of last year's strong squad are counted among the missing, but the Toilers never have to worry about making both ends met. Every year, two or three sterling players from Kamchatka or points east are out for the team, and always fill up the holes.

The Artisans ran up more than 200 points in all their games last year and got their only thrill of the year when L. A. carried the ball to their one-yard line with the score tied and three minutes to play. They also went four quarters to a scoreless tie with Bakersfield, State champions. To say the least, Manual Arts will finish near the top when its all over in 1924.

Coach Voyle Brennan of Poly should have little trouble in shaping a winning eleven. With the returning veterans and numerous ex-substitutes, Brennan will send a massive and crushing machine onto the white chalk lines this year. Harold Morris, tackle, Roscoe Goodcell, tackle, Jack Murphy, half, and Carl Handy, guard, are the veterans. Jimmy Dilworth, Palmer and Carroll are the three best bets for quarter.

VETS AT LINCOLN

Lincoln, Hollywood, Jefferson and Franklin must be figured in the running also. All have plenty of men to pick from and plenty of veterans, the Railsplitters welcoming a dozen old-timers. Lincoln lost to Poly and Manual last year and then came from behind to beat Hollywood. Jefferson and Franklin did not make much of a stir, while Hollywood's fast and heavy eleven went to pieces after a defeat at the hands of L. A. High.

Roosevelt and Lincoln highs have two of the best coaches in Southern California handling their squads. "Tiny" Leonard is at Roosevelt and Archie Nisbet, famous California punter, will aid Van Pelt with the Railsplitter candidates. Both coaches should turn out good machines.

CITY SCHEDULE

October 31—Hollywood at L. A. High; Manual Arts at Lincoln; Jefferson at Franklin; Poly, bye.

November 14—Manual Arts at L. A. High; Jefferson at Hollywood; Poly at Lincoln; Franklin, bye.

November 21—Manual Arts at Hollywood; Poly at Franklin; Jefferson and Lincoln, bye; L. A. High will play the champion of the Fairfax, Belmont, Roosevelt, Harding Heights and Fremont High.

November 28—L. A. High at Poly.

If necessary, a play-off game for the championship will be played November 28. If L. A. High or Poly are in the play-off, the game will be played December 5.

Paint Outfit Wins Out With Late Rallies

A four-run rally in the eighth enabled the Pasadena Paint Company nine to overcome a four-run lead and tie the score, and another run in the ninth gave the Crown City outfit a 5-to-4 victory over Paul Zuelch's Kant-Skore Pistons after a thrilling game yesterday at Brookside Park. After blanking the Paint nine with one hit for seven innings, Kirby weakened in the eighth and was driven from the mound before a four-run fusillade. Burke, who relieved Kirby, was touched for the winning marker in the ninth.

Praul pitched for the victors and was invincible after the first three frames, in which the Kant-Skores made all four of their runs. Score:

PASADENA EAGLES WIN

Bunch Hits on Bill Evans for 5-to-2 Victory Over Hollywood Aggregation

Bunching hits on Bill Evans in the third and fifth innings, the Pasadena Eagles handed Hollywood a 5-to-2 beating at Tournament Park yesterday. Hopper, on the mound for the Eagles, pitched masterful ball, allowing but four hits and blanking the hard-hitting Hollywood nine until the seventh inning. The losers got their first hit in the seventh, also.

The Pasadena nine meets Montebello for the championship of the Greater Southern California Baseball Association next week in the first game of a three-game series. They have beaten Downey and Irvine to come into the finals and are classed as one of the best nines in the association. Yesterday's win over Hollywood proves that they are real champions as Hollywood has lost but two games in twenty-five starts. Strickland, Eagle shortstop was the only man on either team to get more than one hit. The score:

SCRAPPERS ARE GIVEN A WARNING

Boxers Instructed to Lay Off Fouls Under Penalty of Being Barred

With strict instructions not to commit any fouls under penalty of being barred from the local arenas, Bob Sage, Bert Colima, Phil Salvador and Johnny Adams are all set and ready for their big double wind-up at Jack Doyle's Vernon Coliseum tomorrow night.

Colima is the man of the four who started the local foul epidemic. He hit Sage low in the first round last week and was disqualified for so doing. That is the reason they have been rematched for this show.

They had not gone far enough to settle the question and the fans are eager to see what Colima can do to Sage, and vice versa. Sage claims he was in front, that the Mexican saw a beating again and took the easiest way out, thinking he might get away with a low blow.

The Mexican is burned up about that accusation, says Sage was not hurt and could have continued and given the patrons what they went to see. This fight should settle the dispute and the men are sure to be careful about fouls. Colima has been guilty twice, and if he happens to make the same mistake the third time he may never box at Vernon again.

Adams, the great little San Bernardino lightweight who won the Coast crown in the American Legion tourney at Hollywood, figures to come home in front of Salvadore, but is meeting a wise and veteran four-rounder who has boxed all of the best of them from Coast to Coast and is long overdue for a good effort. When Salvadore is good he is liable to trim anybody in four rounds.

Shell Oilers Triumph Over Belvedere Men

Shell Oil bunched hits in the fourth and fifth frames and defeated the Belvedere Gardens nine, 8 to 6, in an Independent League game yesterday at Signal Hill. The Belvedere crew made a threatening rally in the ninth, scoring twice, but couldn't quite even up the count. Metz, Andrews, Bender and Sorenson featured with the stick, all driving out two hits apiece. Score:

TITLE NINE WALLOPS CONSTRUCTION CLUB

Allowing his opponents only three scattered hits and no runs, while his team-mates chalked up digits in almost every frame, Bloomquist, demon Title Insurance hurler, won a game from the York Construction Company yesterday by a score of 8 to 0. Bloomquist pitched airtight ball, and deserves a lot of credit for his victory. D. Sigler, Insurance third baseman, had a good day with the willow, getting four hits out of five trips to the platter. Johnny Dundee, world's champion featherweight, who recently forfeited his title because he no longer was able to make the weight, has had fourteen years in the ring and has entered in more than 300 contests. He boxed bantams, feathers, lightweights and welterweights before finally ascending to a championship. Dundee was one of the most elastic boxers ever known. His weight ranged from 126 to 150 pounds, according to the class in which he was going to fight.

A YOUNG VISITOR

BY FEG MURRAY

Lord Renfrew, sometimes referred to as H. R. H. the P. of W., is now among us to see the International polo. Being an Englishman he is a good sport, and anxious to see his invading countrymen win. Being a polo player himself, he is more than unusually interested in the matches now in progress. How good a polo player is young Edward Albert of the House of Windsor? "If I am not the worst of living polo players, the only reason is that I could not be as bad as my brother Henry," the Prince once said.

He plays golf, too, does the world's most famous bachelor. How well, or how badly, I do not know, but in Japan the natives could not understand how Wales, then visiting the heir to the throne of their kingdom, and his host could have as much trouble as they did with a simple thing like a round of golf. A ruler should play supernatural golf, or not play golf at all, was the way far Easterners figured.

I hope, while this most advertised young man is here, that he sees the New York Yankees play a ball game, and that Ruth knocks out a home run. For even if he doesn't understand it, or like it as well as cricket, I'm sure he'll get a genuine thrill out of it.

SUPREME GRID STRATEGIES DISCUSSED BY GIL DOBIE

This is the concluding portion of the second of a series of articles describing great football strategies told by the leading coaches of the country in interviews with J. P. Glass and George Byrnes. Succeeding numbers will include stories by Stagg, Andy Smith, Helsman, Fisher, Folwell and others.

NO. 2 (SECOND PART)
Head Coach, Cornell

Wisconsin's right-end was left standing flat-footed, so surprised he did not even touch the Maroon quarter with his finger tips. The Badger backfield, with the exception of its safety man, had been drawn toward Chicago's right side by the feigned punt. That astonishing run, started on Chicago's thirty-yard line, did not end until Eckersall was downed by the defensive quarterback, Meisener, on Wisconsin's thirty-yard line.

No goal resulted from this strategy, but its results were highly important. It proved that Eckersall was Eckersall despite the rain, the mud and the slush. Wisconsin lost considerable of its confidence, exchanging for it an uneasiness which grew as the game progressed—an uneasiness fomented by tactics it did not understand, and which weakened and hampered it.

For Eckersall made no mistake in applying the lesson he had taught. Play after play progressed while the Badger waited in vain for him to try other runs. Always he disappointed them. He often carried the ball, but it was in the close-up formations: and most of the time he was delegating the task to Walker, Detray and Bezdek. Frequently he punted. He was studying his opponents closely, searching cannily for the moment when he again could leap out at them suddenly, catching them unprepared for his benumbing tactics.

Such an opportunity came in the second half, when the teams faced one another in a situation identical to that which had produced Walter's fifty-five-yard run. Obviously, he would not try that trick again. But in Eckersall's mind the thought persisted that his opponents would reach just such a conclusion. Moreover, other plays, including the famous Maroon mass-on-tackle, which consisted of sending all of the backfield men through tackle for short gains, had been stopped effectively. So he did that which it was apparent he could not do—and, for the second time, got away with it; this time for a run of forty yards.

KEEPS UP AIR OF DEFEAT

All the time he was maintaining that deceptive air of defeat and dejection. Looking at him, you would have sworn that he was convinced there could be only one end to the struggle and that would be disaster for Chicago. But in the active recesses of his mind other thoughts held sway.

Twice, earlier in the contest, the Maroon had reached a point where a field goal seemed possible. Twice the Eckersall toe had directed the ball toward the Badger posts. But in the rain and the mire the pigskin was obstinate. These attempts went astray.

Now, with the end of the combat in sight, the great quarterback marshalled his resources for an attack that would place him in position for a third attempt at a field goal. Using almost the same formation that had produced his two sensational end runs, with the exception that he did not play back as though for a punt, he pretended to pass the ball to Bezdek, who carried out the fiction of a low, hard charge at right end. Instead he kept the pigskin himself, and sneaking around left end, negotiated a thirty-two-yard dash that placed it on Wisconsin's twenty-yard line directly in front of its goal posts.

Now came the supreme test of the psychology applied by Eckersall. With the goal but twenty yards away, he ordered the punt formation which already had so misled the enemy.

It was only first down. Wisconsin decided—quite justifiably—that he intended another around-end run. It deployed its defense accordingly.

In a flash creation crumbled around their very ears. The Maroon star, receiving the snap-back ten yards behind his line, dropped a kick squarely between the goal posts with such speed that the Badger ends and backs scarcely took a step!

STRATEGY WAS REPETITION

Frantic efforts of the Wisconsin juggernaut availed nothing in the remaining moments of play. The ball was rushed in a series of bruising smashes to within one inch of the Chicago line, but there the Maroon held like adamant. The game ended 6 to 0, with Wisconsin on the short end. Having disposed of the Badger threat, one of its two greatest menaces of the year, the Stagg outfit went on to another triumph, this time over Michigan, 3 to 0, that gave it the western championship.

Properly speaking, the great strategy which brought the Maroon its victory over Wisconsin did not rest in a single play, but in the repetition of that play at carefully foreseen psychological intervals. Thus carried out, the football world was afforded the spectacle of a tactical demonstration which, in my opinion, has never been surpassed and perhaps never equaled.

It thrills me to the marrow even though nearly twenty years have passed.

(Next Sunday: Stagg)

That a winner pays big was shown by the recent stories between the Pirates and Giants at Forbes Field, Pittsburg, when the home team won all four games. The champions were paid 25 cents per fan in attendance and got $35,000 as their share of the 100,000 gate.

Redlands Pigskinners Soon to Grab Old Soil Once More; Coach Cecil Cushman on Job

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

REDLANDS, Sept. 7.—Another ten days and Redlands football fans will begin to soak in the old gridiron atmosphere, for in that time Coach Cecil Cushman of the University of Redlands will have his tanbark heroes on the field. Redlands lost some good men last year, others will not be back and yet Cushman feels that he will have some excellent material and that his team will make a good showing.

The heaviest loss was Thompson, who for three years was the mainstay of the team. "Tommy" graduated and so did Kemper Taylor, one of the fastest backfield men the south ever knew. Jimmy Brougher, light but a good end, Bradley and Simpson, all light men but valuable to have for use part of a game, also graduated and will be seen no more.

IS COMING BACK

"Big Chief" McGilbra is coming back from Oklahoma although he may not get to play football until registration is complete.

Andy Smith to Take Charge Next Monday

Many California Stars Lost by Graduation

Mentor Expects Line to be Light, But Fast

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BERKELEY, Sept. 7.—On the afternoon of September 15, just one week from tomorrow, Andy Smith will take charge of the University of California football team and the Golden Bears will open practice for the 1924 season. With the nucleus of last year's eleven gone, and a very few letter men back, the Blue and Gold coach will have a tough problem on his hands to form a new team capable of winning conference honors.

The loss by graduation of Don Nichols, Don Perry, Jack Witter, Stew Beam, Don Newmeyer, Hoggy Evans, Dick Dunn and several others, and the failure of Bill Blewett, halfback and drop kicker, to meet entrance requirements, make it necessary for Smith to form an entirely new combination.

It looks like the line will be fast and light this year. Babe Horrell will hold down the center job, there is no doubt about that. As guards, it appears that Rau, who played well in the last few games last year, and Lewis are the best bets. Sergent will run Lewis a close race, but lacks the speed. Dana Carey, who played guard last season, and Gordon White will take care of the tackle berths, in all probability. They are both big and fast, and should make a fine combination. "Snookie" Mell and Peet Shaffner are the best bets for the wing jobs, but Frank Thatcher may horn in.

In the backfield Carlson and Tut Imlay are the best bets for the signal-barking job. Carlson has the edge over Imlay from all appearances. Jimmy Dixon, who is especially good as a safety man to run back opponents' punts, will occupy one halfback berth. Earl Jabbs, of last year's freshman team, may be seen as Jimmy's running-mate, although George Dixon, Jimmy's brother, who has just returned to college, has a good chance at half. He is developing into a good dropkicker, and may fill the place of Bill Blewett. Myron Brown leads the field for the fullback job.

The Bears open their season September 27 against Santa Clara, playing ten games, the last one coming with Pennsylvania on New Year's. All contests except the Washington affair will be played on the home gridiron.

Decatur, 4; Peoria, 2.

THEATER CROWD CHEERS JOHNSON

Walter Johnson, always a favorite, the Senators' great hurler, is more popular than ever in Washington these days. Johnson attended Keith's Theater in Washington on the night of his seven-inning no-run shutout over the Browns, Sanderson and Crumit, the headliners of the bill, called attention to the great pitcher as he sat taking in the show. When they tossed a huge bouquet to him across the footlights pandemonium broke loose and the cheers of the audience stopped the performance for several minutes. Straw lids, programs and everything not nailed down were thrown into the air while Johnson, in profound embarrassment, was cheered loud and long.

M'GRAW STILL CONFIDENT

Believes Giants and Yanks Will Win Flag in Their Respective Leagues; Big Battle is on

BY JOHN J. McGRAW
Manager New York Giants

The winding up weeks of the season with both leagues in the hottest sort of a give-and-take fight is to my mind convincing proof that the greatest single regulation ever introduced into baseball was permitting the clubs finishing second and third to share in the world's series receipts.

But for this the Yanks or the Giants might have been well out in front with public interest failing out of a one-sided race. It is not that the runners-up would not play their best against a club with a commanding league, but the incentive to win the second-place money, also the third, has made the secondary clubs fight their heads off against each other right down to the final game.

A few weeks ago, for instance, it looked as if the position of Brooklyn was hopeless as regards the pennant. Just the same, they got into a winning spurt, saw visions of beating the Pirates for second money and have played havoc with both New York and Pittsburg. By beating Pittsburg they helped the Giants. In turn they gave Pittsburg a better chance at the pennant by beating us. As a result the lead is in a tangle. Instead of a one-sided affair, three clubs now have a real chance.

But the interest has not stopped there. The Cubs, instead of giving up after their bad setback of a month ago, have knuckled down to a fight with the Reds for third place and fans all over the country are getting some real red-hot baseball.

Second-place money is a prize well worth fighting for. No player can ignore it. Last year it amounted to almost as much as the losing club in the big series got a few years ago. I wouldn't be a bit surprised to see the second-place clubs get as much as $500 a player this fall. They will get more, of course, if the series is played in New York, but it will be a goodly sum no matter where the championship fight is staged.

The second-place clubs in both leagues get the same amount, as it is all paid out of the world's series receipts. Third-place money is enough to make a club fight.

I have never known a club deliberated to quit when the chance of a pennant was gone, but it is only human nature for any ballplayer to throw his whole soul into a fight if there is something at stake. By the same token it was only human for ball clubs to let up in the past when they had no more chance. Managers could use the remaining games to try out young players, and often they did so. Nowadays, though, it is a fight, and tough fight, right up to finish.

In the American League Washington started out to give Detroit a fight for that second money when it was thought that the Yanks would win easily. In fighting Detroit they also had to fight everybody else. As a result the spirit carried them, right on to the top. A new interest suddenly developed in the fight between Tigers and the Yanks. Right behind them St. Louis and Cleveland are battling for a chance at third money. If one of the three clubs takes a bad fall the Browns or Indians may crawl into third place. That makes it a real race.

All of this comes about through the simple scheme of fixing a prize for the clubs finishing second and third. Baseball had needed such a thing for many years and it is surprising that nobody thought of such constructive legislation until a few years ago.

While all the players are benefitted financially I believe the public is benefitted much more. The fans get good baseball whether their home club is about to win or not.

I often reflect on how baseball would have developed if there had been no world's series; with no money prize at the end of the season. There was no world's series when I played baseball except the Temple Cup. There was interleague contests. We fought to win that pennant, of course, but we had no such incentive as ball clubs now enjoy.

You may think that, by this time, I am weakening on my early predictions—my firm belief that the Yanks and Giants, being the strongest clubs, would win out. I haven't weakened, though. Anyway, I haven't changed my mind. I can't get the logical conclusion out of my head that the clubs with the greatest punch ought to win. The Giants and Yanks certainly have the strongest clubs. For that reason I still believe in them. A considerable part of baseball is luck—not so much as some people think it is, but I do not believe that luck will be factor enough to nose out the best clubs.

A great pitcher with a club is always a powerful factor to give it a fighting spirit. When Mathewson was in his prime the Giant players felt confident. A modern instance of that same confidence in a club is the rise of Dazzy Vance with Brooklyn. Since he started his marvelous spurt of this season the whole Brooklyn club has rallied behind him with real confidence and cockiness. He inspires their work even when he is not in the box.

Though we have had some disappointing setbacks the schedule is arranged conveniently for the Giants and we certainly ought to hold our own. It will be our own fault if we don't. The Yanks are up against a harder proposition. They will run into some tough going out West, I have noticed, though, that the Yanks always seem to play harder when pressed. The Giants go, also.

This wonderful interest in the race and the increasing crowds are due almost directly, I think, to that chance for second and third money.

Vernon Drops Twin Bill to Rising Ducks

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

PORTLAND (Or.) Sept. 7.—Portland made it six out of seven from Vernon and advanced to within three games of fourth place by winning both ends of today's double-header, 7 to 6 and 11 to 3. In the first game the Beavers won in a three-run ninth-inning rally off Lefty Thomas and in the second game they drove Penner, leading pitcher of the league, out of the box after an eight-run onslaught in the fourth. Frank Brazill hit his twenty-eighth homer of the year off Penner. Scores:

LOCAL LAUGHS

Each week The Times produces a film entitled "Local Laughs," consisting of the fifteen best jokes submitted by local people. Weekly prizes are paid of $5, $3, $2, and twelve of $1 each. A list of theaters showing the film, together with rules for submitting jokes are given daily in a coupon in The Times. Prize-winning jokes, and names and addresses of winners, appear only on the screen. Jokes receiving honorable mention will be given a place of honor on The Times' comic page each week-day, and each of these contributors will receive a souvenir of acknowledgement.

During the evening they entertained for about 200 Claremont friends. Musical numbers were given by Prof. Lyman, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Russell, Miss Marie Olive and Florence Duvall.

ORANGE TO TRY OUT NEW STREET LIGHTS

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

ORANGE, Sept. 7.—The new eastern type lights, proposed for the Orange Plaza and various other downtown streets, will be demonstrated in the Plaza Square on Tuesday evening, the 16th inst., it was declared today by George Gilmore, local agent for the Southern California Edison Company. Gilmore, in a letter from Charles Mesmer, illuminating engineer for the Edison Company, was notified that the demonstration unit would definitely arrive in Orange on that date. The lights will immediately be connected for the demonstration that evening, which will be attended by committees from the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, the City Council and the Chamber of Commerce.

KINGS DRUGGISTS AND PHYSICIANS CLEARED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HANFORD, Sept. 7.—Physicians and druggists of Hanford are not bootleggers, purveying or assisting in purveying liquor, Dist.-Atty. McKay of Kings county asserts in a statement just published. He states that he and county peace officers spent three weeks investigating and he gives the doctors and druggists a clean bill of health against the charges made by Harry Hammer, scientist and lecturer from Los Angeles, who made allegations to the contrary at a recent Kiwanis Club luncheon, resulting in a vast amount of local talk.

AUTHORITY TO TALK TO ADVERTISING MEN

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

INGLEWOOD, Sept. 7.—Secretary Earl W. Porter of the Inglewood Chamber of Commerce has been invited by the Southern California Association of Advertising Agencies to address the convention of that organization at Catalina on October 10 and 11. He has been requested to talk on "Community Advertising," the subject which he has taught at the summer school for commercial secretaries at Stanford University so ably that it has given him a national reputation as an authority on these matters.

MOTHER OF HANFORD MAYOR PASSES AWAY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HANFORD, Sept. 7.—The mother of Mayor Lucas of this city, Mrs. Mary M. Rigby, aged 81 years and a native of Ohio, died in this city yesterday, and the remains will be sent to Los Angeles for interment in the family plot. Her husband served four years in the Southern army during the Civil War, and nine years as pastor of Methodist churches in Kansas, coming by ox team to Pendleton, Or., where he filled a pulpit for many years.

SUPERIOR OIL GETS KERN TRACT LEASE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, Sept. 7.—Agnes Graham of Oakland recently leased to F. R. Burrows of Los Angeles the southwest quarter of the northwest quarter of Section 23, 29-23, and Mr. Burrows and his wife are reported to have signed the lease to the Superior Oil Company of Los Angeles.

SCHOOLS OPEN NEXT WEEK

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

HUNTINGTON PARK, Sept. 7.—The schools of both the Huntington Park Union High School district and the Huntington Park City school district, will begin their terms one week from tomorrow, on which day it is expected the high school and the seventh grammar schools will have the largest enrollments in the history of the school systems of the districts. More than 100 teachers have been employed in each of the districts for the new school year.

DRUGGISTS AND PHYSICIANS CLEARED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HANFORD, Sept. 7.—Physicians and druggists of Hanford are not lawbreakers, purveying or assisting in purveying liquor, Dist.-Atty. McElroy of Kings county asserts in a statement just published. He declares that he and county peace officers spent three weeks investigating and he gives the doctors and druggists a clean bill score against the charges made by Harry Culver, scientist and lecturer of Los Angeles, who made allegations to the contrary at a recent Rotary Club luncheon, resulting in a great amount of local talk.

AUTHORITY TO TALK ON ADVERTISING MEN

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

INGLEWOOD, Sept. 7.—Secretary Burl W. Porter of the Inglewood Chamber of Commerce has been invited by the Southern California Association of Advertising Clubs to address the convention of that organization at Catalina on October 10 and 11. He has been invited to talk on "Community Advertising," the subject which he brought at the summer school for commercial secretaries at Stanford University so ably that it has given him a national reputation as an authority on these matters.

MOTHER OF HANFORD MAYOR PASSES AWAY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HANFORD, Sept. 7.—The mother of Mayor Lucas of this city, Mary M. Rigby, aged 81 years, a native of Ohio, died in this city yesterday, and the remains were sent to Los Angeles for interment in the family plot. Her husband served four years in the Civil War during the Civil War and nine years as pastor of Methodist churches in Kansas, following by ex team to Pendleton, Ore., where he filled a pulpit for many years.

SCHOOLS OPEN NEXT WEEK

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

HUNTINGTON PARK, Sept. 7. Trustees of both the Huntington Park Union High School district and the Huntington Park city district will begin their work one week from tomorrow, on which day it is expected the high school and the seven grammar schools will have the registrations in the history of the school systems of the city. More than 100 teachers have been employed in each of the districts for the new school

DEFENSE DAY PLANS OUTLINED

Orange Citizens Discuss Program and Means for Suitable Observance

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

ORANGE, Sept. 7.—Plans for a suitable observance of national Defense Day in Orange were outlined at a meeting of local citizens at the American Legion rooms here last night.

With a view of informing the public on the purposes of the Defense Test, it was decided to open headquarters for the day at the Plaza. Here an enrollment station will be maintained for the day, manned by Legion members in uniform, and Defense Day will be explained to visitors.

The Red Cross, G.A.R., and Spanish War Veterans also will be invited to occupy tents at the Plaza during the day. The city will be attired in holiday decorations strung about the Plaza.

In the evening a patriotic program will be presented at the Legion Hall at which local speakers will explain the national defense program.

At the meeting last night, Claude Potter, Legion Commander, presided as chairman. A committee on arrangements for the day was named with A. S. Ralph as chairman and members of the City Board to assist him. Maj. H. G. Upham was named chairman of the program committee for the evening.

THANK FIRE FIGHTERS

Azusa Chamber Officials Have Expressed Appreciation

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

AZUSA, Sept. 7.—A resolution of thanks to the men who so valiantly fought the forest fire in the San Gabriel Canyon the past week and succeeded in stopping the raging flames was passed by the Azusa Chamber of Commerce.

Especial mention was made of Col. W. B. Greeley, head of the United States Forestry Service, who came at once to the scene of the fire when he learned of it and took charge of the fire fighting. Also mention was made of R. H. Charlton, district supervisor of the United States Forestry Service of Angeles Forest, and of George Meier, assistant deputy fire warden, who, in the absence of his brother, A. L. Meier, took charge of the work about Azusa and the recruiting of men from this region for the work. The secretary, Charles A. Huffman, was directed to draft a resolution of thanks to these men and to every man who fought the flames and to have the resolution printed in the local papers.

COUNTY'S NEEDS TO BE MEETING TOPIC

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

ORANGE, Sept. 7.—Taking Orange county needs as the principal topic of discussion, the next regular meeting of the Orange Community Chamber of Commerce will be held at the Immanuel Lutheran Church at East Chapman and Pine streets, Monday, the 15th inst., it was announced today by V. D. Johnson, secretary. A list of speakers, including officials from various parts of the county, has been prepared to treat the various subjects dealing with problems pertinent to the county's development.

DESERT HEAT CLAIMS TOURIST FROM EAST

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA BARBARA, Sept. 7.—Desert heat caused the death here today of Mrs. Margaret Galberti of Springfield, Mass., and resulted in the complete prostration of her husband, her son and daughter. The family had motored across the country from the East and were well until they struck the desert between Barstow and Needles. There it is said they first felt the terrific heat which caused the death and prostrations here.

DOVE SHOOTING POPULAR

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

INGLEWOOD, Sept. 7.—Dove shooting seems to be an extremely popular sport with hunters of this section. Permits are being taken out by Inglewood, El Segundo, Hermosa, Hawthorne and Lennox sportsmen, and one store, the Inglewood Mercantile Company, according to Leo Calkins of that firm, reports twenty-five permits taken out in one day.

RATE INCREASE DELAYED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HANFORD, Sept. 7.—A 10 per cent rise in rates in Kings county requested by the Southern California Edison Company from the State Railroad Commission has been abrogated for the present, though recently allowed. Word to this effect has been received here by the Hanford Chamber of Commerce and Dist.-Atty. McKay of Kings county, who fought the increase.

PLAN CAMPAIGN ACTIVITIES

Coolidge-Dawes Workers in San Joaquin Valley to Start Intensive Work This Week

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FRESNO, Sept. 7.—Active and intensive work in the Coolidge-Dawes campaign will start immediately after the reorganization of the Republican County Central Committee next Tuesday, it was announced yesterday by Ray C. Wakefield, chairman of the retiring committee.

The direct primary law provides for the organization of the County Central Committee on the second Tuesday after the primary election. Although Tuesday is a legal holiday, work of the committee will not be hampered, Wakefield stated.

Wakefield stated that the committee will hold its meeting in in the Courthouse and notices to this effect are being sent out by Frank A. Willey, secretary of the retiring committee. At this meeting new officers of the committee will be elected and complete organization plans adopted.

The Coolidge-Dawes campaign will start simultaneously over the State under the leadership of M. L. Requa, who has been designated as the State campaign director, and the State Central Committee through the organization of the county central committees and ways and means committees in each county, will work in conjunction with each other.

Preliminary plans for this work in the valley were laid at a meeting last Tuesday night between Mr. Requa and the chairman of the retiring central committee and other Republican leaders of the entire valley. These plans are ready to be submitted to the central committees upon their organization.

Mrs. Douglas W. Ross of Berkeley is in the valley this week organizing the work of the Coolidge-Dawes campaign among the women.

School Change is Being Sought by San Gabriel

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

SAN GABRIEL, Sept. 7.—A movement is on foot, and apparently gaining headway, for this city to withdraw from the Alhambra High School district and to establish either an independent high school or to join with other nearby communities in a union high school.

The Chamber of Commerce through its board of directors has requested the co-operation of the City Trustees in a thorough investigation of the advisability of such a change. It is intended to form a committee consisting of representatives of the chamber, the City Trustees and the School Board to undertake a comprehensive survey of the whole situation.

It is pointed out by those interested that although this city might not be able alone to conduct a separate high school, the plan of a union high school, to include the districts of San Gabriel, San Marino, Garvey, Savannah and South Santa Anita, would be feasible.

The combined assessed valuation of these districts is $21,863,270, or within $2,500,000 of the assessed valuation of the Alhambra district.

Report Airplane Used to Smuggle Aliens at Border

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 7.—European immigrants are being smuggled across the border into the United States by airplane, the Mexican secret service is informed. It is reported that the United States has inaugurated stricter vigilance and has a squadron of planes on the outlook for smugglers.

Advisory Board Making Survey of Canyon Road

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN BERNARDINO, Sept. 7.—Inspecting the proposed reduction of the grade of Waterman Canyon route, the Governor's Highway Advisory Committee is in the San Bernardino Mountains. The committee arrived in the city early in the day and, after a banquet, began a tour of the State highway system in the mountains.

On the tour, the committee will study the proposed reconstruction of the canyon route to the crest, surveys of which have been completed by Engineer Sullivan of the highway commission. This route is the most heavily traveled stretch of mountain highway in Southern California, thousands of motorists entering the San Bernardino Mountains and resort district weekly via the canyon. It leads directly to Lake Arrowhead and Big Bear Valley across the crest.

PLAN TWO NEW WELLS FOR KETTLEMAN HILLS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, Sept. 7.—Belief that the General Petroleum Corporation has reached an oil sand in its Kettleman Hills wildcat at a depth of 5430 feet is strengthened by the fact that lumber is being hauled to the lease for the construction of two new derricks.

Ansterberg to Pilot Car in Raisin Day Race

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FRESNO, Sept. 7.—Ernie Ansterberg will be one of a dozen intrepid drivers who will compose the starting squad of the annual Raisin Day speedway race in Fresno Thursday, October 2. In the camps of the racing kings, Ansterberg has been known for years as one of the most thoroughly trained speedway mechanicians in the business. He is now considered a driver of ability by reason of recent performances in the East and at the last big race in Los Angeles.

Ansterberg was first introduced to San Joaquin Valley race fans as the mechanician of the late Roscoe Sarles, who was a favorite here. Later he rode with Joe Boyer, and was at Indianapolis last spring with the Duesenberg team. After driving in two events at Uniontown, Pa., he came to California with Boyer, and on twenty-four hours' notice drove a Duesenberg entry in the Thanksgiving Day race at Beverly Hills. He again drove in the Washington's birthday race there.

Other drivers entered for what is expected to be the fastest race ever run on the Fresno speedway, because of the newly developed possibilities of their motors, are Jimmy Murphy, Bennett Hill, Harry Hartz, Tommy Milton, Harland Fengler, Jerry Wonderlich, Earl Cooper, Fred Comer and Antonio Mourie.

New York Line Given Slap by Indiana Hamlet

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 17.—New Carlisle, a little Indiana village, twelve miles west of South Bend, has taken a direct slap at the New York Central Railway Company. Even the famous Twentieth Century Limited, in all its sections, must respect the newly created town ordinance or the engineers will be arrested and prosecuted.

An ordinance to become effective the 15th inst., passed by the town Council, declares that no train may pass through the town at a rate of more than eight miles an hour. Fifty-two passenger trains and forty freight trains pass through there daily. Under the ordinance it would require about twenty minutes for freight trains to pass through the town. Sixteen hours would be necessary to accommodate all trains.

The move was taken to eliminate "death crossing" where many have been killed in recent years. The town seeks an injunction against the railway company and will attempt to force elevation of tracks. Permission was asked today to sue on behalf of the State. Costs of the suit will be paid by citizens. Several conferences and indignation meetings have been held and the town has hired lawyers to force the case.

COVINA SCIENTIST HONORED BY FRANCE

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

COVINA, Sept. 7.—Prof. G. W. Ritchey, who for several years has made his home near Covina, and who is at present in France experimenting in the construction of an entirely new type of telescope, was awarded a few weeks ago the Janssen medal by the Astronomical Society of France for the work which he did at Mt. Wilson in the development and use of the great reflecting telescopes. These telescopes were made entirely under the personal direction of Prof. Ritchey.

The J. Janssen gold medal was presented to Prof. Ritchey at the annual meeting of the Astronomical Society of France, held at the Sarbonne, the University of Paris. At that time Prof. Ritchey delivered a lecture entitled "Great Telescopes and Celestial Photography."

CORONA WILL VISIT LONG BEACH TUESDAY

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Sept. 7.—Nearly 2000 business men and residents of Corona will descend on Long Beach Tuesday for an outing at the beach and a picnic luncheon at the municipal auditorium. By proclamation of Mayor Nonhof, of Corona, Tuesday was declared a holiday in that city and all places of business will close. The visitors will be greeted here by Mayor Ray Clark, members of the City Council and officials of the Chamber of Commerce.

PISMO BEACH GETS HOTEL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Sept. 7.—Work will be started immediately on a new forty-room hotel at Pismo Beach, according to the announcement made here today by Mr. and Mrs. M. Olsen of Bakersfield, who have purchased a building site from Mrs. Mabel Miller at a figure approximating $10,000. Plans for the new hotel, which will be a Class A structure, include a store, restaurant and lobby on the first floor, with hotel rooms on the second and third floors.

LOSERS ARE FOUND WITH LA FOLLETTE

Redlands Man Returning From Montana Declares Coolidge Gaining Ground

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

REDLANDS, Sept. 7.—Dr. Stillman Berry, well-known resident of Redlands, has returned from Montana, where he spends the summer on his big ranch, and says that in the north the fight is to be between Coolidge and La Follette with Davis practically eliminated.

Dr. Berry says that the strength of Coolidge all through the West and the North is not to be questioned. The conservative Democrats, he says, are rallying to the standard of Coolidge while the radicals of the party are supporting La Follette. Dr. Berry talked with a good many and he says he did not find a single Davis vote among all those with whom he talked.

He also says that the Coolidge vote is greatly on the upgrade with the generally better agricultural conditions. Such farmers as are for La Follette are those who have not been able to make any money in recent years.

Dr. Berry is of the opinion that Senator Walsh, Democrat, will be returned from Montana to Washington.

HONESTY PROVEN

Traveler Finds World Not Such a Wicked Place

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

INGLEWOOD, Sept. 7.—John Spangler, secretary-treasurer of the Smoot-Holman Company of this city, just returned from four months in Europe, reports a general stiffening of business conditions. He expects to see a marked increase in business due to the recent acceptance of the Dawes plan by the Germans.

Speaking before the Rotary Club of this city, Mr. Spangler declared that before this trip he had been inclined to a preconceived notion that certain foreigners were fundamentally dishonest. Through a series of circumstances, he added, he lost valuable articles in nearly every country visited, yet every one of these was returned, although in some instances it took thirty days to catch up with his itinerary. He is now cured of the belief that foreigners are not honest. "All men" he added, "are inherently honest, but some are coaxed into a belief that they gain by dishonesty."

His travels included France, Italy, Holland, Belgium, Switzerland and the British Isles. The Smoot-Holman Company, manufacturers of enamel ware, buys large quantities of high-grade materials abroad.

HEROISM RECOGNIZED AFTER MANY YEARS

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Sept. 7.—Belated recognition by the War Department of heroism in the Philippines, twenty-five years ago, was accorded Maj. Henry F. Hoyt, 210 West Broadway yesterday. Maj. Hoyt received a citation from Washington for "gallantry in action against insurgent forces at Marilao, Luzon, Philippine Islands, March 29, 1899, in attending wounded under fire." Dr. Hoyt, at the time of his action, was serving as chief surgeon on the staff of Gen. MacArthur in the insurrection. He was in twenty-five engagements. In addition to the citation, which entitles the local surgeon to add a silver star to his campaign ribbons, he will probably be awarded a medal for service during the Spanish-American War, according to advices received by him from the War Department.

INGLEWOOD INTERESTED

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

INGLEWOOD, Sept. 7.—Inglewood plans to send a delegation of fifty prominent citizens, both men and women, headed by Frank D. Parent, president of the Inglewood Chamber of Commerce and the Inglewood Realty Board, to the monthly meeting of the Harbor District Chambers of Commerce at Compton. Inglewood is particularly interested, as at this dinner meeting, R. K. Warren, county engineer in charge of the work to be done in the various sanitation districts, in one of which this day is included, will display the completed plans for the proposed giant outfall sewer that it is proposed will drain all these districts.

BELL SCHOOLS OPEN

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

BELL, Sept. 7.—The Bell schools are to open tomorrow for the 1924-25 school year, is the announcement coming from Superintendent H. Clement Smith, who states that there has been no change made in the district on account of Maywood voting favorably to incorporate as a city of the sixth class recently. It is expected to have the largest enrollment in the local schools that has ever been had.

CELEBRATE STATE DAY

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

HUNTINGTON PARK, Sept. 7. Inaugurating a State Day recently in their Sunday school, the First Christian Church has planned to make this an annual event. The first observance was conducted this morning, when almost 450 persons registered. It was shown that out of the number, there were sixty-six registered, who were born in this State, and more than half the States in the union were represented.

BOY TRAFFIC VICTIM

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

REDLANDS, Sept. 7.—J. Janssetin, 14-year-old boy, stepped in front of the automobile of C. H. Stull today and was dragged for some distance on the pavement. Almost all the flesh was torn from his left arm and surgeons sewed it up from shoulder to below the elbow.

NEW PASTOR FOR FRIENDS IN WHITTIER

Rev. W. O. Trueblood of Indianapolis Preaches His Inaugural Sermon Sunday

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

WHITTIER, Sept. 7.—One of the largest audiences ever assembled at the First Friends Church here, greeted Rev. Willard O. Trueblood this morning when he delivered his inaugural address, having accepted the pastorate of the church, after the resignation of the former pastor, Rev. Frank Dell, who leaves the local church to take up evangelistic work.

Rev. Mr. Trueblood is a graduate of Earlham College at Richmond, Ind., and later a member of the board of trustees. He was former pastor of the Friends Church at Indianapolis, and was prominent in church, educational and civic affairs.

This morning's service was of dual interest in that it was scheduled as "Home Coming Sunday," and the first Sunday to have Rev. Mr. Trueblood in the pulpit.

Dr. Walter F. Dexter, president of the local college, presided at the opening exercises and introduced Rev. Mr. Trueblood to the congregation. The number three figured conspicuously in the sermon; the home, the church and the school formed one group in which Dr. Trueblood declared the home to be the greatest of the three in laying the foundation for spiritual and intellectual achievement. Then he spoke of Christianity as being the light, the salt or the leaven to lift a sordid, sorrowing world out of its present condition.

SAN GABRIEL CANYON TO GET TROUT CROP

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

AZUSA, Sept. 7. — One million baby trout are soon to be put into the streams of the San Gabriel Canyon above here. The Fish and Game Commission will ship the trout to Azusa and men and trucks will be provided by the Azusa Chamber of Commerce to distribute the fish and empty the cans in which they are shipped into the streams at Bonita, Rincon, West Fork and Cold Brook. The Chamber of Commerce has arranged for two big trucks and about fifteen men to undertake the distribution of the mountain trout. The fish will not be placed in the streams until after the first rains but must be in by October 1.

TWO NEW OFFICERS AT HUNTINGTON PARK

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

HUNTINGTON PARK, Sept. 7. Two new officers have been appointed by the City Board of Trustees, one a new motorcycle officer to take the place of Harry Fry, who had been at the head of the motorcycle police of the city for several months, and who was "relieved" from duty by the three new Trustees while Mr. Fry was on a two weeks' vacation. C. B. Hathaway has been appointed to fill the vacancy. Thomas J. Worrell is the other new officer who has been selected as a member on the force, and he will be on night duty.

WINTER ESTATE GOES TO STATE

San Francisco Mint Robber's Property Unclaimed

Fresno Court Orders it Held in County Treasury

Final Disposition to be Made in Five Years

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FRESNO, Sept. 7. — A name which was once probably the most notorious in America but later almost unheard was thrust into deeper obscurity yesterday by Superior Judge S. L. Strother when he made an order depositing the assets of the estate of John Winter of Coalinga in the county treasury for ultimate distribution to the State of California.

The name was first connected with one of the biggest and most daring robberies in history, and after it had been changed to a number while the owner did time in San Quentin from where he was pardoned, was associated with a trusted and highly respected employee of the Shell Oil Company.

Winter was one of a trio of robbers who tunneled through almost a block to the basement of the United States Mint in San Francisco, which they held up and robbed of about half a million dollars in gold bullion.

The money was carried to the San Francisco Bay and dumped into the water. The trio were arrested and assisted officials in recovering all but a few bars of the precious metal. They were then tried and convicted and sentenced to prison.

Following his pardon Winter went to Coalinga, where he was employed in a trusted position by the oil concern and made good. He died recently at the age of 56.

Public Administrator C. E. Barnum appeared in Judge Strother's court yesterday with his attorney, Frank Everts, to close the estate, which amounts to about $3000, cash and bonds. The court was informed that Winter has left no known heirs and no will, so for that reason the property will be held in the treasury for a year to be paid to any heir who may appear and will then go to the State to be held for five years, and if no heir appears it will then go to a fund for school purposes.

TOURIST ROBBED

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, Sept. 7.—Unaware of the maneuvers of pickpockets, J. F. Heelrung, tourist, stopping at the Windermere Hotel, reported to the local police that he had been robbed of his wallet containing over $250 in traveler's and personal checks while riding on the Ocean Front tram plying between Ocean Park and Santa Monica. Police of the Bay District are keeping an especially keen watch on pickpockets owing to the number of reported thefts during the past few weeks.

CITY HALL PLANNED

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

VERNON, Sept. 7.—The city of Vernon has for some time had under consideration the construction of a new City Hall, and bids were recently advertised for. Those received were not satisfactory, and new bids have been advertised for and will be opened at the session Tuesday morning.

FIELD FULFILLS PIONEER HOPES

Rosecrans Has Three Good Wells on Production

Associated Bore Due to be Finished This Week

With three wells on production, the Rosecrans field is beginning to fulfill the rosy expectations of its pioneers. The Superior Oil Company's Maxwell No. 1, which discovered the 43-degree gravity oil, still is the largest producer in the field, flowing at an average daily rate of 950 barrels. The Barnsdall Oil Company's Rosecrans No. 1 offsetting the Maxwell is flowing the same high gravity product at a rate of 960 barrels a day, while the first well of the Rosecrans-Athens district, the Union Oil Company's Athens No. 1, is doing about 650 barrels a day. The total output of the field at present is about 2450 barrels a day.

The Barnsdall well which was completed last Wednesday tapped the same sand in which the Maxwell found its 42.8-degree gravity oil. Gravity tests reported by Barnsdall officials show that the product tests 42.4 degrees in the flowline, and 41.2 degrees in the tank, which is practically the same as the gravity of the Maxwell product. Operators believe that the entire southeastern area of the Rosecrans field will be productive of high gravity crude, inasmuch as oil taken from the O'Dea well about one-half mile northwest of the Maxwell and Barnsdall, is reported to test 40 degrees, which is higher than the gravity of the Athens No. 1.

The Associated Oil Company is expected to complete its Higgins No. 1 offsetting the Maxwell and Barnsdall-Rosecrans No. 1, some time this week. The well is practically as deep as its two offsets, and is expected to show about the same results.

The Superior will spud its third well, the Maxwell No. 2 some time this week, and its Maxwell No. 3 shortly afterward. Location has been staked for the Maxwell No. 4, south of the No. 1, offsetting the Associated Oil Company's Hoge No. 1, but drilling probably will be deferred until later.

A significant development of the week was the starting of two new wells by the Union Oil Company, west of its Athens lease, one of the new projects offsetting the Trust No. 1.

KERN FIELD LARGEST IN GAS OUTPUT

Los Angeles Daily Uses 30,000,000 Cubic Feet Piped from Wells

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TAFT, Sept. 7.—The Kern county oil fields are the greatest producers of natural gas in the United States, it is shown in statistics just compiled, disclosing the production for last year. The Midway Gas Company, which operates in the West Side fields of Kern county led all other concerns, showing a production of 46,395,519,000 cubic feet, against 41,448,881,500 for the Consolidated Gas Company of, New York, the next largest producer.

The Midway Gas Company was organized in 1911 as the California Natural Gas Company and served direct to consumer with the use of meters. In October, 1912, a gas line was constructed to Los Angeles which carries upward of 30,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily. The Kern county district uses 54,000,000, exclusive of the 27,000,000 cubic feet used by the San Joaquin Light and Power Corporation for the generation of electricity.

The natural gas supply comes chiefly from the Elk Hills and Buena Vista Hills districts. One well, the Standard Oil Company's No. 7 in the Elk Hills, produced 50,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily when it first came in and now is delivering 26,000,000 feet daily to the pipe line. Besides the gas produced and put into the extensive pipe-line systems running throughout and from Kern county, many millions of cubic feet of gas are allowed to escape into the air each day.

Western Pacific to Sink Another Well at Yermo

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

YERMO, Sept. 7.—The Western Pacific Oil Company has just completed the derrick for a well which it is to drill in this district, adjacent to the original Western Pacific hole, which was drilled 2500 feet deep and abandoned because the drillers were unable to get a water shut-off. The new hole will start at twenty inches.

The Western Pacific No. 2 will be drilled with Standard tools. The derrick is 122 feet high. Drillers from Signal Hill are to do the work. The well is fifteen miles east of Arrowhead highway, in Silver Valley, about ninety miles east of San Bernardino. The original well was projected by Walter Wilhelm, Sr., a prominent Yermo business man. Thomas Williams, deputy sheriff at Yermo, is a large landholder in the district.

EIGHTY-ACRE LEASE IN RIO BRAVO AREA

F. L. Morris of San Francisco, interested in oil leases in many parts of Kern county, has obtained an eighty-acre lease in the Rio Bravo district. The agreement filed for record yesterday is from E. Cooke Smith of Pacific Grove for the north half of the northwest quarter of Section 32, 28-28. Under the terms Morris agrees to drill to a depth of 3000 feet, and eight wells are required. Oil royalty of one-eighth and an annual rental of $160 a year are the considerations. Drilling may be deferred for three years.

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY

You are politely requested to submit samples carefully wrapped and tagged, with letter accompanying, stating what tests are desired. Make sample of small size. There is no necessity for big chunks. Correspondents offering matter for analysis with card, or wrap of paper, intended to show that the stuff is from Jim Jones, for instance, with no marks of identification on samples, will hereafter receive no attention. Analyses are made free of charge.

Rare Minerals

BISHOP, Aug. 21.—Question: I have been a constant reader of your Monday column on minerals, and am inclosing four samples for identification. Sample No. 1 may be strontium carbonate or strontianocalcite. On No. 2 I have no guess, excepting some form of aluminum silicate. No. 3 perhaps is andalusite, stillmanite or cyanite; probably low grade. No. 4 seems to be some kind of alumina, but do not know which one; it has a specific gravity of 2.94. S.

Answer: The samples are very interesting grades of rather rare minerals. No. 1 does not react for strontium and it is crystallized lime carbonate (calcite.) No. 2 is a paper-shell pyrophyllite (hydrous aluminum silicate.) No. 3 is andalusite, and No. 4 is wollastonite (silicate of lime.)

Not Radioactive

YUMA (Ariz.) Aug. 21.—Q.: The sample of rock I am sending you is from the Alamo Mountains about forty-five miles north of Palomas in Yuba county, Arizona. I desire to know what metals it contains; I surmise that it carries manganese, possibly lead, also think it contains gold and silver, but know that you make no tests for those metals. What I am specially anxious to know is, does it show any radioactivity? H.

A.: The quartzitic sample, like many other rocks of San Diego county, California, and along the Colorado River from Yuma to the Grand Canyon, carries a mixture of quite a number of substances, including iron manganese, zinc, titaniferous iron, hematite and hornblende. Lead a trace, and free gold absent.

Calcite

KINGMAN (Ariz.) Aug. 22.—Q.: I am sending you a sample of rock and I would like to know if it contains any values. Mrs. M.

A.: The sample is crystallized lime carbonate.

Paraffine Absent

BISHOP, Aug. 22.—Q.: Please advise what the enclosed sample is composed of. One opinion is that it is paraffine and is found in oil wells. P.

Banded Gneiss

LONG BEACH, Aug. 22.—Q.: Enclosed please find mineral for analysis. Is it worth anything. shall look forward for your report in The Times and thank you in advance. W.

A.: There is no lead in the sample and yet, the specimen was tagged "Cerusaite." (The quoted name is lead carbonate.) The comercial value of mineral represented by the sample is decidedly problematical.

Mica Schist

OCEAN PARK, Aug. 23.—Q.: I would appreciate having this sample analyzed for gold or any other precious metal. S.

Chalk

CALEXICO, Aug. 23.—Q.: Please give me a qualitative analysis on the sample submitted herewith. Does it represent any commercial value?

MRS. S.

A.: The sample is a variety of lime carbonate suitable for tooth powder mixtures, as a source of carbonic acid and probably for mixture with other land fertilizers.

Another Lime Carbonate

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 24.—Q.: What is it?

E. A. J.

A.: It is that variety of calcite known as Marl, and is of value for fertilizer mixtures.

Free Gold Absent

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 24.—Q.: Sample No. 1 is a portion of a well-worn pebble a large number of which are found on the surface of the ground near here. These pebbles cut to quite pretty gems called "black diamonds." I am inclined to believe them to be fragments of smoky quartz. No. 2 is supposed to carry free gold. What is your opinion and can you tell me what the lavender-colored gangue material is? No. 3 is found in a tunnel about 400 feet from where Sample No. 2 was obtained on the surface. Besides traces of chrysocolla, which are present, what is your opinion of the dark mineral?

M.

"Float Ore"

REDLANDS, Aug. 24.—Q.: I am sending you a piece of ore for classification; is it not a variety of ruby silver? SUBSCRIBER.

A.: The sample does not react for silver. It is Bronzite, a variety of Diallage, and isomorphous with Augite. It is, chemically, a silicate of magnesia with iron peroxide and low percentages of alumina and water. Bronzite is of value for mineral collections at colleges and elsewhere.

Of Doubtful Value

BANNING, Aug. 25.—Q.: I am sending in attached parcel a sample of ore from Milner's Canyon in the Twenty-nine Palms district. It is said to yield a metal with a pinkish cast when reduced in a forge. I would like to know what it is and if it represents any commercial value. SUBSCRIBER.

A.: The sample is impure, granular manganesian epidote, and yields with borax and the furnace, metallic-iron in minute forms of the color named by you. It is not of the rare epidote varieties yielding Cerium.

Three Samples

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 25.—Q.: Complete analyses of samples 1, 2 and 3, enclosed herewith.

O. K. H.

A.: It would be well for correspondents to comply with the conditions named at the head of this column when asking for chemical tests, and confine their requests to qualitative analyses only.

Sample No. 1 is ferruginous quartz with no reactions for copper. No. 2 is low grade silicate of lime and soda mixed with quartz, and is in part the mineral Pectolite (silicate of lime and soda.) No. 3 is milk-white quartz. And No. 4 is quartz mixed with a low percentage of iron.

Free Gold Absent

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 25.—Q.: Please classify the sample I am sending you and oblige. M. F.

ASSESSMENT MAP ORDERED

PARKING CURB ASKED

The park department has asked the City Council for an ordinance restricting parking to two hours in the circular drive in Westlake Park.

"TAKE A PEEK NOW"

Last Friday evening I told you plenty about the "JULIAN PETROLEUM CORPORATION" and now I am prepared to show you, and after seeing it all, you will be in a position to tell the other fellow instead of depending on him to tell you.

Starting Wednesday morning, three big busses will leave a down town point every morning at ten o'clock on a trip of inspection over our Southern California oil fields.

The object of these trips is to fully acquaint every shareholder of our Corporation and their friends that may be interested, with our complete program of operations, and how much of an oil Company we really are.

The trip will be entirely free and I know you will all enjoy it.

Phone MEtropolitan 6730 and make a reservation for the day you wish to go, and we will then advise you from what point these busses will leave each day. "Seeing is believing" and I am here to tell you I have some "SHOW HORSE."

The 1924 Cotton Situation

IN 1923 the cotton crop estimates of the Department of Agriculture were worse than useless. They were misleading. The official forecast of the cotton crop on July 2, 1923 was 11,412,000 bales. On August 1, 1923 it was 11,516,000 bales.

The Wall Street Journal of August 10, 1923 said "It does not seem possible for anything like the official estimate of cotton to be produced." The Wall Street Journal of August 25 said that the crop was more than 1,000,000 bales short of the government estimate.

Every forecast of The Wall Street Journal was fulfilled. The Department of Agriculture on November 2, 1923 revised its previous estimate to 10,248,000 bales. This was the first time it had ever issued a report at that late date.

Small wonder that critics of the government in the United States Senate and the House of Representatives asked how it happened that The Wall Street Journal was correctly informed, and able to protect both producers and consumers, while the Department of Agriculture was so extravagantly wrong.

Its staff representative is travelling the cotton belt to get facts, with the same fidelity and absence of prejudice or ulterior motive that characterized The Wall Street Journal's analysis of 1923.

OIL EXPORTS IN STEADY CLIMB

Total Shipments for Week 2,277,231 Barrels

Thirty-three Tankers Sail During Period

Eight Cargoes Are Destined for Foreign Ports

Exports of petroleum from Los Angeles Harbor during the week ending last Saturday continued to climb, the total for the week being 2,277,231 barrels, a substantial increase over the record for the preceding week.

Thirty-three tankers left the harbor during hte week, including an Associated Oil Company vessel which was destined to Avon, in ballast, carrying only bunker oil. Three of these vessels carried gasoline to England, aggregating 207,139 barrels. Ten carried fuel, the remainder being loaded with crude oil for refineries.

Fourteen cargoes were destined for points on the Pacific Coast, eleven for the Atlantic coast, three for London, two for Shanghai, one for Nagasaki, one for Honolulu, and one for Cordova.

AUGUST 30

Lehon to Seattle, 871,270 barrels fuel for General Petroleum Corporation.
Salina to Honolulu, 72,000 barrels fuel for Pan-American Petroleum Corporation.

AUGUST 31

D. G. Scheffel to Richmond, 79,650 barrels crude for Standard Oil Co.
Alden Anderson to Avon, 82,000 barrels crude for Associated Oil Co.
Agwirmth to Bayonne, 106,000 barrels crude for Associated Oil Co.

SEPTEMBER 1

W. F. Norris to Avon, 45,000 barrels crude for Associated Oil Co.
H. H. Rogers to Bayonne, 111,563 barrels crude for Standard Oil Co.
Agwirlone to Bayonne, 106,000 barrels crude for Standard Oil Co.

SEPTEMBER 2

W. S. Miller to Richmond, 74,485 barrels crude for Standard Oil Co.
Olsen to San Diego, 35,641 barrels fuel for Union Oil Co.
F. F. G. Dreyer to Avon, 85,000 barrels crude for Associated Oil Co.
Neches to San Francisco, 55,000 barrels fuel for Shell Company.
M. H. Whittier to Seattle, 74,819 barrels fuel for Associated Oil Co.
Agwirlone to Bayonne, 75,000 barrels crude for Tidewater Oil Co.

SEPTEMBER 3

J. C. Donnell to Philadelphia, 104,900 barrels crude for Sun Oil Co.
Pecora to Bayonne, 72,582 barrels crude for Standard Oil Co.

SEPTEMBER 4

D. G. Scheffel to Richmond, 79,600 barrels crude for Standard Oil Co.
Kwanzo to Avon, bunkers only, for Associated Oil Co.
Argon to Shanghai, 70,000 barrels fuel for Standard Oil Co.

Where Deep Drills Will Seek Petroleum Production

CALM HUNT MADE FOR OIL

Petroleum Seekers in La Honda District Are Going About Business Without Hullabaloo

BY HOWARD C. KEGLEY
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7.—The La Honda district is going about the business of developing an oil field as quietly and systematically as a farmer goes about the task of raising a crop of potatoes. There is no hullabaloo about it, and no promoters waylay you on the street corner or in the elevator to sell you a unit, but the drills are rotating with surprising regularity, and if they don't turn up a nice lot of crude at least ten different outfits are going to be badly surprised.

Ask the geologists for the big producing companies in California and they will tell you that there is no petroleum at La Honda, but go up the little creek at a point not far from "Troutmere" and you can take a spade and shovel mushy asphaltum seepages out of the embankment by the barrelful. Thirty years of history tell us that the Halfmoon Bay district about eight miles distant, has been a producer of ten-barrel pumpers of forty-five gravity crude. There are good seepages all over that part of the country.

Some people pooh pooh at the idea of seepages, but just the same sort of seepages were kicked around in the Wilshire district at Los Angeles for years, until E. L. Doheny took a pick and shovel and started down to see what he could find, and since then California petroleum history has spread the Los Angeles-Salt Lake field upon its records, with about 55,000,000 barrels of production, to say nothing of the La Brea tar pits, where the bones of countless prehistoric monsters were removed from deep pools of petroleum.

Without wishing to seem too sure about it, the observer doesn't mind saying that the La Honda district looks mightily like a potential petroleum field. If it were located most anywhere south of the Tehachapi it would, within six months, be fuller of holes than a dead cottonwood trees thickly populated with woodpeckers. The fact of the matter is that La Honda is only about twenty-eight miles south of San Francisco and they don't do things up San Francisco way with as much suddenness as Southern Californians exhibit in tackling an undertaking of goodly size.

They have never developed an oil field near San Francisco, and they scarcely know how to go about it. They move slowly and with caution. The average land holder in the La Honda district would as soon be arrested for embezzlement as risk his reputation by offering promotion stock in a La Honda well, so things in that district as not moving with anything like the speed that is known when some lone-hander erects a derrick on a high hill within fifty miles of Los Angeles.

I. W. Fuqua, well-known Los Angeles oil operator, once remarked that one might sell or lease all the land for miles around within two weeks by erecting a derrick in Los Angeles or Orange county and announcing that he was going to drill for oil. The fact is that Southern Californians are good chance-takers when it comes to development work, and that is probably one of the reasons why there are so many well developed oil fields in the south end of the State and so few north of the central fields.

At La Honda the country looks quite like that at Wheeler Ridge, where the Standard Oil Company has developed a fair petroleum field. The hills are high and steep, necessitating much expense for road building. The country is slow and backwoodsy. The inhabitants are disinclined to snap up progressive ideas.

Last December the La Honda Oilfields Association, headed by Thomas Costello, having a lease on 2000 acres there, finished drilling a hole about 3200 feet deep. This well was never given a production test, because to test it would require tanks or a pipe line ten miles long. The company did not feel able to build a pipe line and apparently could not finance perhaps $150,000 worth of road building to make possible the erection of tanks, so it capped the is reported to have shown three different sands, and to have appeared to be a producer all the way down from 2200 feet.

The company has since drilled a hole, a few hundred yards away, in order to test the upper sands. This hole was completed a week ago at 1182 feet, and is reported to have tested seventy-five barrels of production a day for three days.

Since the La Honda completed its first hole, an outfit of San Francisco capitalists who are abundantly able to finance as much drilling as they care to do, has been drilling three weels, farther down toward Halfmoon Bay, but on the same structure which has worked out for the La Honda people by W. T. Dinneen, petroleum engineer who has been studying that territory for twenty years.

This outfit is known as the Midstate Oil Company. It is using fine rotary equipment and has plenty of storage tanks on the ground. Its Midstate No. 3 tests up to twenty barrels a day at 1500 feet. The Midstate No. 2 tests twenty barrels down to 2200 feet. Midstate No. 3 is still drilling, according to late reports.

Another outfit, drilling the Elk Hills No. 1, is down 1500 feet, and has its No. 2 down 750 feet. A project on the Schultz ranch, close to the ocean is down 1400 feet. The Mohawk Oil Company is reported to be still leasing acreage, but has not yet started the drill. The San Mateo Petroleum Corporation is drilling on the Driver ranch at 600 feet. Reports Saturday were to the effect that the country has all been leased up solid from Halfmoon Bay to San Gregorio.

MUCH SHIPPING FROM HOGBACK

More Than 100 Cars of Crude Loaded

Output is Being Used by Salt Lake Refinery

Three Large Storage Tanks at Farmington, N. M.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FARMINGTON (N. M.) Sept. 7. Shipment of Hogback crude oil from the loading station of the Midwest Refining Company in this city continues steadily. Over 100 tank cars have been loaded and shipped to the refinery at Salt Lake City. Three storage tanks of 5000 barrels capacity each, have been completed at Farmington and the amount of oil shipped is dependent only on the number of tank cars available. The oil, which tests 42.4 degrees gravity, is of such high grade that many oil men doubt the producing ability of the Hogback Dome structure. Tank cars of 150-barrel capacity are filled in fifty minutes.

Marketing plans of the Santa Fe company which owns the discovery lease on Rattlesnake Dome, twelve miles west of Hogback Dome, which proved at least as good a producer as Hogback, are dependent on the decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission on the application of the New Mexico Central Railroad to build from Santa Fe, N. M., to Farmington, according to W. M. Maule, treasurer of the Santa Fe company, and the New Mexico Central Railroad, who is here from New York.

Well No. 5 on the Rattlesnake has been spudded in and is down sixty feet. Well No. 1 of the Navajo company, a subsidiary of the Santa Fe company, is drilling on the Beautiful Mountain structure, eighteen miles south of Rattlesnake, at 1200 feet.

An eighty-barrel well of high-grade oil was recently brought in on the Mexican Hat structure, on the Lower San Juan River.

The West Coast Gasoline Company's gasoline absorption plant at Aztec, N. M., is producing 300 gallons daily from two natural gas wells which supply the town of Aztec. A rig has been erected for drilling the No. 3. The product is marketed locally at about 30 cents per gallon.

Gas estimated at 500,000 cubic feet was struck at 385 feet in the R. A. Carter well, twelve miles east of Farmington and three miles north of the Bloomfield Oil and Gas Company's No. 1 well. A spark ignited the gas and scorched the drilling machine, but the fire was extinguished before material damage was done. The crew is now drilling at 400 feet.

EIGHT NEW OIL WELLS UNDER WAY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
FARMINGTON (N. Mex.) Sept. [illegible]—Eight wells are now reported to be drilling in the Seven Lakes [illegible] west of Farmington. L. S. [illegible], of Los Angeles, who is drilling [illegible], states that his well is making slow progress through a forty-foot stratum of flint-like [illegible] now about through it and expects better progress. The well of Verne Dumas of Los Angeles was delayed by having to fish [illegible] cellar which was lost in [illegible] hole. This has been accomplished and drilling is again proceeding. Two good oil showings have already been encountered in this well, it is said.

Activities of the Metropole Oil Company in San Juan Basin have been shut down for several weeks. Under the management of H. L. Williams it was drilling six wells and had spotted several more. Mr. [illegible] this week held a conference in Salt Lake City, which is said to have been relative to the Metropole continuing its activities in Utah where it owns land adjacent to the Crescent well, which was recently brought in in Grand County as a producer. Baltimore capital may take over the drilling campaign in New Mexico. Williams has returned to Baltimore to complete arrangements.

Seven cars of drilling material were unloaded at the railroad yards here early last week. Among the shipments was an Armstrong machine belonging to R. E. Costello and associates of Norwalk, Cal., who formed the Norwalk Petroleum Association and holds a permit on Sections 15, 16, 17 and 21, in Township 28, Range 13. Mr. Costello was here for ten days making arrangements.

The Coal Creek Oil Company has completed three validation holes in the Black Rock section, twenty miles south of Farmington and moved its rig for the fourth validating hole after which a deep test will be made in Township 24, Range 13.

J. N. Johnson of Fort Worth, Tex., spudded in a well in the center of Sec. 34, 29-14, having purchased two permits on Range 29, both claims being south of the San Juan River, near Bloomfield.

Oil activities at Farmington are the reason assigned for the erection of a three-story, $60,000 hotel just started by A. M. Amsden, local capitalist and former president of the First National Bank here.

Local Area Has Eleven New Oil Wells in Week

Los Angeles basin oil fields completed eleven new wells during the week which ended Saturday. The Torrance field reported nine of these completions, with a combined flow of 4550 barrels per day, one well doing 1100 barrels and another yielding 1000 barrels. The Rosecrans field scored its third completion, and the first one in Southern California for the Barnsdall Oil Company.

This well is yielding 960 barrels daily and building up steadily. Huntington Beach recompleted one well. The total output of new wells for the week was 5650 barrels daily.

The completions were as follows:

TORRANCE

ROSECRANS

HUNTINGTON BEACH

NEW WELLS IN TORRANCE FIELD

Six Producers Come in on Joughin Lease

Three Flow During Week on Del Amo Tract

Total of 4550 Barrels Daily Added to District

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
TORRANCE, Sept. 7.—Completions on the Joughin leases of the Sentinel and Superior Oil Companies in the southeastern part of the Torrance field, held the interest of operators here during the past week. Three unusuall good wells were brought in, one for 1100, one for 1000 and one for 800 barrels a day.

The Sentinel Oil Company completed the best producer that has been known for several weeks when Joughin No. 12, south of the railroad tracks, was swabbed into production for a flow of 1100 barrels a day from a depth of 3824 feet.

RUNS CLOSE SECOND

The Superior Oil Company ran a close second to the Sentinel by bringing in Torrance No. 49, also south of the tracks, for 1000-barrel production, and on Saturday ended the week by completing Torrance No. 50, for a yield estimated at 800 barrels a day.

In all the Joughin leases contributed six wells to the week's new production. The Standard Oil Company brought in three smaller producers north of the tracks on its 100 acres leased recently from the Sentinel Oil Company. These three producers had a combined yield of 7000 barrels a day.

NEW VIEW TAKEN

The good production obtained by Sentinel and Superior from their southerly Joughin wells revived talk among operators concerning the probable southern limits of the field. Some time ago observers believed that the southern edge was north of the south line of the Joughin ranch and development by all companies in the eastern part of the field was confined to northern territory, near the Redondo road.

Now that several wells south of the railroad tracks have been on production for several weeks it has been established that production from the more southerly wells on the Joughin leases declines less rapidly than in wells farther north. Whereas northerly wells with flush productions of 500 to 1000 barrels fall off rapidly due to depleted gas pressure, the wells to the south have kept up remarkably well.

MORE WELLS EXPECTED

Last week's completions by Sentinel and Superior are the most southerly wells on the leases and convince observers that good production probably will be obtained still further south. The Torrance field is flat, tapering off gradually to the north and south, so the conclusion that good wells will be obtained even south of the Joughin leases is logical, according to operators.

In addition to the interesting completions in the southeastern area, the Chanslor-Canfield Midway Oil Company on Friday afternoon brought in three producers on the Del Amo lease. They are Del Amo No. 23, No. 24 and No. 25, all located about 150 feet west of the eastern line of the property, along Madrona avenue. The three wells, all completed at about 3660 feet, have a combined initial yield of 800 barrels a day.

NINE WELLS IN ALL

New production from the nine wells completed here during the week totaled 4550 barrels a day, an average of 505 barrels per well. This average is much higher than has prevailed in several weeks.

The Shell Company's Kettler No. 2 with which the company is prospecting for the much-debated deep sand, continues to hold the interest of operators, field scouts and property owners. The hole is now down nearly 4600 feet, but no formation warranting a production test has been seen in the cores, which have been taken every foot of the way down. At Weston No. 1, west Lomita wildcat, the Standard Oil Company has made 4700 feet of hole, but no appreciable showing has been found.

CASING LANDED

North of Torrance and 150 feet west of Western avenue the Chanslor-Canfield Midway Oil Company on Friday cemented the water string in Francis No. 1. According to a field report, casing was landed at 4750 feet, not because of a conviction that a productive formation lay beneath, but because the company did not deem it wise to carry water string below that depth.

All but two of the nine new wells in the field during the week were brought in Friday and Saturday.

The week's completions mark the Joughin ranch, under lease to Standard, Superior and Sentinel as probably the second best property in the field.

Golconda Mine Will Be Vested in New Company

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
KINGMAN (Ariz.) Sept. 7.—The Golconda Mining Company, a million-dollar corporation, has been organized to take over the old Golconda, Tubb and other properties of the Union Basin Mining Company and will succeed the Highland Mining Company, which it is liquidating.

The property has a milling plant which is to be modernized to handle the base ores. In the Golconda are ores running up to 45 per cent zinc, that realized $8,000,000 during the war, mainly shipped to Oklahoma reduction plants. The main shaft, an incline, is 1300 feet deep. The new corporation, represented by Alexander Rose, takes possession of the property early in September.

B. E. Hickman, a Los Angeles operator, is developing the Eagle mine in the Mineral Park section, preparing for shipment of lead-gold-silver ore.

TROUBLE HALTS RIDEOUT WELL

Casing in Second Gregg Hole Vexes Associated

Outcome of Test Awaited by Other Operators

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
RIDEOUT HEIGHTS, Sept. 7.—Trouble seems to have been on the trail of the Associated Oil Company in this field. Mechanical difficulties have prevented operations on the Gregg No. 1-A, which has been drilled 900 feet deep. The well was originally drilled to 2200 feet on another location when it was found necessary to skid the rig and start a new hole. Trouble has been encountered in landing the large casing and preparations are being made to ream.

Preparations are being made at the Strong No. 2 location, which is being drilled by the McKeon interests, to place that well on production. The well has been drilled 4900 feet, and the sand, located by the No. 6 well at 4200 feet, was first encountered by the Strong No. 2 at that depth. The wells are about one-quarter of a mile apart and a deep dip is indicated. The well has been cemented and should be ready for a test within a few days.

The Petroleum Midway Company wells, drilling in this field, have all reached a 4000-foot depth. The Whitte-Vining well is down 4530 feet, the Rideout-Hamberg well is cemented at 4200 feet, the Seward-Rideout well No. 1 is down 4100 feet and the Pellisier No. 1 is drilling at 4100 feet.

The Pan-American well on the Jesrum lease is in sticky shale at 2700 feet, while the Mohawk Oil Company well on the Denny lease is drilling at 3000 feet. The Montjo-Johnson well on the Clark lease has been taken over by other interests and will be drilling again within a few days, it is asserted.

The Taylor-California Royalties Company well has been drilled 3900 feet and is still idle while a cementing job is being completed.

Interest is centered on the efforts of the O'Donnell interests to place the Strong No. 2 well on production. This well, being deeper than any of the others and being located at some distance from the only producer in that area, will play a great part in the increasing drilling activity in this section if it is placed on production. Several wells have been located but are not to be started until something definite is known as to the outcome of wells drilling near what is thought to be the edge of the structure.

Sequoia's Well at Huntington is Pumping Oil

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
HUNTINGTON BEACH, Sept. 7. The Sequoia Oil Company's Chapin No. 1 well was recompleted here during the past week at a depth of 3070 feet. It is now pumping 150 barrels of 25-degree gravity oil per day.

This well was originally completed at 3800 feet, but it proved to be a poor producer, so a redrill job was undertaken. After months of work the six and one-quarter-inch casing was landed at 3070 feet and after several hours of baling the well began to flow again, but soon sanded up and was finally placed on the pump.

This well is located on Main street opposite the high school and is on property owned by Dr. Roy H. Chapin, a dentist, who was formerly one of the city trustees. The well is an offset to the Miley-Keck No. 46 on the west.

The field production is holding at 41,000 barrels daily. There are 241 producing wells in the field and the average output is 136 barrels per well. Out of this number of wells there are 216 pumping and twenty-five flowing. The value of the daily yield is about $44,000.

AIR DEVICE IN MINE AGAIN IN OPERATION

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
TOMBSTONE (Ariz.) Sept. 7.—The big compressor of the Bunker Hill branch of the Phelps Dodge Corporation again is running, furnishing air for miles of leased workings. The immense hollow caused by the caving of the collar of the old Boom shaft has been filled in by the dumping of hundreds of tons of waste from the dump and the surface again is regarded as safe.

SANTA FE AREA REPORTS LOSS

Weeks's Average is Reduced Thousand Barrels

Producing Wells Decreased Due to "Killing"

Shell Company's Test Hole at Slusher "Wet"

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
SANTA FE SPRINGS, Sept. 7.—Production in this field decreased nearly 1000 barrels last week, falling from an estimated daily average of 57,000 barrels to 56,000 barrels. The number of producing wells has decreased, as well, due to the practice of "killing" the producers in the deep zone so that they may be placed on production in the Bell sand.

The Shell Company, after testing the deep hole drilled on the Slusher lease in an attempt to locate deeper sand which was thought to be beneath the Meyer sand, found a wet hole. he hole is 6140 feet deep and the water has not been located. The optimistic looked for production when the test was made, but nothing of the kind developed.

The Bandini section is to be given another chance. The Oakridge Oil Company has recemented the Rossi No. 1 well, which has been drilled 4740 feet deep. This is the thirteenth time the well has been cemented, with no effect so far as water shut-off is concerned. The three wells which were drilled because of the showings resulting from the Rossi No. 1 are idle; the K-B Community well is down 5000 feet; the Ogden is down 1100 feet, and the Gage is idle at 5000 feet.

The Wilshire Oil Company is drilling its Bandini No. 2, north and west of the Oakridge tests, and is progressing in good shape. The No. 1 well was abandoned by the company at 4900 feet.

The future of test wells drilling near Santa Fe Springs is none too bright. The C. C. Stall Oil Association, which is drilling a well near Downey, has reached 4600 feet and is drilling ahead with few showings since 4200 feet. The Petroleum Products Syndicate in the La Marada district is down 5190 feet and is testing carefully. A few showings of oil and gas have been reported from the hole. The other wells in that section are idle, awaiting the outcome of this test. The Miller Oil Company, which took over the Artesia Oil Company property near Artesia, is fishing at 4700 feet. The hole has been drilled 5245 feet deep.

The Standard Oil Company has drilled the Santa Gertrude No. 10 to 4400 feet. The W. L. Houghton No. 3 is down 4600 feet and is soon to undergo a production test. The Jordon No. 6 is testing at 4500 feet.

The Petroleum Midway Company has secured permission to start a well on the Mattern lease, to be known as the Mattern 3-8. If reports of drillers may be credited the Neal No. 1 well, which was drilled to 5400 feet by the Petroleum Midway Company near Norwalk, is to be abandoned. No showings have been reported since 2000 feet.

The Shell Company has redrilled Slusher No. 2 at 3800 feet, and it is cemented. The well was originally drilled to 4700 feet. The General Petroleum Corporation No. 78 is idle, awaiting the outcome of offsets. The J. A. L. K. No. 8 and No. 4 are idle and No. 9 has been cemented and is idle.

Permission has been granted the General Petroleum Corporation to plug Santa Fe Community well No. 86-B; George F. Getty will plug the No. 6 well, and the Standard Oil Company will alter the casing of the Keontz No. 2.

Gilmore Plant at Maricopa is Almost Ready

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
MARICOPA, Sept. 7.—Work is progressing on the absorption plant being erected on Section 34, 32-24, near the Calivada Oil Company's No. 1 well by the Gilmore Oil Company at a cost of $50,000. It is expected the plant will be ready for operation within ten days.

The oil production from the Atlas and Calivada Oil Companies will be used for the present, the capacity being about 2500 gallons of gasoline daily.

The Calivada already has started work on its No. 2 well on Section 34, 32-24, and the Atlas Oil Company is erecting another rig on the same section a short distance from the Calivada No. 1. Following the offset line of the Atlas and Calivada wells, the Pacific Oil Company has its No. 31-E well on Section 31, 12-24, near completion.

WILDCAT WELL COMES IN

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
BAKERSFIELD, Sept. 7.—Oil has been struck in the wildcat well being drilled by the Little Bear Oil Company in the Phelps Hills, southwest of Fellows, according to a telephone message received late yesterday by Sam Wible of Bakersfield. The well is about 1700 feet deep and is situated on Section 2, 32-23, a government permit held by Porter Munsey of this city.

The strike was made by the Little Bear Company, it is asserted, at a depth estimated by oil men and geologists as the probable location of a productive strata. A number of other test wells are being drilled in that district.

An effort was made last night to obtain more definite information as to the reported oil strike, but both Wible and Munsey had not obtained later information than the first message.

Los Angeles men are promoters of the Little Bear Company. It is said that the bringing in of a commercial well there will prove up a wide area of new territory.

ACCIDENTS KILL ONE, HURT MANY

Four May Die From Injuries in Crash Series

Youth Drives Auto Into Train and Meets Death

Truck Smashes Into Wall of Store Building

One person was killed and thirteen were injured, four probably fatally, in a series of motor accidents yesterday. Two of the accidents were collisions between automobiles and trains, a third was caused by a woman driving into a store building, and the fourth by the overturning of a car in the road as the driver attempted to avoid another machine.

Leslie Hutchins, 16 years of age, of 411 West Tenth street, Riverside, was killed and Arthur Hutchins, son of 113 Bandini street, Riverside, was probably fatally injured when Purdy's machine crashed into a passenger train standing at Eighth and Evergreen streets, Riverside, while going at the rate of speed. Hutchins died soon after being taken to Redlands Hospital in that city.

AUTO, TRAIN COLLIDE

Two men were injured critically in the collision between the automobile and the Santa Fe Limited, which occurred at the railway crossing at Twenty-sixth and Soto streets early yesterday. The automobile was carried 300 feet, the occupants were thrown out and the automobile demolished, according to the police report.

Albert J. Burns, 28 years of age, living at 1409 South Hill street, suffered a crushed chest and was the most seriously injured. Receiving Hospital doctors say he probably would die. Frank Lee, 40, of 1440 East Twenty-fourth street, had possible internal injuries and also is in a serious condition.

Jesse Pickard, 21, of 926 Long Beach boulevard, a negro, drove the car. He was held in the detention ward of General Hospital for driving an automobile while intoxicated. He and Sam Bailey, 28, of 1247 East Fifteenth street, also negro, escaped with slight injuries. Two other passengers in the car were said by Deputy Sheriffs Daniels and Cook to have driven away before the officers and ambulances arrived.

AUTO HITS WALK

Losing control of her automobile at the intersection of Brooklyn avenue and Mission Road early today, Miss Norma Hurd, 25 years of age, of 1831 Bellevue avenue, drove into the side of a store building, wrecking the car and suffering painful injuries to herself and companion, Burt Millard, of El Monte, according to a report to the police. Both were cut by flying glass when the windshield was shattered as the car struck the building.

An automobile accident near Riverside occurred yesterday afternoon when the machine of J. F. Miller of Los Angeles overturned as Miller attempted to pass another car on the outskirts of Wineville, about seven miles from Riverside. Miller lost control and struck the side of the road, causing the accident. J. H. Dewar, a passenger in the car in the Riverside Community Hospital, where little hope is held for his recovery.

Mr. H. Dewar and Mrs. A. Miller were treated in Riverside for cuts and bruises. The entire party were from Los Angeles.

Two persons were injured when a motorcycle carrying a passenger struck two pedestrians at First and Emerson streets.

AGRICULTURISTS MAKING TOUR OF WEST

Party is Studying Co-operative Market Problems

Guests of Chamber of Commerce Committee

C. E. BRADFUTE, national president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, accompanied by E. P. Taylor of the federation's department of organization, and A. R. Simpson, of the department of finance, were guests of the agricultural committee of the Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon yesterday at the Biltmore Hotel. Questions of interest to agriculturists were discussed.

With the federation officers was A. C. Hardison, president of the California Farm Bureau Federation, who has been accompanying them on a tour of the State.

The national officers, who maintain headquarters in Chicago, are attending a series of regional conferences, and are visiting various sections of the West in company with State officers of the federation. A week ago they arrived at Berkeley, and since that time have been touring in California. Saturday was spent at Santa Ana. From Los Angeles the party will go by automobile up the coast to Oakland.

The study of co-operative marketing problems is occupying much of the time of the party.

DOWNTOWN LIGHTS WILL SHINE AGAIN

Ban on Outdoor Displays and Signs is Taken Off; Others Remain in Force

The bright lights of Broadway are to come into their own again. Power Supervisor Butler has issued orders effective today which end the curtailment of outdoor sign and commercial display lighting and permit business and commercial houses throughout Southern California to display their wares under the electric light.

At the supervisor's office yesterday the new order was described as a probationary measure, based on the belief that the partial relaxation in the curtailment program will not be abused.

Other restrictions are not to be removed at present, the supervisor said, on present schedules for street lighting, power consumption, or domestic uses.

The new order has been made possible, according to Butler, because of the co-operation which has been shown by all power users in keeping within quotas laid down under the curtailment program. A sufficient supply of electricity now is available so that there is no further necessity of imposing a loss on business, he said, and the order is expected to remain in effect until the entire restriction is removed in November.

Butler, however, has placed a condition on the new move. "There are two contingencies under which the bars might have to be put up again," he declared. "One is a reaction to the order of today, which might lead to extravagance in the use of current. The other is that some disaster might happen to one of the large steam plants which are running at top capacity night and day. If one of

FINDING OF LOST TOTS DEMANDED

Churches Say Officers Lack Interest in Case of Missing Pair

Petitions demanding that the police and Sheriff take immediate action to solve the mystery of the disappearance of May and Nina Martin, were presented last night to the congregations at Angelus Temple, Temple Auditorium, Trinity Methodist Church and the various churches in the West Adams district. The preparation of the petitions followed a mass meeting yesterday afternoon at Calvary Methodist Church, Adams street and Cloverdale avenue, which was largely attended and at which the police and deputy sheriffs were criticised because of asserted lack of interest in the case.

The children, 12 and 9 years of age, are daughters of Mrs. Paul Buus, 2854 South Mansfield avenue, and vanished August 23. They were believed to have been kidnaped by some persons in a mystery automobile, which was seen to stop at the Buus home about 9 p.m., shortly before the children were missed. Screams heard coming from the direction of a slough eight blocks from their home, and toward which the car was pointed, were attributed to their effort to escape from the kidnapers. Detectives and deputy sheriffs investigated the case several days without discovering a clew.

After giving a general outline of the case, the petitions, addressed to the Chief of Police and Sheriff of the city and county, continue:

"We also demand that this action be actively continued until the mystery of the disappearance is solved. We are taking this action as the result of a motion unanimously adopted at a meeting at which it was emphasized that the people living near the home of the missing children feel that the officers of the law have not been as active in this case as they might have been and that more active work by them would solve the mystery with little delay.

"Similar disappearances of children may happen in any section of the city unless the persons responsible for this disappearance are located and held to answer to the law, and we as voters and taxpayers feel that we are entitled to your co-operation in every way in this case."

The father of the children is said to live at Hoquiam, Wash. He and their mother were divorced more than eight years ago. Police efforts to learn his whereabouts have had no result. He was said to have left Hoquiam some time before the disappearance of the children on an automobile trip.

QUIZ BEGUN IN OPENING NEW PAVING

Citizen's Complaint Leads Council to Seek Means to Penalize Utilities

Complaint having been received at the City Hall that the City Council's stern dictum, supported by ordinances, requiring utilities companies to install all underground work before new pavements are laid, had been violated at Ninth street and Wilton Place, President Workman of the City Council has begun an investigation into this case.

The complaint, which was from W. J. Roberts of 901 South Wilton Place said:

"Wilton Place between Wilshire Boulevard and Tenth street has just been paved. On August 10 the assessments became due and I paid my share, which amounted to $611.32. Today, (August 30) five men of the Southern California Gas Company have started in to tear a great gash in the new pavement at the corner of Ninth street. Is it not heart-rending, is it not criminal that such things should be allowed? But what can a private citizen do?"

The investigation at the City Hall showed that on January 22, the Southern California Gas Company and all other utilities corporations, including the city water and power and light departments, were notified that the ordinance of intention for the permanent paving of this street had been adopted, and were told to install all underground work. On April 2, the companies were again notified that the rough grading on Wilton Place had been completed.

CANYON EMBERS FLAME UP ANEW

High Wind Again Fans to Life San Gabriel Fire

Forty Recruits Sent to Aid Forces on Guard

Hope to Stop Blaze in Old Burned-Over Area

After lying dormant for two days the brush fire on the slopes of the San Gabriel Canyon watershed sprang into flames yesterday noon near O'Melveny's Camp, and last night was blazing briskly, sweeping across Roberts Canyon toward Fish Canyon, north of Azusa.

At 4 p.m. yesterday a crew of thirty men, in addition to the patrols which have been guarding the smouldering embers of last week's fire, were thrown into the fight by Federal rangers, and at midnight another contingent of forty men was sent to the fire line.

BURNING ON SOUTH LINE

The fire, which was brought to life by a high wind, was burning on the south line of the area which was swept last week, according to reports telephoned to Los Angeles last night.

A week ago yesterday saw the beginning of the most disastrous fire in years in the western division of the Angeles National Forest, when the carelessly thrown match of Andy Gunsalus set afire brush which burned over 12,000 acres and continued blazing for five days. The Monrovia and Sierra Madre watersheds were saved only by heroic efforts in building and maintaining an extensive firebreak over the crest of the mountains.

PLAN OF BATTLE

The fire fighters are centering their efforts on forcing the present fire into the burned-over area, thus pinching it out.

It is supposed that yesterday's fire began when smouldering sparks were fanned into flame. Patrols have been carefully watching the embers in an attempt to prevent a recurrence of the fire. Another smaller fire was extinguished Saturday in that region.

SITUATION IN NORTH SHOWING IMPROVEMENT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7.—A fire which started today in the Stanislaus National Forest burned over 300 acres before being brought under control, according to a report received here today by the United States Forest Service. It was checked at the edge of the grove of the Calaveras Big Trees.

The Dunbar fire in the Stanislaus Forest is still out of control, the Forest Service said, but is expected to be controlled tonight.

The Trinity National Forest was the heaviest sufferer last week, according to the Forest Service. More than seventy fires were started in the Trinity Forest by one electrical storm. Two lightning fires in the forest still are out of bounds and about 500 men are fighting them.

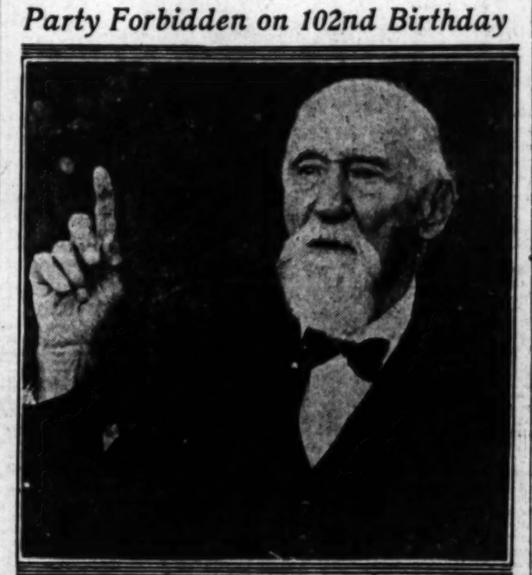
VETERANS OF SPANISH WAR TO HAVE SMOKER

According to announcement yesterday by W Seidmore, entertainment director for the Roosevelt camp of the Spanish-American War Veterans, a stag-smoker is to be held in the Forresters' Hall at Tenth and Olive streets tonight. There will be no admission fee.

Comedians and dancers are to appear at the affair. It was stated Russell Simpson, cowboy character actor is scheduled to be the chief spokesman of the evening. The program commences at 8 p.m.

CENTENARIAN WORRIES AT LAST

Party Forbidden on 102nd Birthday



"Never Smoked, Don't Propose to Start when Nearly 102"

WORRY has overtaken ex-Senator Cornelius Cole for the first time in his eventful life of almost 102 years. He is afraid the usual reception to his friends on his birthday, the 17th inst., will have to be foregone this year.

The reason for this is that the grand old man, who came to California in a covered wagon in 1848, who was a member of the Thirty-eighth "Abolition" Congress and who heard Lincoln make his Gettysburg address, is just recovering from a serious illness. For many weeks he has been under the care of two trained nurses at his home, 6121 Lexington avenue. Apparently he has conquered the influenza infection which attacked him in March. His doctor says he is on the mend, but he must avoid excitement.

Yesterday ex-Senator Cole was able to see an interviewer only a few minutes. He told with difficulty his fear that he will be too weak to see his friends on the 17th inst., as has been his custom. Members of his family stated he worries about this very much. And his ability not to worry has been given by the ex-Senator as the recipe for his longevity ever since his age began to attract general attention.

While posing for photographs yesterday ex-Senator Cole was asked to smoke a cigar. "I have never smoked in my life," he said, "and I don't propose to start so near my one hundred and second birthday."

Although their father still hopes he may be allowed by his doctor to see his friends on the 17th inst., the daughters of ex-Senator Cole have asked that there be no visitors on that day. They state that he ex-Senator's extreme weakness will make it necessary for even members of the family to pay their respects at different times on his one hundred and second birthday. A trained nurse is still retained to care for the sick man.

On his last birthday ex-Senator Cole still maintained a law office, though he frequented it rarely. He greeted many friends at his home on September 17 and was declared to be in fine condition. But last February he became ill and was attacked the following month by influenza. His recovery has been slow.

DIES IN CRASH OF SPEED BOAT

Long Beach Man Killed and Three Others Hurt

Craft Hurled on Jetty When Caught by Breakers

Victim Flung Into Ocean and Rescue Efforts Fail

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Sept. 7.—Eugene Brown, 25 years of age, local circulation manager for various Los Angeles newspapers, lost his life here shortly before noon today when he was thrown from a speed boat near the harbor jetties. The craft, which became caught in the breakers too close to shore, was thrown against the abutting rocks of the jettiest and the impact threw Brown from the stern seat. Three other occupants of the boat were badly bruised and cut by glass from the broken windshield.

All were attended at Seaside Hospital. The injured are Irvin Marker, 340 Ora Court, badly bruised; Robert Elberton, 2100 East Ocean avenue, bruised and cut by flying glass; Albert Dagselman, badly bruised.

SEEK TO SAVE HIM

According to witnesses, the speed boat, jointly owned by Brown and Dagselman, was speeding west from the Pine-avenue pier toward the harbor entrance. The pilot, endeavoring to make a turn at high speed, swung close to shore into the heavy breakers. The latter made the boat unmanageable for a time and before its direction could be controlled, the speedy craft was thrown against the jetty rocks.

Brown was sitting in the stern sheets and when he was hurtled overboard others in the boat threw him a life line, which he failed to catch. The boat was turned and driven back to where Brown was struggling in the water but a heavy breaker lifted the light craft and hurled it on the swimming man. He sank and was not seen again.

Brown lived at 3226 Elm avenue, and is survived by his wife and two small children. He was known here in the newspaper field, having started when he was 12, as a newsboy. He worked his way up through the ranks until he became local agent for a Los Angeles newspaper.

BOAT SUFFERS

Recently he severed his connections with newspaper work to devote his time to oil interests and the operation and management of the speed boat, which was engaged in giving visitors to this city thrill rides on the ocean.

The boat was badly damaged in the crash against the jetty rocks, the upper structure, windshield and other fittings being wrecked. The hull is said not to be impaired.

Officer Slays Theft Suspect; Holds Another

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Sept. 7.—Surprising two men attempting to break into a warehouse in the southeastern part of the city tonight, Patrolman Harold W. Potter shot and fatally wounded one and captured the second. The officer fired when the pair refused to hold up their hands, he reported.

The dead man was identified as Albert I. Tanner, 29 years of age, of 74 North Parkwood avenue, Pasadena. He died at the Pacific Hospital, Los Angeles one hour after he was shot.

The second man, who gave his name as Bernard Black, 715 North Catalina street, Pasadena, is reported to have admitted he and Tanner intended to burglarize the warehouse. Black is held on a charge of burglary.

Officer Potter was walking his beat when he noticed the men working on the warehouse door, he declared.

NEW REBELLION IN KLAN

More Than 25 Per Cent of Inglewood Body Revolt and Reorganize; Flay Invisible Empire

The latest development in the Ku Klux Klan split in California came to light yesterday when it became known that the Inglewood Klan, known as Ned Mosher Klan No. 1, has had a rebellion of its own and that more than 25 per cent of its members have bolted the hooded organization and formed an order of their own.

The organization formed by the Inglewood insurgents is known as the Reformed Order of Klansmen. Two former officers of the Inglewood Klan, Lloyd S. Sanderson, Klailiff, or vice-president, and A. H. Van de Mark, who was Klokard, or instructor, were among the first men to leave the New Mosher Klan, both admitted yesterday.

FLAY EMPIRE

A bitter denunciation of the Invisible Empire and its officers was indorsed by the men who entered the new organization. The formal charges against the Klan made by the former Klansmen of Inglewood include accusations of despotism, graft and un-Americanism.

The document indorsed by the insurgent Klansmen contains the following paragraphs:

"We charge that the present system of Kleagles has bred graft and corruption and the unauthorized assumption of power by these Kleagles, whereby the rights of individual Klansmen have been trampled under foot and whereby men have been defrauded and Klans betrayed by men whom Kleagles have admitted to membership whose admission was purely a matter of financial gain to Kleagles."

After charging that the present constitution of the Klan was deliberately formed for the purpose of enabling the Imperial Wizard to usurp the authority of the Klansmen and to further the selfish ambition of one man, the declaration of principles adopted by the Inglewood men reads:

"We charge that the first paragraph of the first oath of allegiance to the Klan is un-American and that no true American can intelligently abide by same."

The paragraph in question pledges the Klansmen to an unconstitutional submission to all orders and regulations of the Imperial Wizard "which now exist or may hereafter be enacted."

MEETS IN HAWTHORNE

The new organization has been meeting in Hawthorne. Some of the most prominent Inglewood Klansmen are said to belong to the insurgent body.

E. A. Wilson, Exalted Cyclops of the Inglewood Klan, could not be reached for his version of the uprising. From other sources it was learned that he and Imperial Representative G. W. Price, head of the Klan in California, have stated that the Inglewood rebellion did not amount to much and that the Klan was not endangered by the rebellion.

Woolwine Still Gains in Health, Physicians Say

Thomas Lee Woolwine, former District Attorney of Los Angeles county, who returned to this city from Paris last Thursday, yesterday was reported still improving at the sanatorium where he is resting. The physical condition of Mr. Woolwine has improved considerably since his arrival in Los Angeles, it was stated. He is being attended by Dr. Louis Weber and Dr. Donald J. Frick, local physicians. Dr. L. Jube, the Paris physician who accompanied the Woolwine party from Paris, left here yesterday for France.

LOST MAN IS SOUGHT IN CANYON

Searchers Fear Angeleno Sportsman May Have Fallen From Trail

A rescue party headed by Henry Kensey, division superintendent of the Los Angeles Aqueduct at Mojave, left Mojave yesterday morning for Pine Tree Canyon in an effort to locate an unnamed sportsman who became lost in the canyon about sixty hours earlier. Word of the disappearance was brought into Mojave late Saturday night by rangers of the district.

It is feared the man, said to be a Los Angeles sportsman, fell from one of the many steep trails of the canyon to his death. Two companions of the missing man have been searching for his body for more than two days.

BRYAN ASSAILS DARWINISM

"Is the Bible True?"—Text for Addresses Made to Huge Crowds at Angelus Temple, Yesterday

People packed the Angelus Temple, which seats more than 5300 persons, to hear William Jennings Bryan yesterday afternoon answer the inquiry "Is the Bible True." About two-thirds of the auditorium was filled at a second address by Mr. Bryan for those that could not get into the temple at the regular program. The address also was broadcast.

It was an evidence of the interest in old-time religion, for Mr. Bryan preached orthodoxy, and praised Aimee Semple McPherson, pastor of the temple, for so doing.

ATHEISM TEACHERS

"If all ministers believed as she does they would have larger congregations," said Mr. Bryan, who declared that a minister who ceases to believe in the Bible should leave the pulpit. He also attacked schoolmen who preach atheism, going at some length into his argument against the Darwinian theory. Mr. Bryan held that a man has the right to believe what he pleases and to voice his belief, but that no professor has a right to teach what the people, who pay the taxes that support him, do not believe.

"A man from Europe comes over here to teach," he illustrated, "and he teaches in the classroom that the best form of government is a monarchy; that a republic is all wrong. He would only last as long as it would take the children to get home. Now he has a right to believe in a monarchy and to say he does, but he has no right to teach what the people that pay

The Republican and Democratic platforms at the coming elections, the speeches of the candidates and the minority reports on platforms, all have dodged the real issue in this country, said Mr. Bryan. The real issue, he said, is crime.

"The platforms do not promise to stop crime or sin," he said. "If the preachers can carry out their program there will be no killing or stealing. All of our churches rest on the Bible, and the question 'Is the Bible true or false?' is the greatest question in the world. The Bible gives us our only conception of God. All that will go if the Bible goes. Society rests on morals, morals rest on religion, religion rests on God. If there is no God we wait in vain for the coming of a universal brotherhood which is the only rainbow in the sky. Better than let the Bible go, let all the man-made books in the world go; leave the Bible and we will build again on it.

PETITE ARTIST WEAVES SPELL

Enchants Radio Audience by Versatile Renditions

Antoinette Friend Sings and Dances Like Nymph

BY CLAIRE FORBES CRANE

One of our original fairy godmothers, the Paul G. Hoffman Company, presented the program at KHJ last evening. The artists were Elsie Manion, violinist; Antoinette Friend, singer and dancer; M. Anthony Linden, flutist; Gladys Blackwell Pickering, soprano; Jose Arias, guitar; Paul Adams, singer; Samuel Hinds, monologist, and Claire Forbes Crane, pianist.

Occasionally one encounters an artist who cannot be labeled and pigeon-holed as strictly violinist, singer or dancer. These versatile beings seem capable of turning from one art expression to the other with equal ease. We are sorry to say that this ability to live vividly is an attribute usually of the feminine nature rather than the masculine.

ENCHANTS AUDIENCE

Last night Antoinette Friend, slender and petite—black hair—black eyes—like mountain pools—and a mouth of flame, wrapped the radio family around her little finger.

We cannot recall exactly what she did do. One moment she sang entrancing little Spanish songs, while Jose Arias accompanied her on the guitar in true Old World fashion. The next instant she would take her violin and play some lilting Mexican folk song with a skill which many a famous artist might well have envied her. As a grand finale she danced a wild Latin dance and the rhythm and sparkle of her castanets stimulated even her unseen audience. The only thing we could not broadcast was the grace of her lithe figure and the flash of her smile.

Elsie Manion, who always leaves a pleasant memory with the radio family, played two violin solos last night with refreshingly perfect intonation and charm of manner. The human canary of KHJ gave a short group of request numbers including the "Last Rose of Summer" in the rendition of which the remembrance of Patti grows dim.

DISTINGUISHED GUEST

Our studio had as a guest on the program, M. Anthony Linden, first flute of the San Francisco Orchestra, and a distinguished conductor. Mr. Linden more than justified the splendid things which the critics have said regarding him. Last night he played an unaccompanied number, "Shepherd's Call," by Debussy, with a purity of tone and a subtle understanding of the capabilities of his instrument, which brought out every phrase like the work of an exquisite bas relief.

Samuel Hinds is a dear friend, whose voice has been too long absent from the air. What great art it is to be able to tell stories with the consummate ease of Mr. Hinds. Needless to say, he was deluged last evening with requests and retold his "Bottle Story."

Knowing that a large portion of our family feel cheated unless they hear some old-fashioned songs, Paul Adams did the honors for the evening and left everybody happy.

City is Buying Fleet of Autos and Six Trucks

The average man considers and consults and debates with himself for weeks and months before deciding to purchase another automobile or motor truck for his business. Not so the City Council. Automobiles and trucks are purchased weekly by the City Council—with the taxpayers' money. The City Council now is purchasing fifty-one automobiles for the police department, while the engineering department has just asked for six dump trucks, to cost $3000 each, and $18,900 for the employment of drivers for the machines. The trucks are needed, the City Engineer said, on account of the necessity of abandoning the city rubbish dump at Sixty-eighth street and Eighth avenue and the future dumping of rubbish at the dump at Ninth street, thus making necessary a longer haul than at present. Hence, the need, the City Engineer said, for more trucks.

COLLEGE ANNOUNCES COURSES IN TEACHING

Students and teachers who wish to meet requirements of the State Board of Education will be able to obtain necessary credit in late afternoon and evening courses to be offered this fall by Metropolitan College, University of Southern California, in the Transportation Building at Seventh and Los Angeles streets. The fall quarter commences the 22nd inst.

Prof. Martin J. Stormand, Ph. D., will conduct a course in organization and technique of teaching with special reference to English and the social sciences. This course is intended especially for candidates for either the elementary or junior high school teachers' credentials. The class will meet Tuesdays at 4 o'clock, beginning the 23rd inst.

Prof. Stormand will also conduct a course in principles of elementary education required of all candidates for the Elementary Teacher's Certificate. Classes meet Tuesday evenings at 7 o'clock, beginning the 23rd inst.

Prof. Albert S. Raubenheimer, Ph. D., will conduct a course in educational psychology, designed for students who have had no previous training in educational psychology; classes to meet Tuesdays at 7 o'clock. Prof. Raubenheimer will also teach a class in educational tests and measurements, Wednesdays at 4 o'clock.

these steam plants breaks down it would set us back to where we were in June and the most rigid restrictions would have to be imposed again."

Good news also came from the supervisor in the announcement that the present order is what he terms "the beginning of the end of the emergency."

"I felt it my duty to give relief at the earliest possible moment," he said, in granting this leeway to business houses. "I believe that domestic and other consumers will continue their economies for the short time remaining in order that the general prosperity may be stimulated by taking a burden from commercial concerns. Agricultural and manufacturing industries already have been assisted in keeping their losses at the minimum."

JUDGE TO SAN DIEGO

James Will Hold Court There And Go to New York Later

Federal Judge James left yesterday for San Diego where he will hold court during the next ten days or two weeks. Russell Graham, Assistant United States Attorney, will have charge of the prosecution of the government's cases to be tried during that time.

Judge James expects to try criminal cases in Los Angeles the last week of this month. Early in October he will go to New York City where he will hold court for the Southern District of New York during that month. He was designated to do that work by Chief Justice Taft.

MacARTHUR ASKS AID OF OLD-TIMERS

Former Service Men at Fort Urged to Fill Ranks in Defense Day Parade

Officers of Fort MacArthur, United States Army artillery post in the Harbor District, have announced that arrangements are being made for the annual Fort MacArthur Reunion Day, to be held at the fort the 13th inst. Each year hundreds of former service men who some time in their service were stationed at Fort MacArthur join in the reunion jollication of the Harbor fortification forces.

To lend particular significance to the 1924 reunion, officers in charge have issued an urgent invitation to all veterans to turn out on National Defense Test Day in the Coliseum at Los Angeles and fill the ranks of the present regular forces at the fort in order to swell the strength of the garrison for the day.

Under command of Maj. George Ruhlen, these troops will lead the military Defense-Day parade into the Coliseum and the defense-test strength of the artillery forces will be measured in reports to the War Department on the number of one-day volunteers who march with the unit on this day.

The Coast Artillery Corps forces of Fort MacArthur will rendezvoux 1:30 p.m. in the rear of the State Building in Exposition Park.

EX-GOV. STEPHENS IS SPEAKER FOR VENICE

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

VENICE, Sept. 7.—Further arrangements for the observance of National Defense Test Day in Venice have been made public by Dr. Joseph Saylin, past commander of the Venice-of-America post of the American Legion and a member of the committee in charge of preparations. The committee thus far has obtained the services of former Gov. Stephens, who now resides in the Bay District, as principal speaker. Maj. Partridge and numerous four-minute men of war days also will be on hand for short addresses.

All eligible citizens are asked to report on the grounds of the Martha Washington School by 12:30 o'clock to be assigned to their places in the grand parade. The tentative route for the parade will take the line of march along Washington Boulevard to Brooks, to the Ocean Front, and up to promenade to Windward avenue where the speakers' platform has been erected. Several bands will participate in the program.

The celebration for Santa Monica is being arranged by a committee headed by Commissioner Heiton and Cliff Henderson. A mass meeting in the municipal auditorium and several appropriate speeches with music will mark the observance.

PAVING OPENING QUIZ IS STARTED and that they must complete all underground work within ten days.

Officials of the engineering department of the Southern California Gas Company told President Workman, after he had demanded an explanation, that a leak in the gas main had developed at Ninth street and Wilton Place and that the leaking gas was destroying near-by lawns and shrubbery. In order to repair the leak, the engineers said it was necessary to open the pavement. President Workman said:

"The Council is determined to protect the property owners' investment in street paving by preventing the tearing up of new pavement to install underground work that could have been done, and should have been done, before the pavement was laid. I find that the engineering department does notify the utilities companies and other city departments of all proposed permanent street pavements and orders all underground work done before the pavement is laid. Now the problem is to find a way to compel the Council's orders to be obeyed. I have consulted the City Attorney and asked him to suggest a legal method for the city to penalize or fine companies which wreck new pavement. I understand the City of Seattle has an ordinance covering this situation and I have sent there for a copy of the regulation."

lar hypothesis; they say that that means that at the beginning there was matter and force. A hypothesis is a guess, and if their guess is two things started the world, matter and force, why is it not more reasonable that we start with one thing, instead of two, with God as being responsible for the world?

"But science is not a menace to religion. Science is made up of facts. The only menace to religion is the hypothesis out of Darwin, which if he had called it by its right name, 'a guess,' it would not have lived for fifty years and more."

There's nothing attractive about bare walls—they express no individuality—they're just bare walls — and if they show cracks and spots—they're even worse. To do them over each time they become spotted—and to fill the cracks is not good economy—nor is it always convenient.
But Wallpaper—good, high-grade Mathews Wallpaper—covers up wall-defects — often prevents cracking, while stained or torn places can easily be re-covered. Above all, it is a thing of beauty which adds much to the attractiveness of your home—its cheerful warmth expresses welcome to all who cross your threshold.

JAZZ IN RELIGION HELD MODERN CHURCH CURSE

Coadjutor Bishop Stevens Hits at Scattering of Energies and Constant Hunt for Thrills

Criticizing those churches that cater to men's love of sensationalism and deploring the prevalence of "that type of mind that craves religious jazz," Dr. William B. Stevens, Coadjutor Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Los Angeles, pointed out many of the dangers that beset the social world in a sermon on "The Perils of Diffusion," preached to the KHJ audience yesterday from The Times broadcasting station. Bishop Stevens spoke in part as follows:

"The Epistles of Thessalonica and Corinth showed a good deal of interest in the teachings of Paul and convinced that he should look [illegible] Athenians were religious novelty-seekers. Their responsiveness to novelty gave Paul his opportunity, but, with him, interests were only temporary with religion and philosophy, and the middle of his preaching were [illegible]

SPREAD TOO THIN

"One of the important problems [illegible] is to effect a working agreement between the open mind and [illegible] convictions. Culturally, [illegible] and socially we are in danger of spreading ourselves too thin. There is an impression abroad [illegible] and idealism, are in [illegible] because they are marked [illegible] bigotry and intolerance. The [illegible] lies in the opposite direction. The modern world, as far [illegible] is concerned, is more [illegible] than Jewish. The individual and to society, but [illegible] depends upon its application to given problems until results [illegible]. Life today shows an appalling scattering of moral, mental [illegible] resources.

"A distinguished professor of religious education has said that the [illegible] difficulties in civilization [illegible] due in part to the ease with which new sensations may be [illegible]. There is some truth [illegible] statement. When I was a [illegible] boy I was taken by my mother [illegible] a store to wait in line for a [illegible] to listen, through two rubber [illegible] to the painful wails of [illegible] phonograph. Nowadays [illegible] impatient with any sort of [illegible] that does not put me [illegible] almost immediate touch with [illegible] Francisco or St. Louis. In my [illegible] pass the feeble flickerings [illegible] motion picture of winter [illegible] in Switzerland left me unmoved. Today I demand a picture [illegible] costs no less than $500,000 [illegible] production. In my teens a [illegible] buggy ride was an event. [illegible] path of today drives fifty [illegible] an hour in a high-powered [illegible] car is an evening party and [illegible] sits yawning with boredom. [illegible] the last few decades have seen [illegible] introduction of inventions [illegible] have changed living conditions [illegible] and mental habits more than [illegible] other inventions of the preceding century. The result has been [illegible] our appetites have become [illegible] and we go from one thing [illegible] another, estimating the value of [illegible] of God's best gifts by the [illegible] of thrill they offer us. Pre-[illegible] heritages of the past are thrown to the scrap heap because they lack what the world calls 'kick.' The home becomes tame, reading dull and religion a bore. There is little doubt but that life today is characterised by too much diffusion and too many scattered interests.

ENERGIES SCATTERED

"There was a time when every high school and college student took the same courses. All pupils did the same kind of work and nearly all institutions had the same curriculum. Obviously, that was undesirable. The President Emeritus of Harvard University, Dr. Elliott, saw the lack of wisdom in such an arrangement nearly fifty years ago when he introduced the elective system. In the value of the change, however, came an unfortunate tendency to dissipate mental energies. Bad judgment, the lure of easy courses, desire for novelty and other factors have resulted in many graduates knowing a smattering of many things and knowing nothing well. Educators today are conscious of this and the pendulum is swinging back. To prevenent diffusion, students are required to choose their work in one group of more or less related subjects. Thus the encouragement of initiative is retained and coupled with intensive effort.

"Religion, too, suffers from scattered energies. Modern churches are great institutions in which spiritual interests are more or less incidental. The demand for the unusual manifests itself in a multitude of ways and many a Christian minister has asked himself whether present-day conditions require him to be at once a business executive, an impressario and a prophet of God. Church publicity, methods and machinery, require an enormous amount of time. They are probably inevitable, but they need unification and correlation, born, not of a desire for 100 per cent efficiency, but of a love of God and man.

"Another symptom of the same malady is found in the growing number of seekers after religious thrills. Religion ought always to be interesting but no one can expect to remain constantly on the mountain peak of exaltation. We are raising up nominal Christians who do not realize that every strange and bizarre cult can attract a certain type of mind that demands what may be called, without offense, religious jazz.

CONDITIONS SERIOUS

"If religion is to be effective in human life it can be so only by the single-hearted conservation and spiritual energy of those who believe in it. We have no reason to be smug and satisfied over the situation today. There are said to be 28,500,000 persons today under 25 years of age, who have no relation to any church. About 58,000,000 persons are untouched by the Christian Church. Less than 50 per cent of our population is even nominally Christian. That is serious.

"The compelling need today is for men and women who have a consuming passion for pure religion. A varied experience is valuable, but a life made up of nothing but sensations, enjoyed for their own sake, is fruitless. Religion and moral progress is seldom furthered by the cosmopolite. Most of the great moral and spiritual leaders of history have been wholesomely provincial. Palestine's provincialism was the very thing that enabled the Jews to see the spiritual truth taught by Jesus. It is now how long one lives and the number of experiences he has that counts, but what one does with the life and experiences he has. Popularity is always dangerous, especially in the field of religion. It is an insidious temptation that confronts men—to scatter their talents in order to be all things to all men. The judgment of the world is often wrong.

"Southern California offers many temptations to the dissipation of life. The wonderful beauty of their favored land has its dangers. God has blessed us in many ways—and this fact should make us all the more careful that we do not forget Him."

DELVES INTO HIDDEN LIFE OF THE CHRIST

Dr. H. C. Culbertson preached at the Plymouth Congregational Church yesterday on "The Hidden Life of Jesus." He said in part:

"How fascinating it is to try to look behind the gospel records and picture the surroundings of Jesus of Nazareth, Capernaum and Jerusalem, to imagine the human conditions amid which His sublime ideas and teachings were developed, and to study reverently the psychology of the Master. Assuming that, as the Scripture relates, He 'grew in wisdom and stature,' how thrilling with interest was the moment, perhaps on that first journey to Jerusalem, when He was 13 years of age, when Mary told her boy the story of His birth and that in some special, strange, mysterious way, He was a Son of God. If this story be a true one, to be explained some time in the future by scientific laws, perhaps by psychic possibilities not yet understood, then that suggestion may have been the beginning of Jesus' great thought that all men are children of the Most High, and that God is in very truth a Father whose love and good will are moving through all history. This was afterward the central teaching of the Christ. How we long to unfold the mysterious dreamings of those eighteen silent years in the carpenter shop at Nazareth, when Jesus studied the prophecies of Isaiah, and determined to take up the work of the long-expected Messiah and spiritualize it and give it new meaning. Perhaps the parables are not, as we often think, stories invented by Jesus to illustrate His teachings, but real events or incidents which He meditated over, and out of which He worked out those principles of living which He later taught to all the world.

SAYS JESUS' DIVINITY PROVED BY PROPHECY

That the divinity of Jesus is proved by the fulfilment of Christ's own prophecy is the opinion voiced by Rev. F. E. Hagin in his sermon yesterday at the Figueroa Christian Church. Mr. Hagin said in part:

"When Jesus, the carpenter of Nazareth, followed by a few disciples, proclaimed that the good news of Him should be preached among all the nations, to a casual observer of the times there was little likelihood that it would ever be fulfilled. But nineteen centuries have rolled around, and we have the fulfillment of Matthew 24:14 before our eyes. While a missionary in Tokio, a young Japanese asked me to give him a proof of a miracle. I told him while I believed in the miracles of Jesus, perhaps I could not prove them to his satisfaction. But turning to the above section in Matthew, I read it to him and said, 'Here is a greater miracle than Jesus ever performed; it is a miracle now taking place before your eyes. We have bridged the chasm of the centuries; I have come 7000 miles across land and ocean, and here tonight, I, an American, speaking the Japanese language to you, a Japanese, am telling to you the gospel, just as Jesus said would take place a long, long time ago.' Moreover, there are tens of thousands of others who are telling the same old story in every nook and corner of the world today."

SAYS JESUS WORLD'S ONLY COSMOPOLITAN

Preaching on "The World's Supreme Character," at the South Park Christian Church yesterday, Dr. Bruce Brown said that Jesus Christ was the only true cosmopolitan the world has ever known. He said in part:

"Jesus was singular without being eccentric. He never declined an invitation but he did not care for the pleasures that engrossed the minds of others. He had the ability and opportunity to amass great wealth if He had chosen to employ the plans of modern healers but the only man He ever called a fool was the one that the world considers singularly successful. He had no ambition for power for He was offered a crown and refused it. Ambition made no appeal to him. He was as ready to preach to the outcast woman at the well as to the thronging multitudes. He preferred the life of a mendicant when he was proffered all the flingdoms of the world. But He was not a class prophet. Were He living today He would deal even-handed justice to the rich and to the poor, to the Jew and the alien, to the Japanese and the German. He had no sectarian proclivities or antipathies. He was the only cosmopolitan that the world has ever known. The one thing He cared for was service."

GLORY OF DEMOCRACY IS LAUDED BY PASTOR

"God and Democracy" is the subject of a sermon preached yesterday by Rev. W. C. Isett at Amanda Chapel. In part, Mr. Isett said:

"The study of religion reveals the tendency of each tribe or nation to have a tribal or national God. Yet all peoples believe that there is a Supreme Being. Jehovah is this Supreme Being. He is not merely the God of the Jews, or of Europe or America, but the God of Asia and Africa as well. It is not a question of making God the Ruler of these United States. He is already the Ruler. He helped form the United States. There can be no opposition between God and any earthly government. He is striving to bring each country to its highest capacity. Those who belong to the Kingdom of God are not, therefore, released from their obligations as citizens. Paul was a Roman citizen, although he was the 'boundslave of Jesus Christ.' Democracy is the best form of government because it brings out the individual ability of its citizens. Your child and mine are to be rulers, not only of their own lives, but joint rulers with every other American. No higher political honor can be conferred upon one than to be born an American citizen."

PICTURES GLORY OF FUTURE LIFE OF MAN

E. P. Taliaferro spoke at Trinity Auditorium yesterday, under the auspices of the International Bible Students Association, on "The Resurrection." He said in part:

"There is a hope within men that death does not end all existence. The key note of this hope of life everlasting is found in the statements 'Christ died for our sins' and 'rose again for our justification.' Eternal life is the gift of God through Jesus Christ our Lord. It is thus a hope, rather than the real life, that God gives us now. That will come in reality in the resurrection—when all shall have new bodies. Jesus the 'life giver' made this possible and promises a resurrection to all who are in their graves and restoring to them all the blessings of life, health, perfection, beauty and happiness lost in Eden."

SANE COMPROMISE ON LIBERALISM IS ASKED

Pleading for a sane compromise between reason and faith, Dr. E. F. Magnin, rabbi of Temple B'nai B'rith, preached last Saturday on "Religious Liberalism." He said in part:

"The real problem before religious liberalists is how to infuse themselves and others with the same enthusiasm and zeal possessed by the more orthodox religionists. The great weakness of liberalism in religion is apathy. Thousands of people have left the old churches and have joined liberal churches and synagogues. Many who have affiliated, take religion lightly. Once the mind is emancipated from mythology and outworn creeds, there is a tendency to accept nothing else in their place. Liberalism should be positive, and not negative. After all, religion is a matter of the heart, as well as of the head. In fact, it is mostly of the heart. I am not orthodox in my religious views, but I would much rather present a more rigid type of religion, for most people, than none at all, because most people need religion of some kind or another. I am hoping for the day when a happy medium can be reached between reason and faith."

CRITICISES CRITICS OF DEFENSE PLANS

Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher, in his sermon at the Temple Baptist Church last night, pledged his co-operation in the observance of the Defense Day program. He said in part:

"It is always easy to misunderstand the motives and purposes of people, and criticise without having all the facts. We have a very sensible and sane statement from President Coolidge concerning the real purpose of Defense Day. With his sentiments I fully agree and I propose to give my co-operation to the observance of Defense Day. If those urging, instead, the mobilization of the forces for peace will propose a plan and set aside a day for such demonstrations I will heartily join in co-operating in that also. Let us have our Defense Day to see wherein we are weak and then let us have our Peace Day and also find wherein we are weak. Then let us strengthen the weak places for the distinctive purposes of maintaining our national peace and helping to maintain the peace of the world."

HUGE SAVING IS GAINED BY TAXPAYERS

New Revenue Act to Give $13,000,000 Reduction to Southern California

Taxpayers in Southern California will save approximately $13,000,000 annually as a result of reductions and annulment of taxes provided for in the 1924 Revenue Act, the Revenue Collector, reports. A survey of the reductions by the collector shows the saving will be $8,000,000 in income taxes alone. In addition to that amount $5,000,000 will be saved by the annulment of sales taxes, manufacturers' excise taxes and admission taxes.

The collector pointed out that the 1921 Revenue Act reduced Federal taxes in Southern California $15,000,000 annually. This amount, with the $13,000,000 saved through the 1924 Revenue Act will make the total amount paid annually in the district $28,000,000 less than the amount three years ago.

Checks for refunds on income taxes amounting to more than $1,000,000 will be in the hands of taxpayers by the 30th inst. Forty thousands checks have been mailed from the collector's office, and 40,000 more are awaiting his signature.

Grocer Robbed as Bystanders Face Gun Peril

While two bystanders were held at bay, a pair of armed bandits late Saturday night held up J. A. Swarts in his grocery store at 1020 East Eighth street and robbed the cash register of $400, according to a police report. The gunmen made their escape in an automobile which they had left parked near by.

The hold-up was witnessed by L. L. Farss of 934 East Twelfth street and S. Levine of 1020 East Eighth street, two customers, who were kept covered by one of the bandits.

CLASS IN JOURNALISM READY TO OPEN TERM

Is Your Back a Handicap?

Do You Suffer Constant Backache — Feel Old and Worn Out? Then Follow the Advice of These Los Angeles Folks.

IS a bad back keeping you upset and miserable? Every day lameness, stiffness and torturing twinges? Are you so tired, nervous and dispirited it seems you can never be well again?

Surely, then, you should be finding out what is wrong!

More than likely it's your kidneys. Your kidneys, you know, are constantly filtering impurities from the blood. But weak, sluggish kidneys slow up in their work, allowing poisons to accumulate until there's an upsetting of the whole system.

"Use Doan's," Say These Los Angeles Folks:

H. SEINTURIER, baker, 1307 E. Forty-Seventh St., says: "My kidneys acted in such a way that I always had to pass the secretions which were scanty and burning. There was also a sediment resembling brick-dust in the secretions. My back was lame and weak. I used Doan's Pills and a couple boxes from the J. & J. Drug Co., so completely cured me I have had no return of the trouble."

MRS. GEORGE VUSICH, 1196 E. Forty-Seventh St., says: "I felt run down and not a bit like myself. My back caused no end of trouble, for it ached continually. I could hardly get up or down. The sharp pains in my back were like knife-thrusts and the least work tired me out. I suffered from dizziness and severe headaches, too and my kidneys were badly disordered. Doan's Pills from the Owl Drug Co., relieved me of all these symptoms."

THE SACRIFICE

About this time of the year it seems a pity that people cannot save their watermelon seeds to win a war—or something like that.

USED TO IT

A LITTLE SHOCK

Just as a New York man prepared a plan for storing and using the energy inspired by a flock of electric eels the keeper came along and took him away.

SEEKING THE LIGHT

A man is in jail for the theft of a spotlight, yet there are sections of Hollywood where that is considered a habit rather than a crime.

A MODERN DISCOVERY

A scientist says he will be able to understand animal talk soon. Here's a fine chance to call a skunk to one side and ask him what's the big idea.

MILKING TIME

The people of America are using eleven gallons of milk per capita more than they were four years ago. But if the cows are contented there is small warrant for worry.

WHY WAIT?

Truly, does a little sympathy go a long way. Why not recognize merit where it is due and without hesitation proclaim it? To play the game and play it lone-handed is tough enough as it is. Highly sensitized people are keenly appreciative of encouragement and there are many highly sensitive people in this world. Why wait until the wooden overcoat has been buttoned up to recognize merit?

EARTH'S GREATEST GLORY

The oil industry is just sixty-five years old and is one of the lustiest things on earth. It was on August 28, 1859, that a driller on Oil Creek, Pennsylvania, struck the liquid gold at a depth of but sixty-nine feet. He had a twenty-five barrel well and it was the wonder of the East. The entire production of petroleum in the United States in 1859 was less than 2000 barrels. A single one of Long Beach's 200 or more wells has done better than this in a lazy afternoon. Before we are through the oil industry will have gold mining a beggar's pastime.

COUNTING THE COST

It is figured that the judicial hearing in the case of the Chicago murder morons will cost more than $250,000 and it wasn't even a trial. It was merely a hearing for the purpose of determining the proper sentence under a plea of guilty. Of the total bill $60,000 is said to represent the share of the taxpayers. Naturally, the alienists are the largest beneficiaries. One of the doctors receives about $6000 as fees for his testimony and attendance. It takes a high-powered soul to prove that this crime was the work of nitwits.

POLITICAL TANGLES

The ticket of the Independent Socialists ought really to inspire hearty laughter—and possibly does. As the spokesman for the downtrodden it may be said that Bob La Follette has been able to hold remunerative office for more than forty years. His running mate, who is under indictment in connection with the oil industry, was placed on the ticket by Frank A. Vanderlip, who spent his life among the rough farmers of La Salle and Wall streets. The campaign is treasured by an Illinois patent-medicine millionaire. It makes a splendid combination to represent the grievances of society.

THE WHITE COOK

An Ohio husband points with pride to the fact that his wife has made him a pie for every day for more than twenty years. Rain or shine, in sickness or in health, there has been a fresh pie in the larder by midday. On Saturday the wife would produce two—to spare the Sabbath cooking—but otherwise the offering was a new one with each sun. Of course, there are housewives who have compiled a vaster array of pies in their lifetime, but here was a persistent, variant and thoughtful assembling of man's favorite fodder that could not but command the love of the most cantankerous husband

MAD, MERRY AND MELODIC

The way this jazz music hangs on there must be something in it. Five fellows who cannot read music are given five different pieces to play at once. They are equipped with a razoo, a bazzoo, a blam blam, a wahoo and a wheezer. They are then filled with Jamaica ginger, barbed wire, rough on rats, rock salt, home brew and T.N.T. and turned loose. The noise that results is jazz. When people hear it they say they "could just die dancing." Many of them do and the rest should. Just when they made delirium tremens unconstitutional jazz came along and gave us dancing tremens. A fellow now drinks a few bars of music and gets a jazz instead of a jag. Nobody knows where it came from and nobody knows where it is going. Reformers claim that it came from and is going to the same place.

"A LITTLE KNOWLEDGE"

Some well-meaning but overoptimistic pacifists have written to The Times presenting what they term "antidefense" arguments. One asserts that "for 150 years no country has ever dreamed of attacking us, and I defy the defense enthusiasts to name any country from which there is the remotest danger of attack."

The Times wonders how anyone who presumes to pose as a critic on the acts and policies of our government could accumulate so much misinformation. Perhaps he is in the category of Henry Ford, who testified on the witness stand that he had never heard of the War of 1812.

These protests come at a time that is badly chosen by the pacifists. A part of the American fleet is now cleared for action in the roadway before Shanghai, and marines have been landed to protect American lives and property. No one can now say definitely to what the Chinese revolution may lead.

Other vessels of the American fleet are now on the way to Wrangell Island to meet vessels of the soviet fleet that have set forth to haul down the American flag and take possession of the island in the name of the soviets. America and American interests can be attacked without landing troops on our eastern or western coasts. They are being attacked at the very time the pacifists are protesting against preparedness.

As to the assertion that "for 150 years no country has ever dreamed of attacking us:" to make that statement seriously is to display a surprising ignorance of the history of our country. One who writes that surely never read the controversy that raged alike in England and France during the early years of the Civil War over openly espousing the cause of the Southern Confederacy and lending it armed assistance. He probably knows nothing of the occasion when a Russian fleet crossed the Atlantic for the avowed purpose of coming to the aid of the United States, in case of an attack during the Civil War by a British fleet on our Eastern coast.

He cannot be familiar with the correspondence, published some years ago, between the German War Department and Germany's Ambassador and consuls in this country concerning our military and naval preparedness. That was a part of the Samoan incident during the Spanish-American War.

Coming to more recent events, he must be ignorant of the threats made by the Kaiser against our country, in case Germany should win the World War. Or, still more recently, he must have heard nothing of the soviet plans for a world revolution.

He must know nothing of the secret reports which caused Roosevelt to mobilize our battle fleet and send it on a cruise about the world. He may not know what has appeared in the Japanese press concerning the occupation of the Philippines by a Japanese army and fleet.

Perhaps it has never occurred to him that we have been pledged under the Monroe Doctrine for a century to protect the states of Central and South America from foreign aggression, and, when necessary, from each other.

The same correspondent writes that "the late war was won by the nations that were the least prepared." This is true, but what a price they paid for their lack of preparedness! Consider the years that France fought on the defensive while preparations were being made to carry the war into Germany. The German War Department rushed the country into war because the militarists believed they could overrun France before France and her allies could make the necessary preparation for a successful defense.

These correspondents apparently know a little about American and world history—but not much. And it was written centuries ago that "a little knowledge is a dangerous thing."

HIS OWN INSULTED

One wonders how many of the members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers appreciate the direct insult to their intelligence conveyed in the editorial in a recent Engineers' Journal written, or at least signed, by their president, Warren S. Stone.

The burden of Mr. Stone's message to the men is that some power in this country—he does not, cannot, specify just what it is—is planning, presumably in connection with the sinister "money power" of Wall street, to foist upon the country during this autumn an imaginary prosperity in "an effort to sweep the Republican party in on a wave of prosperity at the coming election."

This is such an old political cry of professional trouble-makers that very few people are now affected by it. It has been used so often one is frankly astonished that Mr. Stone could not think up something more original. The patent absurdity of thousands of responsible business men, Democrats as well as Republicans, regardless of their political affiliations, conspiring to create an artificial prosperity for the purpose of benefiting a political party, is so amazing, so equally impossible of performance and absurd, that one is inclined to pity the crass stupidity of the whole so-called argument.

For Mr. Stone to think he can fool these men into working and voting against their jobs, against the prosperity and welfare of their homes and family is certainly for him to exhibit a measure of stupidity that is almost beyond belief. But he probably thinks his men do not possess any better sense than himself evidently possesses.

These men, like everybody else, have their own theories of government and are not likely to be induced by Mr. Stone to knife their own interests.

PROTECT THE HIGHWAYS.

Keep off the highways under construction or being repaired. The majority of motorists could avoid reconstruction work if they would only take the time to post themselves on road building and look up secondary routes. As matters stand, road work is seriously handicapped by motorists who are themselves troubled over the delay. The demand for nondetour construction has grown to a point where the motorist is virtually demanding a nonconstruction order of things. Road work in many instances has resolved itself into traffic regulation. Since the motorist must pay for it all it stands to reason that he would be gaining by endeavoring to stop interrupting the contractors.

With the rapid development of secondary roads in all parts of California there is little reason to insist upon traveling over routes that are under repair. Information as to construction work is available at all automobile clubs throughout the State, thus eliminating speculation and enabling the motorist to plan his trips so as to avoid road work—as well as the additional road work that is occasioned by delays. When making inquiry regarding construction work the motorist should get acquainted with the secondary roads, many of which are more interesting and better suited for steady driving.

NATURE'S RECKONING

Those who disapprove of bobbed heads for the female sex will welcome the news that the fashion has projected a new disease upon a suffering world. It was all right as long as the girls merely had their tresses trimmed, but, since the shingle craze has hit the country and found innumerable enthusiastic followers, "shingle neck" has appeared in medical annals. For be it known that a young lady who would wear a shingle bob must also shave her neck, and much more often than she has her hair cut, or else look shaggy and queer from the rear. The constant shaving of a girl's delicate skin produces first inflamed necks and later frightfully sore ones.

Doctors in the East, where the shingle is even more popular than in the Western States, report a booming business from girls and women who are suffering tortures with their swollen and inflamed necks. According to the medical profession, however, there is no cure for the malady other than to discontinue the shaving, something that the shingled ones are loathe to do, especially if they chance to be brunettes. A speedy extinction of the shingle bob is predicted in the near future as a result of this. A girl can shave her neck for about six months with impunity, after which time outraged epidermis claims its revenge and she is forced to either abandon her mode of having her hair cut or sport a case of "shingle neck" ranging from mere itch to an ugly, raw surface.

PLAYING A DOUBLE-HEADER

Politics in Texas is in the light-opera stage. The State is about to elect a woman Governor because the lady's husband was once impeached in office and cannot run himself. Of course, there is nothing now to prevent a woman from aspiring to any office, but she is usually expected to run under her own power or initiative. To elect a woman because of some fancied political grievance involving the husband years before seems like kindergarten stuff. The Klan is also thoroughly involved in the entanglement and it is hard to decide whether Texas is a play or a puzzle. If the shade of Gen. Sam Houston could return he would sob for an anesthetic. Of course, if Mama Ferguson is elected Governor the office will be administered as a family affair. The woman is not particularly interested in politics save as the game concerns her husband. He cannot legally administer the office, but may operate under the wife's name—as some men do their religion. At any rate, unless a political revolution takes place Texas is due to have a double-barreled Governor. It will not be petticoat government, but a blend of skirts and trousers. Texas will get two Governors for the price of one. Whether this is a bargain is a matter for subsequent proof.

LOOKING UNDER THE BED

When the vigilance of a Chicago spinster who had been looking under the bed every night for thirty years finally was rewarded by the sight of a big burly man she didn't scream or faint, but whacked him in the head with a handy flatiron so fiercely that he lay stunned and helpless while she telephoned for the police.

What the lady said regarding the affair left the impression that the delightful sensation of punishing the intruder was full recompense for her thirty-year search for burglars under the bed, to say nothing of her self-justification in having pursued the habit all that time, despite what others had remarked about her silly timidity in thus building up a nightly bugbear.

The enterprising burglar who sets out to burgle the homes of ancient maidens will do well to heed the lesson. Also he should remember that many widows and not a few married women, before turning out the light, like to assure themselves that the space beneath the bed slats harbors no house-breakers. But there's hardly any use trying to give advice to a burglar, for, if he wasn't one of the fifty-seven varieties of the hopeless moron, he wouldn't be a burglar.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

A Lesson in "Diplomacy"

In the Berliner Tageblatt a writer tells an incident in the night train from Cologne to Berlin. Three English girls are the attraction of all the young German gentlemen travelers. The writer, himself a student in Heidelberg, says that their skin was "fairy-like" and their eyes "divinely blue." After a great deal of hesitation he gets up enough courage to take a seat with the three "Englanderinnen" in the dining-car. There are four rolls on the table. The eldest girl gives her two companions each a roll and takes two herself and then smiles at the confused German. After the meal he relates his experiences to his companions. "You had a practical lesson in British diplomacy," they tell him. "That's the way they took Gibraltar and Malta and India and the rest of the world. They take it and then smile. That smile has cost us Germans dearly. We do not know what to do against such tactics."

Fighting the Senate

William Lyon MacKenzie King, Liberal Premier of Canada and grandson of the man who led an army against the British in that country before Canada was a dominion, has declared war on the Senate. The Senate in Canada corresponds to a large extent to the House of Lords in England. Its members sit for life and MacKenzie King finds himself confronted by a body largely appointed by his political opponents during their previous terms of office. Several of his most cherished measures have been defeated by the Senators, who have the power to veto, whose combined age is "something like 1299," according to the Premier. In many instances he thinks they have acted as if they were living in A.D. 1299 instead of 1924. In his fight he will have the support of the western Liberals and the agrarian progressive party, while the Conservative group from Ontario and some of the Maritime provinces and also some of the French-Canadian Liberals will oppose him.

The Price of Pain

A gigantic statue of Prometheus, the mythological figure who stole fire from heaven and gave it to the human race, is to be erected on the Italian coast near Carrara. The statue will serve as a lighthouse and will mark the spot where the English poet Shelley was drowned. The monument is to be a tribute to Shelley's work, which reaches its pinnacle in his poem, "Prometheus Unbound," but also a memorial to Anglo-Italian friendship. Forty feet high the figure of the Greek hero clasps some of the stolen flame to his breast, the other hand holds the fire aloft and lights a beacon. There is pain depicted on the countenance, but pain overcome by supreme effort, for the sake of carrying relief to the world. A true and worthy sentiment. Every invention and every creative work brought pain to its originator, every new idea was ever ridiculed and scorned by the world.

RIPPLING RHYMES

THE UNBELIEVER

I sometimes tire of Dingbat Dow, who is a windy loon; I hear him say, "I can't allow that tale of cat and spoon; I don't believe that any cow jumped over any moon." I've had much faith in Mother Goose since I was but a child; to those who scoff her and traduce I am not reconciled; their arguments have little use, their folly makes me wild. Why should a neighbor meanly strive to undermine my trust, a trust that I have kept alive when others gathered rust? Why talk, that vagrant doubts may thrive, and my foundations bust? Since I have faith in Mother Goose he makes my spirit ache, who comes with jeering and abuse to prove she is a fake; why jar a neighbor's landmarks loose and all his crutches break? "I don't believe in Old King Cole," this Dingbat says to me, what time I sit beside the bole of my large citron tree; "He never was a merry soul, he had no fiddlers three. I've read up Darwin, Huxley, Hume, whose works are full of juice; their noble writings spell the doom of poor old Mother Goose; her graft is deader than the tomb in which her bones lie loose." No matter what a man believes, some simp will come along and say, "My brooding soul it grieves to see you headed wrong; beguiled by talkers with the heaves, your errors show up strong. If you would learn to smile and sing you'll cast belief away; I don't believe in anything, nor care what prophets say, and so I'm happy as a king"—and kings are surely gay!

St. Augustine, Fla., was founded by Don Pedro Menendez in the year 1565. It was the first permanent settlement in what is now the United States.

The last battle of the Revolutionary War, excepting the siege of Yorktown, was fought at Eutaw Springs, S. C., in the year 1781. Technically a draw battle, it was in effect an American victory. It forced the British to retreat on Charleston.

STRANGER THAN FICTION

BY WALT MASON

In the news stories of each day there are samples of that truth which is stranger than fiction. A San Diego man insisted that he was receiving messages from Mars. Perhaps he was; there is no satisfactory evidence to the contrary. Unfortunately for him, he is not a professor; he isn't four-eyed; he doesn't wear sidewhiskers, or call things by their Greek names. So his friends and neighbors concluded that his intellect wasn't hitting on all six, and they sent for the police, and the man was given a joy ride in the patrol wagon; the police questioned him and took his finger prints and photographed him for the Rogues' Gallery, and sent him to a hospital, where a lot of learned physicians stood him on his head and rolled him over a barrel to see what the psychological reactions would be, so they could decide whether he is permanently off his trolley. So you see what they will do to a scientist who hasn't the proper credentials.

• • •

If one of those wise boys who have been observing Mars under the auspices of great universities were to adjust his false teeth and tell us that he had been receiving messages from Mars, we wouldn't send for the police or notify the senior warden of the booby hatch. We'd never think of such a thing. We'd take off our hats to him and say that wonders will never cease, and ask him to write his name in our autograph albums. Our reverence for the pallid professor who strings a few initials after his name is almost equal to our reverence for royalty. Yet the claims of the San Diego man are worth as much as the claims of the scientists. The latter have been telling us about Mars for years and years, and the more they tell us the less we know. One savant says the planet has artificial canals, and another says that is all bunk; one informs us that Mars has an atmosphere like our own, and the next one intimates that Mars wouldn't know an atmosphere if they met in the road.

• • •

If our family grocer went around talking such piffle as the expert alienists and psychologists delivered at the Loeb-Leopold hearing, we'd load him into the patrol wagon and send him to the hoosegow, where sympathetic officers might examine his head, and decide whether he required a padded cell or a job on the chain gang. The ordinary citizen takes his life and liberty in his hand when he goes around distributing flapdoodle. But the authorized piffle merchants may say the most absurd things, and we listen respectfully. It is a sin that the bunk of the professional psychologists should figure in murder trials, or any trials where more than 50 cents is at stake. The testimony of "experts" of the kind will never be worth anything so long as some experts will testify for the prosecution, and some for the defense. Their graft will never be useful until it becomes exact; and when it is exact all the professors will testify on one side.

• • •

Not long ago all the garage mechanics in our town were in court as witnesses in a case involving an automobile repair bill. The lawyer asked a lot of questions about the car. Was it a six-cylinder or an eight-cylinder car? Some of the mechanics had been summoned by the prosecution, and some by the defense, but they all agreed that it was an eight-cylinder car. Here was definite, exact knowledge. These mechanics agreed in all their technical testimony. Until the experts can come into court with such exact knowledge as automobile mechanics possess, their testimony isn't worth a nickel—but they draw from $100 to $500 a day for delivering it.

• • •

Another queer story was in the news a few days ago. It comes from Texas, where every prospect pleases, and only man is vile. A citizen who was run down by an auto and badly disfigured, has become a magistrate, by the will of the people, and will preside over a court in which speeders are tried. He has a grudge against all speeders, and boasts of what he is going to do to them. He appears to think that he is the law and the prophets, and he is framing up a schedule of fines as his fancy dictates. Of course it's too bad he was hurt by an auto; but it is more than likely the autoist was not to blame. Probably the injured one was a jaywalker, and carried no tail light, and he may have damaged the car when it bounced over him. There are two sides to all these auto accident stories; I have bunged up a few pedestrians myself, and have never felt that I was to blame. They will step out from behind standing cars, and invite destruction in a dozen ways. But isn't it a great scheme to select as judge in a speeders' court a man who has a notorious grudge against speeders? When this man's term expires, I hope the voters choose as his successor a speed fan who hits up seventy miles an hour as a regular thing. Then, perhaps, pedestrians will get what has long been coming to them.

In the Old Book Store, where I spend some of my happiest hours, I came across a whole shelf of "Robert Elsmere" the other day. There were fifteen copies of that historic work; old, stained, dog-eared, with half effaced inscriptions on the flyleaves, showing that they had once figured as Christmas presents or other holiday offerings. They recalled the dear dead days. "Robert Elsmere" was the first important work by Mrs. Humphry Ward. When it was first published it seemed a total loss; people couldn't be beguiled or bulldozed into reading it, and the publishers were looking crosseyed at Mrs. Ward, as though silently intimating that she had put something over on them. Then the grand old man, W. E. Gladstone, who was chopping down a great many trees to prove to Merry England that he grew younger with age, was induced to read the book. It got a great hit with him. He got the nearest interviewer and made a statement to the effect that any man who didn't read "Robert Elsmere" was a cheap skate. Then William Ewart Gladstone cracked the whip said skate in three Talk about strange things that are strange things that are strange! Was there ever a stranger than this, that an old man, who had no [illegible] a judge of fiction, could set the whole world reading a book and insufferably tedious. Few books in recent years had such a boom as "Elsmere" enjoyed. I was a kid reporter in a small Kansas town then; the boom was away out in the country, remote from everything but pumpkins and long whiskers; but even there the reading of "Robert Elsmere" was a sacred duty. The village pastors preached about it on Sunday nights. Lecturers came and talked "Robert Elsmere" for hours at a stretch. I had to read the book or lose my job. Everybody talked "Robert Elsmere" and everybody bought it, or had his chance at the public library. It was considered pretty daring by the strictly orthodox in those days, but if you read it now you smile at that idea.

• • •

I took home a copy, that I found the shelfful, determined to read it through, and then got the flavor of the vanished times. I lacked the patience and perseverance. It is simply an astounding thing that "Robert Elsmere" was once a best seller. It is a weak tale of vicars and curates and English old maids, and small beer, one brew or another. The old maids are always thin and scraggy and the curates are always drinking tea. I never could understand the fascination curates seem to have for English novelists. I haven't much use for a healthy man who will consent to be a curate and waste his best years swilling tea and carrying soupbones to rheumatic old women. And the curates in Mrs. Ward are more stupid and useless than the average. The story opens with a thrilling and tragic happening. The vicar's wife is going to give a party and is anxiously waiting for the carrier to bring a basket of cakes from the nearest town. The carrier at last arrives, but he has forgotten the cakes. The vicar's wife has to pull off a jamboree without cakes! This is stretched out interminably, and in subsequent chapters it is referred to being dragged up and thrown over again. The curates suffer from a sickly way, and the old maids giggle, when it is dug up, as I suppose it is intended for humor. I'll be drawn and quartered if I can see anything amusing in it. I read five chapters or so, and finally handed the book to a neighbor, and since then somebody has been throwing bricks at me every time I step out after dark.

DOMINION

What is dominion? Where does it grow?
That bears richest fruit that mortals may know?

The men of pure hearts and men with clean hands
Have guided our race in all ages and lands;
The meek and the lowly, the humble and pure
Lead men to the heights that endure.

Though in palace or hovel, dominion is found.

It is born in the home when the children are there,
As they gather at eve round mother's old chair;

Integrity, character, ethical love
Have won in the fight since the world's early dawn;
Where honor abides, by the pole or dell,
Dominion is born and forever will dwell.

LIFE IS FUN!

In spite of traffic and of cities,
In spite of lovers and their ogling,
In spite of all small babies' cries,
Life is fun!

In spite of sunburn which is painful
And of freckles, frank, unfeigned,
In spite of one gray hair—ing,
Life is fun!

In spite of bills which keep on coming
Every blooming cent I'm making,
And a bank account that's lacking,
Life is fun!

In spite of nerves which are aching,
I shall go right on saying
Life is fun!

The Woman and Her Job

[Questions concerning the problems of women will be answered in this column by Miss Watrous at The Times. Requests for personal replies must be inclosed by a stamped envelope.]

AS ONE WOMAN TO ANOTHER

Often I wonder if there are not more heroic deeds done in a simpler and more quiet way than those rewarded by the highest honors of a hero.

Mark Twain once told a story of a man who went to heaven. Wandering about the gold-paved streets he observed the buildings elaborately decorated. Presently he came to a stand, mopping his brow and adjusting his halo over his arm with a sigh of relief. The angel explained they were celebrating the arrival of one of the greatest men who had ever lived on the earth. The stranger looked at a number of famous men. Finally he shook his head; finally he revealed the man's name. The angel was astounded; never had he heard of the man. Then the angel began recounting the many virtues, the self-sacrifice, the nobility of character, the simplicity and courage to do what he thought his duty and never look back, this and much more of an obscure little tailor in a small town who was accepted in heaven as one of earth's heroes.

Only a young woman the other day recalled the Twain tale to me. She is one whose pathway must be strewn with flowers and whose feet, and whom the choir invisible should greet, as she read and recognized herself probably say: "Oh, nonsense!"

The story was told me by a friend. I do not know her name, nor does she know. The friend told me the tale greeted her and told her about her protege. I heard the conversation; when I was gone I heard the tale. My friend told me the girl was a stenographer whose mother is dead, and a younger sister at home to care for the household. Periods of intermittent work enable the young girl to buy simple clothes, but nb the burden of maintaining them is carried by the older sister.

Then there came to the place where the stenographer is employed a young woman to fill a vacancy, as I understand it. After a short time the latter's eyesight became impaired; a specialist pronounced an obscure trouble which always brings blindness. The girl had no family friends, no money. The stenographer did what was the obvious thing. She took her to her home. Other specialists confirmed the opinion of the first, swift and sure; then the verdict. Stricken by lack of funds, of friends, of a single ray of hope, the stenographer began to plan. She learned of a surgeon of great skill at the top of a professional ladder, a man whom she was as high as his feet.

Then she told her story. He looked into the stranger's eyes and said there was a chance—one chance; his fee would be a thousand dollars. Of course—there was when he might perform that delicate operation for her. It would be one of them.

He'd make no charge. But the patient was undernourished;; money was necessary for hospital expenses before and following the operation. So with her soul. She knew no one from whom she might borrow. But there were rich men in Los Angeles; some one of them must be kind. She elected a man widely known, owner of theaters, apartment-houses, and many other properties. He had much gold.

It is not easy for simply-dressed, modest-mannered young women without credentials to interview a man of gold. Secretaries see to that. It's especially difficult when the modest mannered young woman refuses to state the reason that brings her there. But persistence wins, and through a combination of circumstances Miss Stenographer at last found an opportunity to tell her story. Yes, the man of gold would help.

The great day came; they took the chance—that slim one in a million that would mean daylight or darkness for the stranger. After that there were days and days before the bandages could be removed; days that tortured the souls and tested the resourcefulness of the all-abiding human love with which those three women surrounded the girl; days when she prattled happily of what she would do when she could see again—and they knew that day might never dawn for her. Would she be able to see? Suppose—?

"The waiting must have been dreadful. What did you do?" my friend had asked.

"Pray, mostly; that's about all we could do," Miss Stenographer replied.

I haven't imagination enough to picture the joy of those women when they knew that the girl could see. I expect they clasped each other's hands, as women will; doubtless there were tears, very happy tears that one had come back from the land of shadows into the sun.

When my friend learned that the girl was sound and well, restored to usefulness, and had returned to work, she exclaimed her praise. But Miss Stenographer brushed it aside with indifferent hand.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Dear Mrs. E.: Lack of specific training is obviously your stumbling block. It is all very well to realize your adaptability and to believe that you can fit yourself into any environment. However, when you go to a business man he will ask you "What can you do?" He wants a specific answer. You must have become skilled in some particular line to make your entrance into commercial work. If you have not sufficient means to take training in some line, you should try to find employment in a department store as an apprentice. If you will tell me what you like to do I may be able to suggest some way to make a start with only a small cash outlay.

HAY FEVER—No. 1

Dear Dr. Peters:—

I have read with pleasure and profit your articles. I have said I have lost 10 pounds of fat, and I have taken off five inches from the waistline of my trousers belt, and I have crossed the ocean with less concern than many of other figures to whom I look as fat as that enemy of mine, avoirdupois, I have felt glad that one could mix humor with advice to make it more impressive. You have lots of things—all of them a cause of gratitude. But you say nothing to relieve my trouble us with anything that will keep, especially anything that will keep, when hay fever is just starting! ! ! ! ! ! ! ! ! ! Is it that when a few years ago I woke up and found myself sneezing times and with no apparent reason that I was able to get an answer when I telephoned you and you told me several miles from the ocean that I was not safe from them if they were there for the first time? Is it that there are no weeds, no trees, one near the house, and one lives in a 'resort' and one lives in a permanent.

Dear Doctor, I don't believe anybody knows much about it. I have tried everything. I have been at an altitude of 10,000 feet in the Colorado mountains and I have come every year to the ocean. I also believe that I ought to be with us, even as I am not Armenians and the Japanese will be perpetually grateful if I am asking you in the name of something new and

Is there one thing more. Why should a patient happy, even cheerful profane? And why when asthma arrives he knows he will die soon?

"F. R. W."

I received this letter and my comment is again this year because of the more expressive comments that came in and the treatment I gave. The letter gives the symptoms of hay fever. First, the attack comes on suddenly, without any warning, that it has no geographical limitations seems to be with it. Then it often is associated with

Now I will say that you are not the first you say that no one has told you anything about it. Others have been reading the work of several doctors who have put forth work on the subject and there is a great deal of it, and there is a reason for it.

Then is due to the absorption of pollen from the plants, in persons who have a susceptibility to it. Some have a high susceptibility and some a low. One attack, instead of developing an immunity, seems to make the person more susceptible.

This susceptibility may be caused by an unhealthy condition of the mucous membrane of the nose, or there may be no apparent reason for it. It seems in some cases there may be an inherited tendency also.

The pollens that seem most irritating are the rag weed pollens in the spring, causing the spring fever; and certain grasses, worm wood, chenopods, and docks in the fall. Some people have both the spring and the fall fevers.

There are some forms known as a typical form appearing in persons whose mucous membranes are sensitive to the dandruff protein of horses and other animals and the protein of coffee, dust, flour, etc. Those would have a perennial form and suffer more or less from hay fever during the year.

Tomorrow: More on Hay Fever.

My dear Fellowers:

When sending for material which we offer you, please remember to inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must inclose 10 cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible. Not over 300 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the columns as soon as possible, if they are of general interest. Don't forget the stamped, self-addressed envelope if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Less Laundry

In these days of high-priced laundries, we like to keep our table linen clean as long as possible. If only one spot of grease has fallen on the cloth rub the spot on both sides with French chalk. Then fold the cloth and put it away. When ready for next meal, brush off the chalk and the spot will have disappeared.

Baby's Medicine

It is very hard to give baby medicine when you are alone with him and tiny fists are allying. Try wrapping him in a blanket with his hands down by his sides and then give him the medicine. In all probability he will be crying by that time, so just hold his nose for a second and pour the medicine into his open mouth. It will all be over in a minute and he will have received the benefit of the entire dose of medicine, not just the part that did not spill.

SOCIETY

BY JUANA NEAD LEVY

A wedding of much interest to local society was that of Miss Pauline Jacobson, daughter of Mrs. Clara Jacobson of Hollywood, and Edward William Crell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Henry Crell of Seattle, Wash., the ceremony taking place at high noon Saturday in the Church of the Angels, Rev. George Davidson of St. John's officiating. The church and altar were beautifully decorated with a profusion of ferns and asters in the pastel shades and the bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Ellsworth F. Norton of Chicago. She wore a smart frock of fawn and kafir browns, trimmed in sable squirrel with chic hat to match, and she carried an arm shower of orchids and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Calhoun Jacobson assisted her sister as matron of honor, while Mr. Calhoun Jacobson was best man. Only immediate relatives attended the ceremony. After a wedding breakfast at the Ambassador, Mr. and Mrs. Crell left for an extended wedding trip by motor which will include Seattle and Vancouver, stopping en route in San Francisco and Del Monte, where they will witness the golf tournament. After November 1, they will be at home in the family residence 1928 North Mariposa avenue, Hollywood, during the absence of Mrs. Jacobson, who is planning a visit of several months in the north, before leaving for a trip to the Hawaiian Islands. Both Mr. and Mrs. Crell are graduated from the University of Washington.

Home Again

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Du Boise Simpson of Wilshire Place who, with their son Ernest Clark Simpson, have been enjoying a month's visit at Hotel del Coronado are at home again.

Visiting Classmate

Among the delightfully arranged affairs of the past month have been those given in honor of Miss Mary Morton of Oakland, who has been visiting her classmates from Mt. Vernon Seminary in Washington, D. C., Miss Frances Keach of the Gayiord, whose house guest she has been for several days, giving a dinner dance at the Biltmore, while Miss Margaret Martin of Arden Boulevard was hostess at a luncheon at the Biltmore last week in honor of the visitor. Miss Keach and Miss Morton were room-mates at the seminary. Miss Dorothy Fulton, who is leaving in a few weeks for Millbrook where she will resume her studies at the Bennett School, also entertained in honor of Miss Morton with a luncheon and theater party, while Miss Louise Macy of Pasadena, at whose home Miss Morton visited, presided at a dinner-dance at the Biltmore honoring her guest. Miss Morton is planning to return to her northern home Wednesday and in a few weeks will return to the national capital where she will finish her studies this year.

Sorority Luncheon

One of the enjoyable affairs of the week was the Chinese luncheon with which the Alpha Chi Omega Sorority of the University of Southern California entertained Saturday afternoon at their chapter house in West Thirtieth street. The decorations were effectively carried out in Chinese motif and covers were arranged for thirty-two guests. Bridge and mah jongg followed the luncheon.

In the North

Mr. and Mrs. William Irving Hollingsworth of Lafayette Park Place, with their son and daughter, William Irving, Jr., and Miss Flora Hollingsworth, are enjoying a trip in the north, motoring up to San Francisco and stopping en route at Santa Barbara and Del Monte. Miss Hollingsworth has just returned from a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Cordenio Severance in Minnesota.

Eastern Trip

Dr. and Mrs. William E. Dobson have returned to their home in Elden avenue, after a three months' trip through the East. They toured through New York State, Maine and Massachusetts and came home by way of the Panama Canal. Mrs. Dobson's cousin, Mrs. E. N. Stewart of Cohasset, Mass., accompanied them home and will be their house guest for an indefinite sojourn.

At Home

Mrs. William Mitchell Ruddock, who for the past six months has been touring Europe and the British Isles, has returned and with Mr. Ruddick will be domiciled at the Gaylord in Wilshire Boulevard. Miss Bernardine Robbins of Detroit, Mich., niece of Mrs. Ruddock, accompanied her aunt west and will make an extended visit here.

Dowdall-Preston

One of the charming brides of the Southwest is Mrs. Herbert Preston, who, as Miss Beatrice Dowdall, was one of the most popular members of the younger set. The wedding of Miss Dowdall and Mr. Preston took place in San Diego and was a complete surprise to their many friends, who had planned on a brilliant event in Los Angeles this winter. Mrs. Preston is the daughter of the late Judge and Mrs. Richard John Dowdall, and their home formerly was in Washington, D. C. Mr. Preston is a prominent young attorney of Los Angeles and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Preston. The engagement was announced in the early spring at a luncheon given at the Mary Louise by Miss Eleanor Smith, daughter of Mrs. Charles Fiske Smith of 161 Benton Way. Among those entertaining in honor of this popular young bride are Mrs. Arthur Preston, Miss Marguerite Dowdall, Mrs. William Schellenbach and Miss Lillian Merle Off.

Luncheon Party

Honoring Mrs. William Kemmler of New York, who is the guest of her parents, Col. and Mrs. Charles Rivers Drake at the Hotel Virginia in Long Beach, a delightfully appointed informal luncheon party was given Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. Paul Howard at her home in Rampart Boulevard. Autumn flowers and ferns adorned the luncheon table and covers were arranged for eight guests.

CHILI CON CARNE

Soak one cupful of red beans over night. Place in an iron pot half a pound of chopped fresh pork, fry out, add half a pound of chopped beef and one cupful of chopped onions; cook until the meat is well browned; add two tablespoonfuls of finely chopped salt pork, the soaked beans and two cupfuls of beef stock; cover the pot and cook slowly until the beans are soft; add a seasoning of salt, half a teaspoonful of paprika, and one tablespoonful of chili powder. Mix well and serve very hot.

COCOANUT LAYER PIE

Beat half a cupful of butter to a cream and beat into it slowly one cupful of sugar; beat smooth and beat in the well-beaten yolks of eight eggs and beat well. Sift one and three-quarters cupfuls of sifted flour with four level teaspoonfuls of baking powder and beat into the mixture with half a cupful of milk; beat smooth, add two teaspoonfuls of vanilla extract and pour into three buttered and floured layer cake tins and bake in a moderate oven. Cool and spread cocoanut filling between the layers and cover with cocoanut frosting.

COCOANUT FILLING

Mix in a double boiler one cupful of sugar, half a cupful of flour, and a small pinch of salt, pour onto these two slightly beaten eggs, mix well, beat in two cupfuls of scalded milk and stir and cook twelve minutes. Cool, beat in one teaspoonful of vanilla extract and spread between the layers, sprinkling the cream on each layer with part of a half a cupful of fresh grated cocoanut mixed with two teaspoonfuls of sugar.

COCOANUT FROSTING

Place in a small saucepan half a cupful of water and one and a half cupfuls of sugar; bring to a boil and boil until a little dropped from the tip of a spoon will spin a thread. Beat slowly into the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs, add half a teaspoonful of vanilla and beat until thick enough to spread. Cover the top and sides of the cake with this frosting and press over all half a cupful of grated cocoanut mixed with four tablespoonfuls of sugar.

BAKED HAM STEAK

Have the butcher cut a ham steak weighing about two pounds from the center of a good mild ham, pour over it boiling water and let stand ten minutes. Spread the bottom of an earthenware baking dish with sliced tart apples, sprinkle with brown sugar, lay on the ham steak, spread with mixed mustard and brown sugar, cover with sliced apples, pour over all sour milk and bake until the ham is tender.

No Thrill Like That

What power is greater, more alluring and blessing than the subtle mysterious sense of perfection conveyed by utter absence of odor? Where odor is, there is no beauty, no charm, no attractiveness. Yet no one escapes the cause of it, for perspiration is nature's vehicle for carrying out of the body certain wastes, poisons, that must be eliminated. Soap and water alone do not remove them thoroughly and odors come. Harsh liquids that choke the tiny pores and force the perspiration to retreat cause skin troubles and endless annoyance, for they often ruin whatever they touch. Creams that clog and leave traces of oil have had their day. But now as thousands know, science has produced IMMAC, which is a delicate, disappearing cream that rids all perspiration of its odor instantly, and the cream itself vanishes, leaves the skin perfectly natural and deposits no residue to stain or show trace of its use. To people all around you IMMAC is bringing relief from an age-old problem. New daintiness and fragrance you adore. Ask for it by name today.

LARRY LARRUPS THE BULL'S-EYE AT MILLER'S

By Grace Kingsley

"The Girl in the Limousine," as played by Larry Semon at Miller's, really should be called "The Boy in the Bedroomsine," as the matter turns out!

Incidentally, Larry has done so well with his first translation of stage farce to picture form, that we wish he would do a lot of them. He certainly has a flair for doing it—a difficult task at which most comedians fall dismally. He and Doug MacLean seem to be indeed the only comedians who have successfully translated stage farce into pictures. I don't remember this farce very well, but I do know that Semon has made a wow and wham of a picture.

Larry doesn't go on location in the bedroom scenes until rather late. He starts out with the two rivals for the heroine's favor at a tender age, and one of the cleverest bits is introducing the small boy who plays Larry's kidhood and imitates the comedian's mannerisms.

"The Girl in the Limousine" really is a wicket youth, who dresses in girls' clothes, luring trusting men into the machine, taking their money away from them, and throwing them out. This part is done with a lot of comedy. Poor Larry is a victim, too. The heroine has married the other fellow, and the bedroom scenes come along when Larry, finding himself in her room dressed only in satin pajamas as the result of having tried to rescue the wicked youth aforesaid from a man who is choking "her," is rewarded by having his clothes stolen. There are many funny complications here, with the girl's husband, of course, discovering Larry.

This is all very funny and very cleverly done. And there is an added sequence, piling on the joy, when, having been thrown out by the husband, Larry comes back to fight off some robbers about to steal the girl's jewels. This may sound like old stuff, but Semon's handling of it, with plenty of wild jazz comedy, makes it all seem new.

We haven't had any heavy discussions as to whether Larry is an "artist" or not. We just go on laughing and enjoying ourselves. I don't even know whether Larry thinks about it himself or not.

Naturally the word "limousine" suggests auto and motorcycle races, and Larry couldn't resist putting them in. Also there's a little custard-pie obbligato in one of Charlie Murray's scenes—maybe just to make Charlie feel at home.

And, oh, you Charlie Murray! How your clever, really droll, pantomime and mugging do register, whenever they give us a flash of you! How I wish they'd star you in a comedy of your own!

Neil Shipman appears in a little out-of-doors, beauty-and-the-beast drama, one of those things in which she feeds wild animals from her hands. This time, in one scene, she frolics with the skunks! This is a case which resigns us to the silent drama! The picture is effective and really beautiful, even if it isn't about much, showing some magnificent scenery of the Frozen North, where men are men, "and women are too," as somebody added, the other day. A dog hero rescues the girl.

If you like pour jazz screechy, you will like Art Landry's Band, for it is of the screechiest.

HOOT GIBSON FALL GUY IN CIRCUS FILM

I don't suppose an American will ever really outgrow the circus. So a circus picture always draws. It is doing it again this week at the Cameo, with Hoot Gibson starred in a picture called "The Sawdust Trail," the story of which was written by W. D. Pelly.

Hoot is of course the whole circus, though there is some good broncho-busting at that. But Hoot, as the boob, is busted, rather than buster.

As the rich man's son, who pretends to his parents to be sickly so as not to have to go to work in accordance with his father's ideals, but who is really a devil for activity when it comes to playing the ponies, human and equine, driving automobiles, and doing other daredevil things, and whom the shrewd family doctor dumps into a circus as a cure for his supposed ills, Hoot is the works. He drew laughter and applause yesterday.

Josie Sedgwick should have been known as one of the screen's great dramatic actresses. She may even attain that rank yet, as she is still young. Yet she hasn't scorned to play well the hokum role assigned her in this, of the man-hating, hard-riding Calamity Jane of the circus.

A bit of very bad taste, it seemed to me, was showing the hero, in his desire to tame her, putting out his foot to move her chair at table so that she would fall down. Even Petruchio wouldn't have done that! Certainly no well-brought-up young man would. But at that the stunt drew howls of laughter from some of the men in the audience.

Some day I hope to see a hero in an automobile hit by a train when he races it and then across the track right in front of the engine; I'm deadly sick of the stunt. Hoot does it again.

Hoot Gibson seems to have a big and enthusiastic following, especially among the men, and it was men mostly who crowded the Cameo yesterday.

William Nye as the strong man of the circus mostly kept his arms folded, I should think to make his arm muscles stand out. James Neill has played so many doctors in pictures that I should think that by this time he could cure almost anybody of almost anything.

HORSES PLENTY STILL

Star on Location Writes of Huge Herds on Range

"Thousands and thousands of horses, grazing on the plains near Pendleton, Or., refute the common American belief that the animal is about to become extinct," writes Marian Nixon, who is leading lady with the Universal Company filming "Let 'er Buck" at Pendleton.

Miss Nixon says that before she arrived in Pendleton, she shared the thought that horses were almost gone, due to the fact that so few of them may be seen in cities. Great herds of them soon convinced her of her mistake.

NEILAN'S LATEST NOW AT TALLY'S

"Tess of the D'Urbervilles," Thomas Hardy's famous classic, has been immortalized on the screen, and is now playing at Tally's Theater. Blanche Sweet has the title role, and her portrayal of Tess, the innocent victim of circumstance, will long be remembered for its tremendous dramatic appeal and sympathetic charm. Miss Sweet's position as one of the foremost actresses of the silversheet is now secure.

The role of Angel Clare is handled with instinctive delicacy by Conrad Nagel who has steadily forged ahead during the last year.

COURSE FOR CONTRACTORS

Norma, Back in "Secrets," Truly Great

Once more we have Norma with us.

It is a sweet and tender Norma in this "Secrets" of hers. She is more radiantly beautiful and attractive than ever before and her work is that of a complete master of drama. She is supreme, attaining a depth of expression and displaying a broad sweep of emotion that is truly splendid and great.

Like "Smilin' Through," she wears, in the first sequences, the apparel of our grandmothers, in which she shines so brilliantly. And she wears, too, the drab garb of the ranch woman.

Norma is seen in a variety of ages in "Secrets." She is the young girl, about to be married; later, the ranch woman; still later, the mother of four boys and girls, and finally, the old woman of 70 or 80. In each of her characterizations, she does equally well, though, of course, her most brilliant work is done as a young girl and a middle-aged woman.

"Secrets" is a story of married life, of the great love of a gentle woman for a husband, of the mysteries of secrets. The greater part of the action takes place in England, though there is an important sequence which occurs in the western country of the United States.

Eugene O'Brien plays opposite Norma and together they make a fascinating team. In support are Patterson Dial, Emily Fitzroy, Claire McDowell, Gertrude Astor, Winter Hall, Charles Ogle and others, each doing consistent work and playing splendid performances.

"Secrets" is Norma's triumph, a picture easily singled out as among the greatest, and which will long be remembered.

But Norma's success is not the only special feature on the program this week at Loew's State. Lipschultz, known as the "American Kreisler," appears, both leading the orchestra and playing special numbers on his violin. With every sweep of his bow flute-like notes float dancingly from the strings of his instrument. He, too, is superb and he enchants the audience with both classical and popular music.

Another "Fanchon and Marco Idea" is presented this week, favoring of the Spanish, and again Boyce Combe rollicks his listeners with laughter. From the first to the last, Loew's State's program is a most entertaining one and is well worth attending.

GUS AND FANNY

Orpheum Permits Fanny Another Week and Gus Edwards Comes

In one bill, Fannie Price and Gus Edwards and his revue, is what the Orpheum has to offer for today. All in all, it looks like one of the greatest aggregations of talent that theater ever had. Fannie will add a travesty on "Camille" to her other new numbers, using in it Joe Keno and Rosie Green as Armand and the nurse, these two being featured in the bill in their own act also. Gus brings a new aggregation of principals, three being boys headed by "Sandy" the others all being girls. Half a dozen of them have been "out" a season now, but the rest are "sub-debs' now making their stage bow. Gus has all of them trained to the final point, and promises a revelation in his 1924 edition of "The Fountain of Youth." Duci de Kerekjarto, the eminent violinist will still have Maurice Eisner at the piano. Keno and Green, already named, Hazel Johnson and Doris Walker, and the Skatelles are others to be seen on the same bill.

LOUISIANA MAN DEAD, WIFE IS SOUGHT HERE

Police aid was sought yesterday in an attempt to locate Mrs. Lottie Thistlethwaite of Washington, La., who is thought to be in a Los Angeles hotel or at Balboa Beach. Her husband, according to a telegram to the police, died in Louisiana Saturday. Detective Lieutenants Jones and Edwards were assigned to the case.

CRUZE HITS AGAIN

NEWEST PICTURE SHOWS HIM ONCE MORE AT BEST

By Edwin Schallert

The picture should be the thing. And this time it is. But the cast also helps immensely—even though it does not contain one name famous in the cinema electrics—to heighten the flare of "The City that Never Sleeps."

This is a regular picture, and if you feel the urge to be entertained, and to behold the unfoldment of a story that is bright with interest at all times, you won't want to be absent this week from Grauman's Metropolitan. The whole program is a winner, anyway, with Julian Eltinge doing his "farewell appearance" (hope he isn't emulating Bernhardt) and a youngster directing the orchestra in the overture and nearly stopping the show. Altogether it is a show worth seeing.

The film takes the chief attention, however, because it occupies the major portion of the bill, and is so genuinely above the average. Cruze hasn't done anything lately that quite compares. This is in an entirely different style, of course, from "The Covered Wagon" or "Ruggles of Red Gap." It is far ahead of the recent "Enemy Sex," which was largely wasted effort for him.

The story has just a slightly sordid angle, because it relates to a youngster reared in the old-time saloon. Both her father and mother are engaged in operating the emporium of conviviality and sustenance for those who desire a meal for the price of a drink.

The parents grow to feel that this is not the proper environment for the little girl, because every denizen of the bar tries to make a pal of her. The father is shot in a brawl, and his last expressed wish is that she be raised elsewhere.

While no very valid reason is given (and this is a weak spot) the mother decides that she must continue to run the saloon business after her husband's death, and so she seeks to have her child brought up in ignorance of her parentage.

The story takes up then after the enactment of the Eighteenth Amendment. The daughter is grown and the mother is proprietor of a cafe. The mother's plan has not worked out quite as effectually as it should have for the daughter. The home in which she was adopted goes in for a popular line of law-evading social indulgences, and the girl has grown up to be frivolous and spoiled.

There are neat ironies, and cleverness running all the way through the film. It is a cleverly told narrative, bustling right along. So little time is given even to penetrate the flaws of the picture that you cannot but derive enjoyment from nearly everything that transpires.

There is no haunting sorrow in what happens, but there are some touches of real pathos, and one of the best is where the mother encounters her daughter in front of her Fifth-avenue home, and unrecognized, is met by a saucy snippy little comment from the youngster. Another clever touch is where the daughter recognizes her mother as a result of a pistol shot that brings to mind the murder of her father when she was a child.

Cruze has really done much in this picture by presenting a cast of comparatively unfamiliar people, and enlisting your interest in them. He has made the personality of Louise Dresser stand out as particularly excellent in the role of Mother O'Day. Miss Dresser is destined, I believe, to become quite a presence in unusual mother roles as a result.

Virginia Lee Corbin is a pepful ingenue, just recently graduated from the kid star ranks. You may remember her from her work in pictures and in vaudeville as a child wonder. She has a girlishness now that is individual and charming, and a rather sparkling vein of comedy. Her only fault is that she becomes at times too much the conventional screen flapper.

Ricardo Cortez makes you like him as the villain immensely. He is, in some respects, the cleverest work in the picture. Pierre Gendron is also acceptable as a young reporter. Kathlyn Williams has dignity and poise that belong to a woman of the social world. She is immensely good.

Ben Kendricks is clear-cut and true in his portrait of the short-lived role of the heroine's father. James Farley and Verdell Darr are others listed in the cast.

Eltinge sings several numbers that are applauded enthusiastically. He can still give lessons to the ladies in wearing clothes, and he has personality plus. It is great to see him do impersonations in the clever high-class style that he alone seemingly can accomplish. This work of his is always in the best of taste, and it might be said that in this respect he is absolutely individual and unique.

FANNY AND LOU STAGE SURPRISE

To the complete surprise and whole-hearted delight of a capacity audience, Fanny Brice did two of her numbers in her inimitable style. Lou Holtz, famous black-face comedian, did some of his stuff and George McKay with his delightful dancing partner, Ardine, appeared for one number.

This inaugurates a plan of Carroll's to spring a number of surprise nights with visiting artists of the first rank as surprises. There will not be any special night of the week. There will be surprises regarding date as well as identity.

CELEBRATE STATE DAY

Former Residents of Indiana to Gather Today

Today is Indiana Day at the Mission Theater, where Gene Stratton Porter's story of Indiana folk, "A Girl of the Limberlost," is being shown as the feature attraction of a varied and pleasing program. Mrs. Porter's story holds especial interest for folks from the Hoosier State and hundreds of friends and former neighbors of the famous author have signified their intention of paying tribute to her by attending one of the performances today.

CHARGES DENIED BY MRS. PERIER

Files Reply to $250,000 Balm Suit of Mrs. H. C. May

Answer is Flat Contradiction of Entire Complaint

Denies She Was Ever Known as Countess Perier

Categorical denial of the charges that she had stolen the affections of Dr. H. Cameron May, Los Angeles physician and surgeon, was made in an answer by Marie J. Perier, daughter of Joseph Mesmer, pioneer capitalist and landowner, filed in reply to the suit for $250,000 damages brought against her by Mrs. Gertrude May, wife of the physician.

Mrs. Perier was sued under the name of "Josephine Mesmer Perier, also known as Countess Josephine Perier." In reply, Mrs. Perier said she had never been known as "Countess Perier," and asserted the plaintiff used her name thusly solely for "publicity purposes."

Mrs. Perier, according to Superior Court records, is the divorced wife of Henri Perier of Paris, an officer in the French army during the World War.

MRS. MAY'S COMPLAINT

In her complaint Mrs. May stated Mrs. Perier stole the affections of Dr. May, causing the latter to leave his wife and two children in July, 1922.

To these charges, Mrs. Perier entered a flat denial, declaring Dr. May never visited her except in the capacity of a physician and surgeon on a professional call. As a separate defense, Mrs. Perier denied that Dr. May and his wife had ever lived happily together and she alleged that if they separated it was due to their differences. She said she arrived at this conclusion from information taken from a deposition of Mrs. May given in connection with the case.

DIVORCED LAST FALL

Mrs. May secured an interlocutory decree of divorce from her husband last November. Under the terms of a property settlement, she was given the family home at 3979 Brighton avenue, the custody of the two children and $150 a month. Shortly after the filing of her alienation suit against Mrs. Perier, lunacy charges were preferred against Mrs. May on the ground she was suffering from hallucinations, but these were later dismissed by the county psychopathic authorities, following a hearing of the charges before the Lunacy Commission.

Mrs. Perier is represented in the alienation suit by Attorney John J. Craig, while Mrs. May's suit was prepared by Attorney Isador Morris.

With the filing of Mrs. Perier's answer, the case is now in a position to be set for trial.

SEEK BRIDE THOUGHT TO BE KIDNAPED

Police Scour Southland for Woman Menaced on Previous Occasions

A police hunt, extending over Southern California, was ordered yesterday to find Lucille N. Ingalls, 23-year-old bride of Robert J. Ingalls, of 1267½ East Sixty-seventh street, who disappeared Friday night under circumstances which are said to indicate that she was kidnaped.

Fear that she is in the hands of a kidnaping gang was expressed by the husband, who reported her absence to Detective-Lieutenants Casey and Holloway of University Division. On two previous occasions, he told the officers, attempts had been made to get possession of her.

Friday night, about 7 p.m., the husband said, Mrs. Ingalls, who is of Italian extraction, left their bungalow to telephone at the office of the court. After a short delay the husband went to the office to ask for her, and was told by Mrs. D. J. Regan, the landlady, that the girl had not been there.

Shortly after their marriage, in July, two men in a sedan stopped at their home while he was absent and told her that he had been injured at the Goodyear Tire and Rubber plant, where he was employed. They induced her to get in the car, but a neighbor woman prevented her from leaving.

Last week Ingalls and his bride were at Venice, eating in a cafe, when a stranger approached her during a momentary absence of her husband, and told her that a man outside wished to speak to her. She was about to step into a car at the stranger's request when Ingalls arrived and halted her, he said.

According to Mrs. Regan, the couple moved into a furnished apartment about four days ago.

ROW IS NAMED AID TO STATE COMMISSION

William E. Row of this city has been appointed assistant engineer of the State Railroad Commission. Mr. Row, who is a graduate of the Los Angeles Polytechnic High School, served a number of years in the engineering department of the Southern California Edison Company, followed by four years in China as construction engineer for Fobes Company, Ltd., of Shanghai. Upon his return to this country, he again entered the service of the Edison Company. He is a son of A. M. Row of 656 West Thirty-sixth street, this city.

NEW SCHOOL TERM OPENS HERE TODAY

Buildings and Teachers Ready for Host of Pupils to Take Up Studies

The public schools of Los Angeles will open this morning.

From the San Fernando Valley to the sea everything has been made ready for the enrollment of students and assignments to their classes. Many of the schools have new additions of from one to sixteen rooms, and it is hoped that few half-day sessions will be necessary.

Many of the new buildings have been completed, others will be finished within a few weeks, but pending their completion pupils are directed to report to the school they attended in June.

Evening high schools also will be open tonight. Tomorrow will be a holiday, which will be observed by evening and day schools alike.

High school students should report to the nearest high school. They will there be instructed as to the district in which they belong.

NEW PART-TIME HIGH BEGINS TODAY

The new Part-time High School on Sixteenth street, between Hill street and Grand avenue, will open this morning, as everything has been put in readiness for the four-hour-a-week pupils who formerly attended schools in the districts in which they live.

The new building is of concrete and brick construction, three stories high, with a foundation suitable for another three stories and provision for the installation of elevators.

Domestic science equipment is of the most modern type, the usual gas burner has been replaced by a gas range such as is found in the average kitchen; there is a dining-room in which the girls will be taught correct table service, as well as classrooms for the study of the theory of household arts.

UNDER ONE ROOF

The shops are housed under one roof. Electrical work, wood turning, sheet metal, are some of the subjects taught. The purpose is to give boys sufficient familiarity with various trades to enable them to make a decision. It is not intended that students in this school shall be fully trained in any trade.

A combination gymnasium and auditorium has been provided, as well as a large swimming pool, which will be under the direction of physical directors for both the boys and the girls.

More than 5200 students were enrolled in part-time high school work last year, and in the planning and developing of a centralized high school, which is under the direction of Vierling Kersey, assistant Superintendent of Schools, provision has been made for the kind of instruction best suited to the needs of young people who already have left school and entered the industrial or commercial world.

Sixty teachers will be in her charge of Part-Time High School, and the subjects taught are English in the most functional sense of the term; mathematics in the sense of accuracy, orderliness, understanding relationships between quantity and distance, as well as the fundamentals of simple arithmetic, which is a necessity in the world of commerce; geography in geographical relationships—area, population, productivity, rather than in the elementary understanding of the subject. There will also be a course in science which will acquaint students with problems in ventilation, heat, light and personal science as it affects their health in home or factory. Citizenship in the sense of regularity, co-operation, energy, enthusiasm, honor in relation to fellow-workers, as well as the mechanism of government and their relation to it.

The course of study covers two years and is in the hands of specialists in the teaching field, who are adapted to deal with the peculiar problems of these students who are required to attend school four hours a week.

STAFF OF LOYOLA LAW SCHOOL ENLARGED

With its staff of instructors augmented by the addition of several members of the local bench and bar, St. Vincent School of Law of Loyola College will begin its next session on Wednesday evening, it was announced yesterday by Rev. Henry Welch, president, and Rev. Nicholas P. Bell, vice-president of the college. Other college classes will begin on Wednesday also.

Registration already has begun. The first day twenty new students registered for the law college and the number has now reached forty. It is expected that by the time classes begin a large number more will enter.

Among those who have been added to the teaching staff are Judge Reeve of the Superior Court, who will be professor of moot court procedure; Judge Burnell of the Superior Court, who will be professor of constitutional law, municipal corporations and special remedies. Deputy County Counsel Moroney becomes professor of elementary law and personal property, Leon R. Yankwich, attorney, will be professor of common-law pleading, and code pleading and practice.

Public Defender Aggeler, who formerly was an instructor in the college, will return this year as professor of agency, bailments and carriers. Marion P. Betty, local attorney, will be professor of partnerships, sales and damages. Classes are held every evening, except Saturday and Sunday, between 7 and 9 p.m.

'CORPSE' BACK TO CLAIM LIFE

Court Breathes New Spirit Into Man Held Dead

Suicide Note and Dead Body Prove Poor Evidence

It was a narrow squeak for James W. Jackson—the legal James W. Jackson, that is—but it's all over now, and all's well that ends well, and all that sort of thing.

For by order of the Superior Court in and for Los Angeles county breath has been blown back into the body of the legal James W. Jackson, which had once by equally due process of law been declared a corpse, and the corporeal James W. Jackson is again a legal entity, a citizen and a freeholder.

Back in February, Jackson was disgusted with life. His wife had sued him for divorce, he would probably have to pay her alimony and his world was awry to that degree that he was ready to call it quits. So on the 28th of that month he went out to Santa Monica, wrote a farewell note, left it with his clothes on the glistening sands, plunged into the salt ocean, and set forth for Honolulu, Yokohama, the hereafter and points west.

HELD LEGALLY DEAD

On March 6 a body was washed ashore at Redondo Beach and identified as the vacated temple of the soul of James W. Jackson. Mrs. Alice Jackson, supposing the desired widowhood to have been attained, thereupon related the circumstances to the Superior Court, which issued an order declaring Jackson legally dead and terminating his life estate in the family home in Lynwood. It looked as if it was all over with James W. Jackson, and in the eyes of the law it was.

That was on April 2. Only three days later, however, disconcerting events began to occur. On April 5 Mrs. Jackson received a telephone call from a man purporting to be her husband. A little later there came a letter from Seattle in his handwriting. Mrs. Jackson already had began to suspect the situation and, when a short time ago an indubitable James W. Jackson appeared in propria persona in the office of her attorney, E. T. Sherer, and called upon the county clerk to protest against what he considered a premature legal making away with himself, she was persuaded she had been hasty.

LAW'S LABOR LOST

Back to the Superior Court she went, therefore, with a petition that the order declaring her husband dead be revoked. Judge Willis, of the Probate Department, concurred with her opinion that an error had been made.

Jackson's explanation was that he found the water of the Pacific pretty cold and extremely wet a few yards from the beach, thought better of his project, ported his helm and came back to the shore.

So there is on file today in the County Clerk's office an order of the court restoring to Jackson the benefits of legal existence, including his interest in the Lynwood home, and an entry in the register of actions closing Probate Matter No. 67042, Life Estate of James W. Jackson.

PICKWICK COMPANY SEEKS A REHEARING

PAYNE'S RIGHT TO PERMIT TO RUN STAGE LINE AGAIN TO BE CHALLENGED

Pickwick Stages, Inc., filed a petition with the State Railroad Commission Saturday for a rehearing of the commission's decision of August 27, last, which authorized Harry C. Payne to operate the Pacific Motor Express between Los Angeles and Temecula and intermediate points.

The Pickwick Company alleges that the commission's authorization is unlawful as it was not made through regular proceedure and deprived the complainant of protesting Payne's application at a public hearing.

According to the Pickwick Company they are now operating under franchise over the identical route between Corona and Temecula and intermediate points and their property rights will be damaged through the commission's sanction of Payne serving the territory.

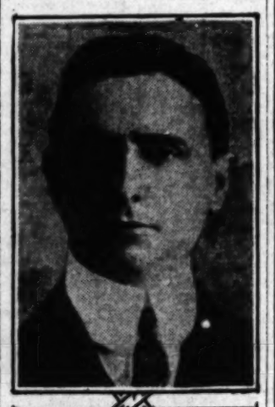
WIFE SEEKS MATE GONE ELEVEN YEARS



Samuel Joseph Anderson

Mrs. Frances Anderson of 213 North Olive street appealed to The Times yesterday for aid in locating her husband, Samuel Joseph Anderson, whom she has sought in vain since his disappearance eleven years ago.

At the time he vanished, Mrs. Anderson was left with a young daughter. The girl is now 15 years of age and joined in her mother's plea for assistance in locating her father.

Anderson is about 40 years of age now, his wife said. He is tall and slender and has dark brown hair and brown eyes.

ASKS BACK DEED GIVEN ON SICKBED

Mother Says Son Refuses to Tear Up Paper Executed When She Faced Death

Failing to die within the three-day period forecast by her physician, according to her complaint, Mrs. Ruey C. Henry James has brought suit against her son, David M. Jessee, and daughter-in-law, Florence Jessee, to set aside a deed to property she declared she executed in favor of her son when she was expecting momentarily to meet death.

Mrs. James, who said she is now convalescing from a long and serious illness, averred her doctor gave her three days to live on April 11, last. Accordingly, she said, and at the instance of her son, she executed a conveyance of her property to Jessee. The latter, Mrs. James asserted, agreed to destroy the conveyance if his mother did not die within the three-day period.

Contrary to the asserted agreement, the complaint continued, Jessee, instead of destroying the conveyance, had it recorded and forthwith occupied the premises and appropriated the rents. Mrs. James asked the court to set aside the deed and reconvey the property to her. Her complaint was prepared by Attorney Humphrey Marshall.

POLICE AND BURGLARS IN GUN BATTLE

One of Two Thieves is Hit But Both Get Away in Waiting Coupe

A dozen shots were exchanged early yesterday morning by Patrolman Lide of Wilshire Division and two burglars he surprised, while they were attempting to break into the rear door of the Pico Mercantile Company of 2767 West Pico street.

One of the burglars fell, apparently wounded, during the short battle but got to his feet and joined his companion in a small coupe in which they escaped, according to Lide's report.

The officer first noticed the two men as they crouched in an alley at Pico and Normandie streets. He watched them until they turned down the alley in the rear of the Pico Mercantile Company. Hurrying ahead when he lost sight of them, he was almost on them when one suddenly stepped out of the shadows and shot once. Patrolman Lide emptied his revolver and the two men returned the fire as he followed them out of the alley toward where their car was parked. They drove off with their lights out and Lide was unable to get the number of the car.

EL PASO TRIP PLANS READY

A full representation of business men and those merchants and manufacturers who are interested in the development of the Southwest territory, are expected to participate in the Chamber of Commerce excursion party which will leave here on Sunday, the 21st inst., to attend the International Fair and Exposition of the Southwest in El Paso.

An invitation from the El Paso Chamber, which is staging the fair, urged that the local organization form a party to attend the celebration with the delegations from Phoenix and Tucson.

In broadcasting the invitation to local merchants and manufacturers to appoint representatives to make up the Los Angeles delegation, the Chamber here points out that it will be to the advantage of local business interests to view the development of the territory as exploited in the exposition and at the same time become acquainted with their customers in the Southwest.

Products of Texas, New Mexico and Arizona will be exploited in the exposition and the departments of the exposition will be divided into agriculture, mining, live stock, poultry and egg industry, automobile, industrial, art (both amateur and professional,) public school, floral, domestic science, home economics, Red Cross and old books and manuscripts.

Among the features of the entertainment during the exposition are eleven bands, including President Obregon's own Tripica Orchestra of forty pieces, which will make its first appearance outside of the borders of the republic; fireworks, tennis and golf tournaments for the Southwest championships, motorcycle and bicycle races, massed vocal choruses of local and professional talent, pole games between army teams, airplane exhibitions, military reviews and boxing at Fort Bliss.

According to the itinerary planned for the local delegation, the party will leave this city from the Arcade Station on Sunday morning, September 21, at 9 a.m., joining the Tucson and Phoenix delegations that evening. The train will arrive at El Paso Monday morning at 8:40, allowing the visitors to spend the entire day there and leave El Paso at 9:15 Monday evening, arriving in Los Angeles at 7:50 p.m. Tuesday.

CAPT. M'DOWELL RETURNS

Local Police Official Inspects Great Cities of East and Says Los Angeles Measures Well

Mark Twain, in his tramps abroad, had nothing on Police Inspector James McDowell, who returned recently from a nine weeks' trip covering 15,000 miles throughout the East and Middle West.

Mark Twain with his observant eye, analytical mind, and humorous flow of ink, told of what he saw of the ways of progress in a book. Inspector McDowell, the only Irish captain on the local police force, in his own witty, manipulation of the typewriter has set down similar views in a lengthy report. Much of it contains interesting comparisons of Los Angeles' traffic conditions with those of eastern cities.

For instance, after describing the surface traffic of New York as swift and regular as the result of a large number of police officers employed on the corners, Capt. McDowell says of the subways, "The subway system is a wonderful thing, the trains are so swift. You have to know where you are going if you get on an express train, or before you know it you will be miles from home. They run these express trains so fast that you cannot see the names of the stations. My advice to strangers riding down there is to take the local. They stop every five or six blocks and you have time to sit down."

VISITS PHILADELPHIA

Returning West from New York, Inspector McDowell next stopped at Philadelphia. He continues on his typewriter: "Philadelphia is a fine city, but a one-way city. The streets are so narrow two cars cannot pass on most of them. The street cars all go one way. They go around and around, and I do not know how they get out into the suburbs, but they get there."

Washington was his next stop. "Washington," he says, "is a great place for fine buildings. Their complaint about traffic is that traffic officers stand on a bar and turn the sign by hand. They also have umbrellas over them, not having the climate the boys have here."

Chicago, says Inspector McDowell, is not a safe city for pedestrians. "On one fine big boulevard," he narrates, "they have four different police departments and they all have different regulations. A stranger on foot has no chance to get anywhere without several sets of regulations. In the congested districts traffic is impeded by the old two and four-horse-drawn vehicles blocking the corners."

"Detroit," says the inspector, "is the finest city I was in. They have a fine police department and are respected by the citizens."

After visiting Buffalo, Utica, Toronto, Can.; Vancouver, Seattle and Portland, Inspector McDowell returned home with the [illegible] "that Los Angeles has a department that will measure up with any in the country."

In conclusion, the [illegible] "Well, it was a fine trip. I treated fine. And I saw great sights. They have a great civic centers in the East, I'll tell the world that I'll be back with the boys, and that conditions here are not any worse than they are elsewhere."
